• The $50 million Frank H. Kenan Football Center is one of the most impressive structures of its kind in the country. The four-level structure houses the Carolina Football program, including the coaches' offices, locker rooms, weight room, training room, equipment room, players' lounge, computer labs, academic study areas, a 100-seat auditorium, theater and Hall of Honor.

• "We are in an era when football facilities represent how committed a program is to being one of the best. At North Carolina, I expected the Smith Center to be one of the best for basketball and it is. What surprised me was how outstanding the new football facility is. They certainly have a top-notch facility. When I walked away from Chapel Hill, I was totally impressed. Now I judge every other facility against Carolina's because I think they have the best in the country."

— ESPN Gameday Analyst Kirk Hirstreit

• Following the 1997 season, nearly 2,000 permanent seats were installed in the lower level of the stadium in the west end zone, bringing Kenan Stadium capacity to 60,000.

• "Kenan Stadium has always been one of the prettiest places to spend a Saturday in the fall. Now, with the Frank H. Kenan Football Center, it is also one of the most impressive places to work each day. This building is unmatched in college football and shows the type of commitment the people of North Carolina have to sustaining an outstanding football program. Our coaches love it, our players love it and the former players who have been through it are proud of what they helped build."

— Head Coach Carl Torbush

Media relations for football: Coordinated by Steve Kirschner, Director of Media Relations for Football and Men's Basketball, and Kevin Best, Assistant Media Relations Director. Please direct interview, information and photo requests to either Kirschner or Best.

The University of North Carolina Athletic Media Relations and Sports Information Office is located on the main level of the Dean E. Smith Center, less than one mile from Kenan Stadium. Parking is available in the lot behind Koury Natatorium and can be accessed from Skipper Bowles Drive. Enter the building via the sidewalk which runs between the Smith Center and the Natatorium. The office is on Level 2 directly across the hallway from the men's basketball office.

Credentials: Requests for working press credentials at Carolina home football games should be made in writing on station/newspaper/magazine letterhead to Rick Brewer in the Carolina Athletic Media Relations Office. The mailing address is P.O. Box 2126, Chapel Hill, N.C. 27515. Requests may be sent via fax, but all requests, mailed or faxed, should be sent so that they reach the Media Relations Office at least one week prior to the game.

Because of the demand for credentials, media agencies which cover Carolina and the visiting school on a regular basis will receive top priority. Other credentials will be issued on the basis of circulation and the availability of space. Credentials will be mailed if at all possible. Otherwise, they may be picked up before 5 p.m. on Friday at the Media Relations Office. Those credentials not picked up by 5 p.m. on Friday will be left for Saturday pickup at Kenan Stadium Will Call, which is at Gate Six (6), directly behind the press box. Will Call opens two hours prior to kickoff.

Press Box Services: Programs, flip cards, statistics and notes will be provided before each game. A play-by-play will be distributed at the conclusion of each quarter. Halftime statistics will also be available. Complete team and individual statistics, a scoring summary and coaches' quotes will be provided after the game. A meal will be served before each game. Soft drinks, coffee and snacks will be available throughout the game.

Sideline Policy: Photographers will not be allowed on the sidelines without an armband. Armbands can be picked up in the press box 90 minutes prior to each game. Each photographer must sign in for his/her own armband. Under NCAA and Atlantic Coast Conference guidelines, photographers are not allowed between the 25-yard lines and must remain outside the restraining lines surrounding the field. Credential holders not working will be asked to leave the sidelines. Assistant Director of Media Relations Kevin Best will be on the field to handle any questions and serve as field liaison to the press box officials. We ask for the safety of others please do not leave equipment unattended on the sidelines. If you are shooting with a tripod, please keep a safe distance from the playing field.

Gameday Parking: Press parking at Kenan Stadium is available on an extremely limited basis. Requests for parking passes should be made well in advance to Rick Brewer. Parking passes tend to run out quickly and the Media Relations Office has parking available in just two areas.

Parking is located in the lot on the corner of Gravely Drive and Manning Drive or the parking deck diagonally across the street from that lot. Either location is a five-minute walk from the press box.

Postgame Interviews: Following a brief cooling off period, requested UNC players will head directly to the interview area in the Frank H. Kenan Football Center for a 20-25 minute interview period. The Tar Heel locker room is closed. Representatives from the Media Relations Office will walk through the press box midway through the fourth quarter and take player requests from the media. On-field media should direct interview requests to Kevin Best or Steve Kirschner either in the last five minutes of the game or immediately after the game.

Head coach Carl Torbush will conduct a short interview with Woody Durham for the Tar Heel Sports Network's live broadcast while the players are in the interview area. Approximately 15 minutes after the players have begun their interview period Coach Torbush will begin his postgame press conference in the auditorium on the second floor of the Football Center.

After night games, Coach Torbush and the players will be available simultaneously due to deadline demands. Quotes will be gathered from both Coach Torbush and several players for distribution in the press box. Away game procedures will vary, depending on available facilities.

Please note: Coach Torbush will conduct a short post-game interview with the Tar Heel Sports Radio Network. After night games, great care will be taken to get Coach Torbush to the general media as quickly as possible. We understand everyone has deadline pressures after late games and will do our best to provide access to Coach Torbush as quickly as we can.

Phones: The Department of Athletics furnishes a number of telephones along press row for writers to transmit stories. There is a bank of phones stationed along press row. All long distance calls must be by credit card, collect or billed to a third number. Anyone desiring a private phone should contact Southern Bell at least two weeks prior to the game. If you are calling from within the 919 area code dial 780-2800. However, if you are calling from outside the 919 area code, then you must dial 1-800-919-2800.

Note: the on-campus building number for the press box at Kenan Stadium, for which you will be asked, is #519. Rick Brewer should be listed as the stadium contact for placing the phone.

The Carolina Media Relations Office has one fax machine that will be available for filing. Writers should make a representative of the UNC Media Relations Office aware of their fax needs prior to the end of the game.

Interviews with Coach Torbush: Carl Torbush will meet with the media at 11 a.m. each Tuesday of gameweeks. Torbush will meet with television stations from 11 to 11:20 a.m. and with other media from 11:20 to noon. Out of town media may access the final 40 minutes of the press conference by phone. Torbush will conduct TV interviews on the balcony outside his office on the fourth floor of the Football Center. The subsequent press conference will be in the hospitality room on the fourth floor of the Football Center.

A teleconference-style phone line will also be available at this time. If you cannot be in Chapel Hill during Coach Torbush's press conference, you can listen and ask questions, time permitting, by using this service. Contact Steve Kirschner for the phone number and operating instructions.

Interviews with Torbush at other times during the week can be set up by contacting Kirschner or Becky Medford, Torbush's secretary in the football office. If he is unavailable at that time, he will make every effort to return the call as soon as possible. Staff meetings are conducted during the morning. Medford's number is (919) 962-9144.

Torbush is also available on the weekly ACC Teleconference on Wednesdays at 11:30 a.m. Contact Brian Morrison at the ACC or Kirschner for the phone number.

Torbush will also be available via teleconference for 15 minutes on Sundays (after games only) at 5 p.m. Contact Kirschner for the number.

Torbush will also be available after practice Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday for 10 minutes. Tuesday and Thursday practices are open to the media. On Wednesdays, please wait outside the practice field until the gate is opened.

Player Interviews: All player interviews should be arranged through Steve Kirschner or Kevin Best in the Media Relations Office. Players have been instructed to conduct no interviews unless they have been set up in this manner. The interviews will generally be at the conclusion of practice at the practice field or Football Center. All interviews are to be conducted on Tuesday and Wednesday only.

Each week at least one player will be made available at the Tuesday press conference.

Telephone interviews are conducted at the player's convenience. Usually they are handled by players returning calls immediately after practice on Tuesday or Wednesday (approximately between 6:30 and 7:30 p.m.). No home numbers for players will be given out and players have been told not to accept calls from anyone asking football-related questions.

Please do not show up and wait for players unannounced on campus, at players' housing or the Football Center. The players have been instructed to politely decline the request and refer the person to the Media Relations Office.

Players may do taped radio interviews but will not be available for live call-in radio shows.

Note: Due to the overwhelming number of all-sports radio talk stations, players will generally not be available to appear on these shows. Home-town stations, stations in that week's opponent's market or national shows may be accommodated. Internet sites requesting interviews must be legitimate media sites and interviews will be granted at the discretion of the Director of Media Relations.

Practice Coverage: Subject to change, Carolina will practice each Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday beginning at 4 p.m. on the practice fields located directly across the street from the baseball stadium and adjacent to the UNC School of Law.

Practice is open to the media on Tuesday (4 to approximately 6:15 p.m.) and Thursday (4 to approximately 5:15 p.m.). Players and coaches are available to meet with the media after practice on Tuesday and Wednesday. On Wednesday the media will be allowed to enter the practice field once practice is over.

Once the team goes into pads in the fall, photographers (still and video) will be allowed to shoot only warm-ups, stretching drills and the first six periods of work (30 minutes). Team meetings after practice are private and are not to be taped nor microphoned.

Once the school year starts, practice generally begins with stretching exercises at 3:45 p.m. and the first period of drills at approximately 4 p.m. The team, in general, does only light running and stretching on Sunday and does not practice on Monday, except after an open date.

FaxBack Service: The ACC and its member institutions provide statistics, schedules, notes and releases on a fax-on-demand service. Each school places full postgame boxscores and play-by-play on the service and updates its football release by no later than 5 p.m. Monday afternoon. This is a media information service. Phone numbers are not to be distributed to the general public. If you wish to use this service, please call the Media Relations Office or the ACC Office for further information.

File numbers for Carolina information are as follows: Tuesday release, including notes from the previous game, a preview of the upcoming contest, injury updates and statistics (file #61050, available Tuesday by 12 Noon); pregame notes (file #61051, available Friday afternoon by 1 p.m.); team statistics (file #61052, available Sunday afternoon by 3 p.m.); complete box scores with team and individual statistics, scoring summary, play-by-play and postgame coaches' quotes (file #61053, available as soon as possible following the completion of the game); 1998 schedule and rosters (file #61054, available at any time).

Internet: Information on the Tar Heels may be found on the World Wide Web at "http://tarheels.unc.edu". Pregame releases, statistics, coaches' and player profiles, general news releases, etc. will be posted to this site.

DIRECTIONS TO PRESS PARKING (access only with authorized parking pass)

From Eastern North Carolina and/or Raleigh/Durham International Airport: Take I-40 West to Chapel Hill. Stay in the left or middle lane because the road about five miles past the airport and the right lane heads towards Durham. Stay to the left and follow I-40 West to Exit 273-B. Signs marking this exit are marked in any of the following ways: UNC-Chapel Hill/Carrboro, Kenan Stadium - Dean E. Smith Center, 54 West. Exit 273-B is a right-hand exit. Stay straight on 54 West for approximately three miles. Exit right onto Route 15-501 South/54 West and follow for one mile. Turn right at the traffic light onto Manning Drive. Follow up the hill, stay straight through the intersection (Smith Center will be down the hill on your left) and turn right at the next traffic light. That is the intersection of Manning Drive and Gravelly Drive. An attendant will check for your pass and allow you to turn into the lot.

From North of Chapel Hill: Take I-85 South to Durham. I-85 will split at exit 174. The right-hand lane takes you to I-40 and Greensboro. Stay in the left-hand lane and take exit 174 (a left-hand exit) for 15-501 South. Stay on 15-501 South all the way to Chapel Hill. Stay to the left on 15-501 Bypass until you turn right onto Manning Drive. See above.

From Charlotte and West of Chapel Hill: Take I-85 North to I-40 East. 85 and 40 split in Hillsborough, just west of Chapel Hill. Take I-40 to exit 270 and exit onto Route 15-501 South. Stay on 15-501 South all the way to Chapel Hill. Stay to the left on 15-501 Bypass until you turn right onto Manning Drive. See above.

From South of Chapel Hill: Take I-77 North to I-85 and then follow the same directions as from Charlotte. Or take I-95 North to I-40 West. 95 and 40 converge just north of Benson, N.C. Then take I-40 all the way to Chapel Hill and follow the directions from the airport. See above.

As Carl Torbush embarks on his first full season as Carolina's head coach it would be easy to say that it is a "New Era" in Chapel Hill. Except that would be too trite and simply not entirely accurate. Although it will be the Tar Heels' first time through the Atlantic Coast Conference wars with Torbush calling the shots, the 46-year-old East Spencer, N.C., native has spent the last 10 years here putting together one of the top defenses in the country at Carolina.

He was here a decade ago when any win at all helped a fledgling program make an impression on hot-shot recruits. He was here six years ago when the Tar Heels made the first of six straight bowl game appearances and then dipped into the national pool with an eye-opening win over Southern California, one of the nation's most storied programs. Torbush was here the last two years, building, encouraging, and rallying one of the country's stingiest and most feared defensive units that led Carolina to 21 wins and a pair of Top 10 national finishes.

Thus, while it may be "new" in some aspects — Torbush will likely be more hands on with this team than his predecessor — Carolina is likely to reap the benefits of a stable and smooth transition. Five of the nine assistant coaches on staff the last two years return this fall and two of the five newcomers, wide receivers coach Darrell Moody and tight ends coach Terry Lewis, have spent a combined 12 years on previous UNC coaching staffs.

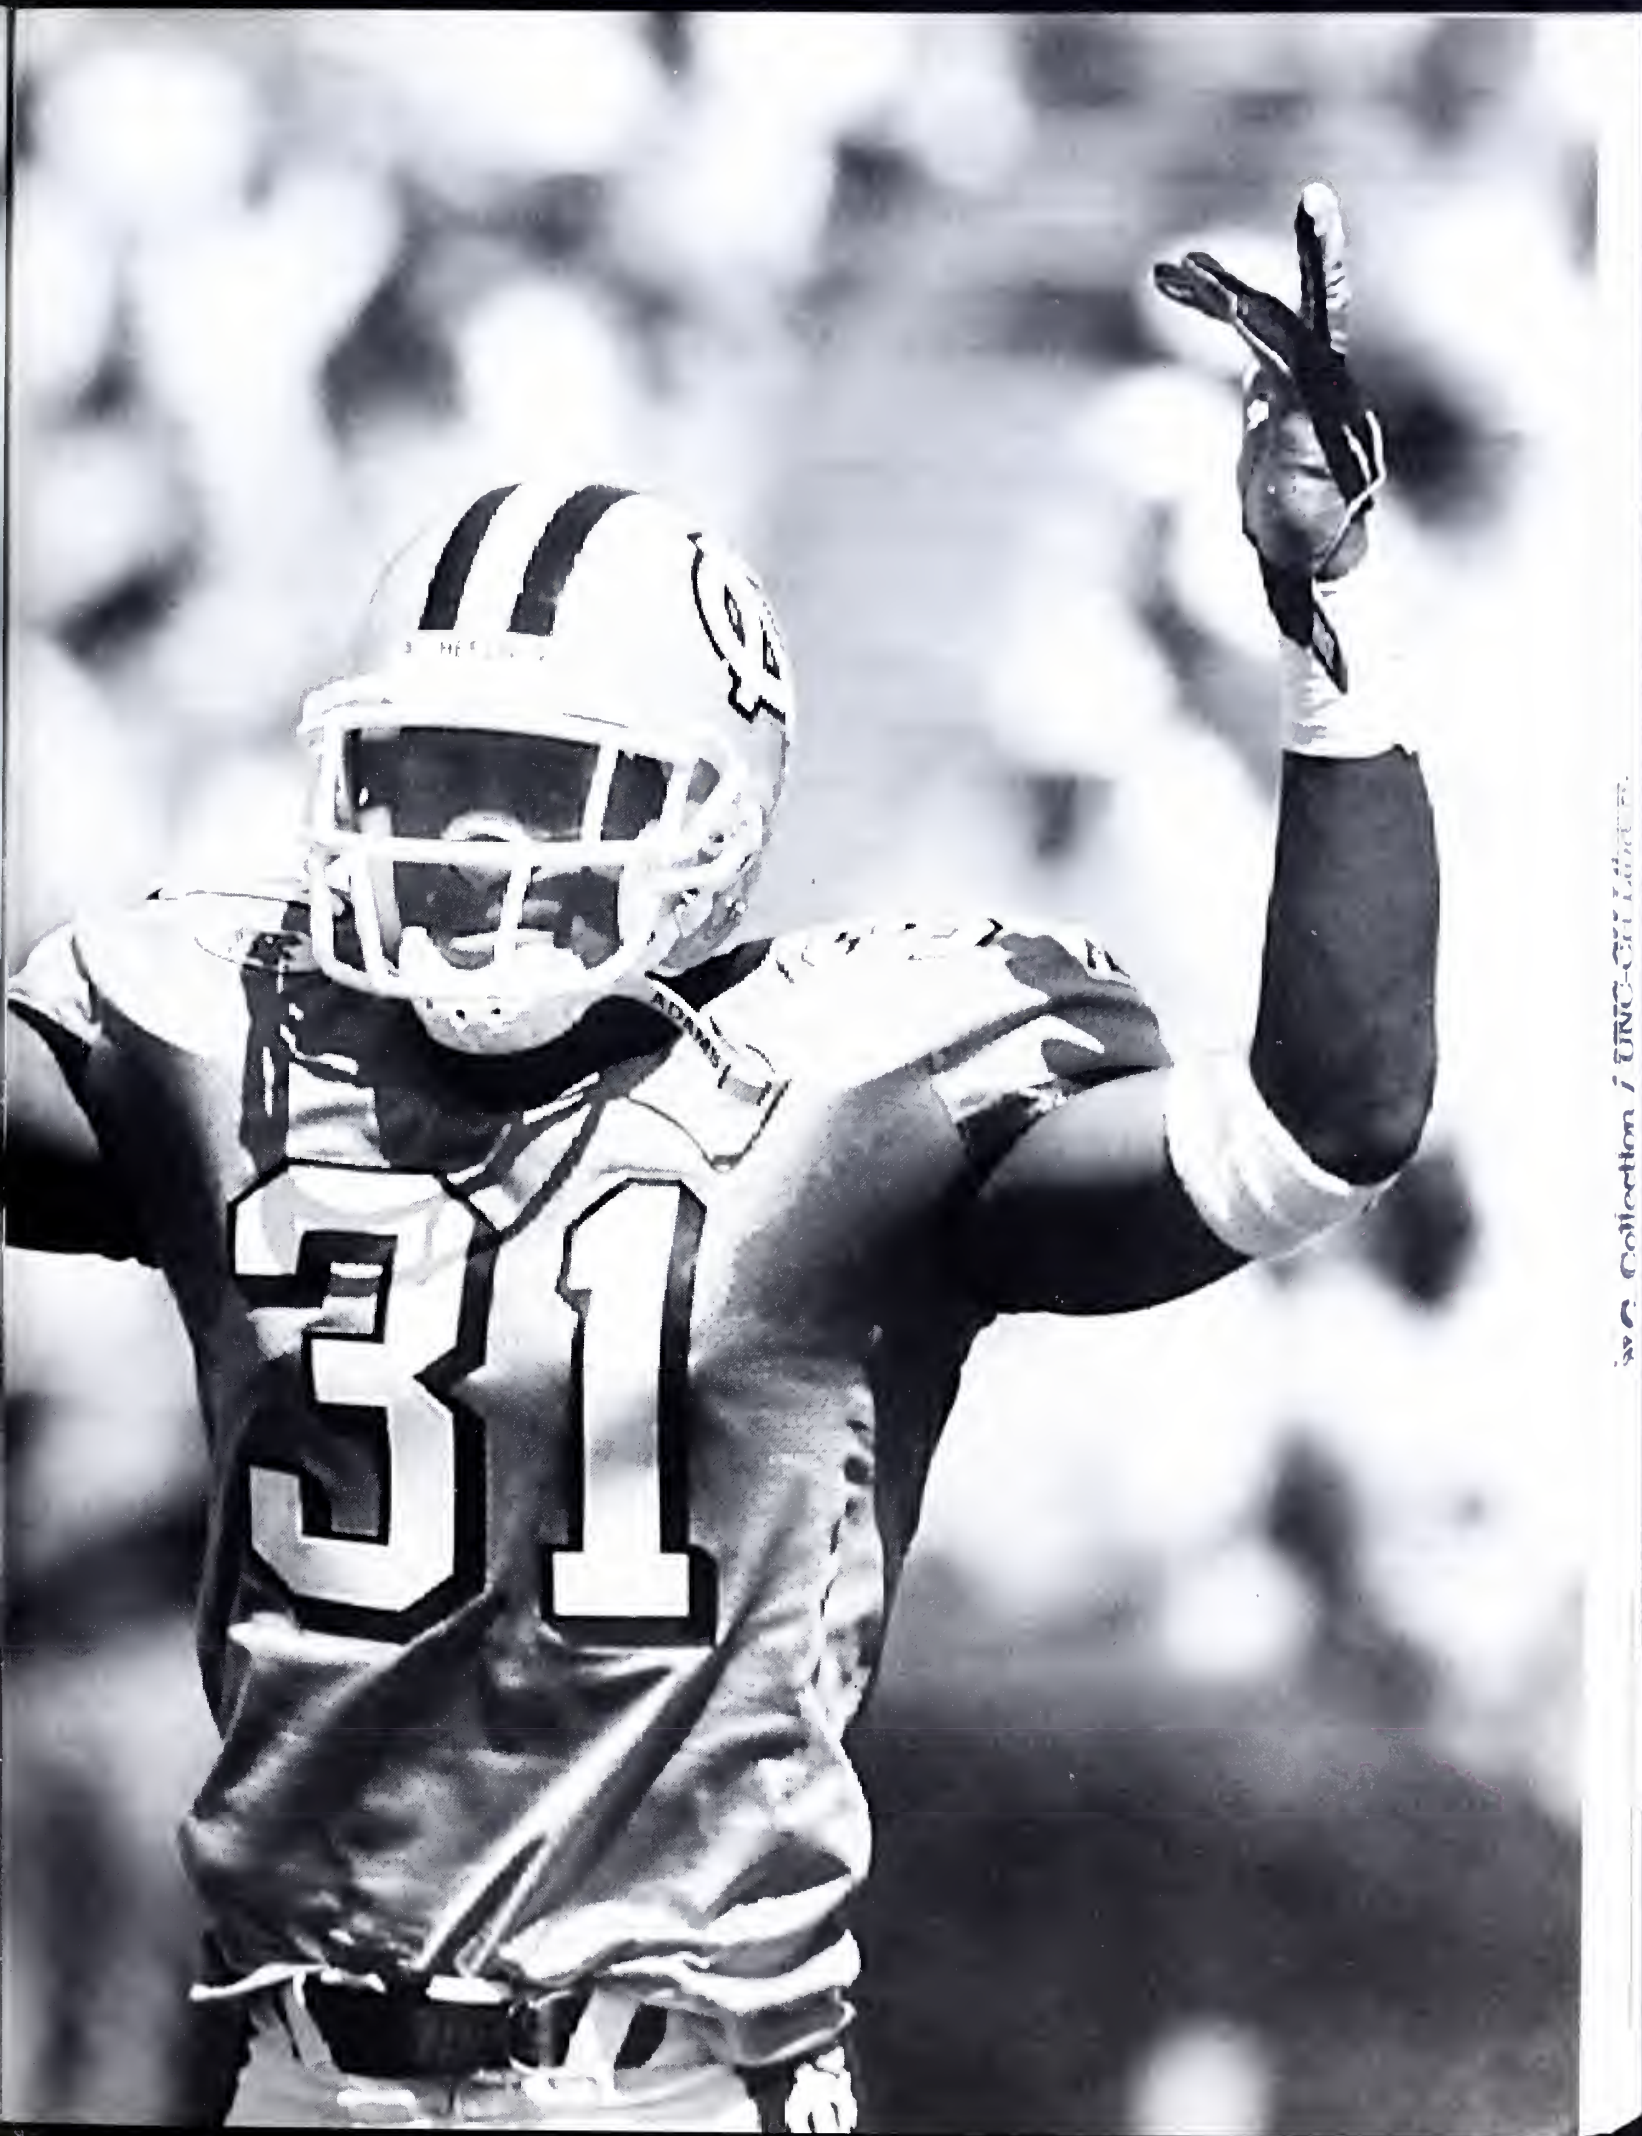

The three coaching newcomers to Carolina Blue —

Dre' Bly

Consensus Two-time All-America cornerback headlines one of the nation's best defensive units

Bly could become the fifth NCAA player in the second half of the century to earn consensus first-team All-America honors three times (UCLA linebacker Jerry Robinson, UCLA safety Kenny Easley, Pittsburgh defensive end Hugh Green and Georgia tailback Herschel Walker accomplished the feat) offensive coordinator and offensive line coach Steve Marshall, linebackers coach and special teams coordinator Ken Rucker and quarterbacks coach Jim Hofher – made an immediate impact in the spring with a dash of enthusiasm, spirit and intellect. Marshall brought with him a wealth of experience garnered the last few seasons at Tennessee, UCLA and Texas A&M; Rucker also was an Aggie last year and played alongside Torbush in college; and Hofher came to Chapel Hill from Cornell where he was head coach for eight seasons.

Torbush will maintain his duties as defensive coordinator and for good reason. Two years ago, he built a defense that finished second in the country in total yards allowed and he was named the National Defensive Coordinator of the Year. Many thought it impossible to top the defensive statistics the Tar Heels posted in 1996, but last year Carolina did just that. The Tar Heels yielded a paltry 209.3 yards per game, again second-best in the country and the lowest by any ACC defense since 1963. Torbush's defense was the only one in the country to be ranked in the top five in in total yards, rush, pass and scoring defense; was the only defense to have finalists for the Lombardi (best lineman), Butkus (best linebacker) and Thorpe (best defensive back) Awards; and had three players selected in the first round of the 1998 NFL Draft.

Torbush will be the first to admit that schemes and gameplans work best with experienced, fast athletes and the 1998 Tar Heels have the latter but are a bit shy on veteran players. There should be at least six new starters on offense and seven on defense. Carolina's nine returning starters are the fewest in the ACC. Fortunately, many of the players who should earn starting jobs have played in reserve roles in the past or are talented newcomers simply in need of gameday opportunities.

The 1997 season was one of the most successful and exhilarating in Carolina football history with 11 wins, including a Gator Bowl victory, and final national rankings of No. 4 in the coaches' poll and No. 6 in the Associated Press poll. The personnel losses are dramatic, however, led by the three defensive stalwarts who were selected in the first round of the NFL Draft – defensive end Greg Ellis, linebacker Brian Simmons and tackle Vonnice Holliday. Leading tackler Kivuusama Mays, cover corner Robert Williams and safety Omar Brown were drafted and safety Greg Williams was a free agent signee. Those seven players started virtually every game the past two seasons. Offensively, Carolina also loses several veteran standouts, including two-time All-ACC center Jeff Saturday, 1,000-yard tailback Jonathan Linton, quarterback Chris Keldorf, wide receiver Octavus Barnes, four-time bowl game starter at guard Mike Hobgood and tight end Alge Crumpler.

Keldorf was the first-team All-ACC quarterback in 1996 and set the school record for touchdown passes with 35 in just two seasons. Barnes established the UNC record for career touchdown catches with 19 and that figure did not include the four he snared in bowl games.

The one personnel loss that was not anticipated was Crumpler, who would have been a viable preseason All-America candidate until he suffered a season-ending knee injury in spring practice. Crumpler had 24 receptions last fall and would have been a key player as UNC rebuilt its offensive line.

Headlining Carolina's returning starters are junior cornerback Dre' Bly and senior quarterback Oscar Davenport.

Bly, a 5-10, 195-pound junior, is the most decorated football player in Carolina history and is a candidate for the Heisman Trophy. Bly, who has intercepted 18 passes in his career (including two in a bowl game that do not count toward his official total), is the only Tar Heel football player to earn consensus first-team All-America honors in two seasons. Bly has been instrumental in Carolina finishing No. 2 in the country in total defense in each of the past two seasons. His ability to play tenacious man coverage has allowed the rest of the defense to play an aggressive, physical style.

Bly intercepted 13 passes, including two in postseason, as a freshman, and had five last year. He is one behind the alltime ACC record that is held by five different players. The Chesapeake, Va., native has been a finalist for the Thorpe Award in each of his first two seasons.

"Dre' is one of those players that you don't get the pleasure of coaching very often," says Torbush. "He is a gifted athlete who worked hard to become an outstanding cornerback. He has great hip flexibility, closing speed and understanding of what we ask him to do. Those attributes make him a good player. What makes him a great player are his instincts for the ball and his exceptional hands. He catches it like a wide receiver and he has a knack for when and where the quarterback is going with the ball. Not every great athlete has that, but Dre' does. He gambles and sometimes can look like he is going to get beat, but then his great closing speed puts him back in position to make plays."

Davenport, a 6-4, 190-pound senior, is the career pass completion percentage leader at Carolina and was the Tar Heels' Most Valuable Offensive Player a year ago. He earned that award despite not playing in the final two regular-season games or the bowl game due to an ankle injury he suffered on November 8th against Florida State. Davenport is smart, runs well, makes good decisions and has a very strong and accurate arm.

Stanford with a game-winning, fourth-quarter drive in week two and took over as the starter the next week. The St. Petersburg, Fla., native completed 115 of 183 passes for 1,380 yards and seven touchdowns. He completed 62.8 percent last year and holds the UNC career mark at 63.7 percent. He also led UNC to a come-from-behind win over Virginia after the Tar Heels trailed by 17 points and had 360 yards passing in the win at Georgia Tech.

"Davenport has proven he is a great quarterback and a winner," says Torbush. "He has produced at this level before and is confident he can again. Oscar is the key to how we do offensively. He has the ability to take the game over. He has great quarterback skills, is a very good athlete who can avoid getting sacked and still get 15 yards downfield. He's definitely the type quarterback all defenses worry about."

Davenport will quarterback an offense featuring several other all-star candidates, including senior wide receivers Na Brown and L.C. Stevens and junior wide receiver Jason Peace.

Brown set the single-season record for receptions by a Tar Heel in 1997 with 55 receptions. Two years ago, he grabbed 54 passes; he is the only player in UNC history to catch 50 or more passes in more than one season. The Reidsville, N.C., native has 110 career catches, the fourth-highest figure in school history. He has eight touchdown catches and averages better than 10 yards per play. He was fourth in the ACC in catches in 1997 with 5.0 per game.

Stevens has the potential to be one of the top big-play threats in the country. The Clinton, N.C., native has 94 career receptions and has 11 touchdowns. He averaged 15.0 yards per catch as a freshman, 17.5 as a sophomore and 16.2 as a junior. Stevens is fifth in UNC history in receiving yardage with 1,588, sixth in touchdown catches and eighth in total receptions. Stevens has made three of the eight-longest touchdown catches in Carolina history and has five career 100-yard games. At Clemson last year, Stevens led the Tar Heels to their first win in Death Valley in 17 years as he made three catches for 169 yards to set up all of Carolina's points.

Peace, a junior from Durham, N.C., caught 32 passes and scored two touchdowns last year, only his second playing the position. He is Carolina's best receiver in getting yards after catches and continues to get better with every practice. This is just his third season playing the position after being a standout quarterback at Northern High School.

"Oscar Davenport and our top three wide receivers have been in the wars," says Torbush. "Brown and Stevens have made more than 200 catches the last two years and Peace has improved as much as anybody on our football team. I think they are as good a group as in the country. They have proven it under fire."

Carolina has to answer two of the biggest questions about its football team on the offensive line and the running game. Only one lineman, junior guard Joe Ellison, has nailed down a starting job entering preseason camp. Every other position is listed as co-starters coming out of spring practice. Three players, including Ellison, have started games at Carolina on the offensive line. Ellison made three starts at right guard last fall. Mike Gimbol started all 12 games last year at left guard but battled injuries in the spring and did not solidify his return to the starting lineup. Senior tackle John Surigao started at right tackle one time last year.

The offensive line has been the team's most maligned position over the past few years. The Tar Heels had become a finesse running team the last few years and gave up 24 combined quarterback sacks in its only three losses in 1996 and 1997. Torbush and Marshall's chief objective in spring practice was to develop a more physical and aggressive offense.

"Our goal in spring was to become a more physical football team," says Torbush. "Basically we worked toward that, but we still are not where we want to be. Our offensive line will be young, but they are big and strong and have a chance to be really good. We accomplished getting more physical, but we have to get it done in a ballgame."

"We want to continue to throw the ball as well as we have thrown it the last several years and be able to convert on third downs like we have. To be consistently among the Top 10 football teams and be able to beat the teams we have to beat on a yearly basis, we are going to have to be able to run the ball better. We need to run it better, but not necessarily more. We want to feel as good about our running game as our passing game."

Na Brown caught a school-record 55 passes last season and enters the 1998 campaign fourth in the UNC career record book with 110 catches.

Neither Torbush nor Marshall believe in an offensive system that runs and passes a certain percentage. "I don't care if we run the ball effectively 60 times or 10 times in a game," says Marshall. "The key is for us to both run and pass equally as well. If we can get what we need in the running game on a handful of plays and still move the ball, that's fine. If teams want to take away one aspect of our offense, we have to be able to counter. We want to establish an offense that can keep a defense guessing and keep it off balance so we can move the ball doing both."

Surigao, a 6-5, 285-pound senior from Durham, and James Wagstaff, a 6-4, 340-pound sophomore from Charlotte, are at left tackle. Ellison, a 6-2, 275-pound junior from Winston-Salem, returned last year after injuring a knee in the 1997 Gator Bowl against West Virginia. He should start at left guard and is backed up by Louis Marchetti, a 6-6, 250-pound junior from Nashville, Tenn.

Three players are competing at center. Cam Holland, a 6-2, 300-pound Franklin, N.C., native, played in all 12 games last year a total of 103 snaps. Ryan Carfley, a 6-2, 295-pound junior from Ridgewood, N.J., has seen action in nine games in two years. Bryant Malloy, a 6-

UNC Collection / UNC-Chapel Hill

3, 290-pound freshman from Cherryville, N.C., enrolled in school in January and by virtue of going through spring drills has a chance to play as a true freshman at either center or guard.

Gimbol, a 6-4, 305-pound junior from Doylestown, Pa., sprained his knee in the spring and enters fall camp in a battle with Jon Hall, a 6-3, 325-pound junior from Hagerstown, Md. Malloy is next in line behind Gimbol and Hall.

Kareem Ellis, a 6-5, 315-pound junior from Jacksonville, N.C., had a very solid spring after rebounding from a back injury that limited his playing time a year ago. Bryan Jones, is a bit undersized at 6-4, 270, but the junior from Valparaiso, Fla., is very athletic and is enthusiastically working hard to get bigger and stronger. Ellis and Jones should both see action at right tackle.

Just as uncertain as the offensive line is the cast of backs who will be running behind that line. A trio of tailbacks, sophomore Domonique Williams, red-shirt freshmen Ravon Anderson and Rufus Brown, are in a friendly, yet fierce competition for the opportunity to replace Linton. Linton rushed for 1,004 yards and 10 touchdowns and added 29 receptions in his one year as a starter.

Only seven players, including three quarterbacks, had rushing attempts last year. Linton and reserve tailback Mike Geter, also a senior in 1997, combined for 303 carries. The leading returning rusher is fullback Deon Dyer, who had 90 yards on 25 attempts. Williams had 15 carries for 50 yards, 10 yards of which came on a touchdown run against Duke.

Williams, a 6-2, 205-pound standout prep quarterback from Upper Marlboro, Md., combines speed and the ability to run inside and may have the edge due to his experience, albeit limited. He has excellent hands and is a legitimate pass-catching threat out of the backfield.

Anderson, 5-10, 190 pounds from Hoboken, N.J., scored twice in the Blue-White spring game and is an elusive, darter-type runner. He is dangerous when he runs inside the tackles and finds holes through which he bursts into the secondary.

Brown, 6-1, 210 pounds from Belzoni, Miss., is the power back of the three. He has good speed, but he is also the type back who will take defenders head on and run them over. He missed the last several practices in the spring due to a broken rib but should be cleared by the start of pre-season practice.

"All of them compliment each other," Torbush says. "Williams is versatile like Leon Johnson. Ravon reminds me of Eric Blount when he was at running back as he is a smaller, quicker guy. Rufus is a big back with strong thighs. Each is a little unique from the other and brings something to the table. The best thing about them is that they are young and will be around a long time. None of them has jumped out in front of the others, but I think you will see someone will separate from the pack by about the fourth game."

Dyer, the starter for the first 10 games last year, and Ronnie Robinson, the starter in the last three games including the bowl game, return for a spirited competition at fullback. Both players will see prominent playing time and may do so in a one-back set. With red-shirt freshman Anthony Saunders improving each day, this is one of the deepest and most talented positions on the team.

Dyer is a 6-0, 240-pound junior from Chesapeake, Va. He has the physical tools to be a dominant fullback both in college and in the NFL. He runs well (had a 31-yard touchdown run last fall against Virginia), is a good receiver and a devastating blocker. He suffered a broken leg in the 10th game last year and must be in good physical condition to be an impact player.

Robinson, a 6-2, 240-pound sophomore from Atlanta, Ga., played beyond expectations in his three starts and had an excellent spring. Like Dyer, Robinson can run well and is a threat in the passing game, especially in his ability make yards after catches.

Saunders is a 6-2, 215-pound red-shirt freshman from Greensboro, N.C., who set virtually every high school rushing record in the state.

"Deon's a proven player who can play one back," says Torbush. "We have had some pretty good fullbacks here lately, and I think he can be really special. Ronnie Robinson has been a tremendous surprise. Here's a kid who never says a word, just goes out there and busts his tail. And Saunders is going to be a good player. You have to remember that all three were high school tailbacks and can really run the ball. They can play one-back, lead block for the tailbacks, pass protect, whatever we ask. They are a really good group."

Torbush believes that having an experienced quarterback in Davenport and three veteran receivers in Brown, Stevens and Peace will take some pressure off the running game early in the season. Marshall plans to use three and four receiver sets in a multiple pro-style set and the fourth receiver heading into preseason is Kory Bailey, a 6-2, 185-pound freshman from Durham.

Crumpler's injury was one of a series of injuries that plagued the tight end position all spring. Dauntae' Finger, a 6-5, 240-pound sophomore from Newton, N.C., played in all 12 games last year a total of 170 snaps but did not have a reception. Finger would likely have been the candidate to inherit the starting job as a result of Crumpler's injury, but he missed all of spring practice as he rehabilitated from shoulder surgery. Allen Mogridge, a 6-3, 250-pound junior from Sevierville, Tenn., enters preseason as the starter. Mogridge has played several positions at Carolina, including defensive end, fullback and linebacker. Joey Walters, a junior from Hollywood, Fla., is next in line at tight end.

Ebenezer Ekuban, who will start at defensive end, may also be asked to play eight to 12 snaps per game at tight end. He was the top backup behind two-time All-ACC tight end Freddie Jones in 1995 and 1996 and caught six passes, two for touchdowns. Freshmen Zach Hilton of Silver Spring, Md., and Julius Peppers of Bailey, N.C., may be given an opportunity to contribute immediately.

"There is no question we lost one of the best players we had on our football team," says Torbush. "Alge would have been a preseason All-America. Finger is a good player with athletic ability. The problem is he did not practice in the spring. Mogridge is a solid player who gives great effort. He really made big strides in the spring. The two freshmen, Peppers and Hilton, may be able to come in and help right away."

Backing up Davenport at quarterback are Kevin Carty, a 6-4, 218-pound sophomore from Branchburg, N.J., and Phillip Deas, a 6-1, 205-pound red-shirt freshman from Bossier City, La. Carty saw very limited action last year in three games and completed both his pass attempts for 52 yards.

"Deas and Carty both improved a lot in the spring," says Torbush.

"Unfortunately, we didn't have a clear cut winner. Both had excellent days followed by inconsistent days. I can't say one is second and one is third going into camp, although I wanted to do that. The first few weeks of practice will be very important because going into the Miami of Ohio game I want to have a No. 2 quarterback established."

Defensively, the Tar Heels return four starters, including Bly, end Mike Pringley, tackle Russell Davis and linebacker Keith Newman. Linebacker Brandon Spoon was the first reserve at linebacker last year and would have been a starter as a freshmen were it not for Mays, a two-time all-conference middle linebacker. Spoon and Newman are so highly thought of, even with the loss of Simmons and Mays, The Sporting News ranks UNC's linebackers among the 10 best in the country.

Newman will likely begin the year on the Butkus Award watch list, a spot he earned last year after a fast start that included a blockbuster game against Virginia. The 6-3, 245-pound senior from Tampa, Fla., had 10 tackles, including a sack, and two fumble recoveries in the big win over the Cavaliers. That game was one of four last season in which Newman made 10 or more tackles. He had a career-high 13 at Florida State in 1996 and a season-high 11 against the Seminoles last fall.

Davis started in 1996 at defensive end, but moved inside and started all but one game last year at tackle. The 6-4, 295-pound senior from Fayetteville, N.C., had a career-high 60 tackles last season, including nine tackles for losses and three quarterback sacks. He had two tackles behind the line of scrimmage in Carolina's 16-13 win at Georgia Tech and made eight hits in the win at Clemson.

Pringley, a 6-5, 270-pound senior from Linden, N.J., started 11 games at end and made 45 tackles last year. Pringley had eight and one-half tackles for losses, including three and one-half quarterback sacks and pressured the quarterback another 29 times. He played his best game of the season in the Gator Bowl win against Virginia Tech.

Spoon, a 6-3, 235-pound junior from Burlington, N.C., made the Butkus Award watch list as a sophomore and should again be among the best linebackers in the country in 1997. Spoon made 65 tackles, including seven and one-half for losses, last year. He played his best football down the stretch as he made 10 tackles against both Florida State and Clemson.

"I never in the world thought that statistically we could match in 1997 what we did in 1996," says Torbush. "Not with today's high powered offenses. If not for that shoestring play (Indiana's 53-yard trick play in the season opener) we would have led the nation in defense. But, I like the fact this group of players uses the 1996-1997 group as the standard to reach. That will make them better. These kids have an enormous amount of self pride. They want to be better than last year's group. But I don't want them to get caught up in stats. They have to remember that the name of the game is wins and losses.

"I think athletically this year's defense is really close to last year's team. They just have to be productive on the field. The players we lost were good athletes and they got it done on the field. Athletically, this year's team is every bit as good as last group, but they have not done it yet. Very few programs could lose what we did on offense and defense and still feel like they can be competitive and I think we really can."

this fall for the Dallas Cowboys. Ekuban has a chance to be a standout at rush end. The 6-4, 265-pound Riverdale, Md., senior played as a true freshman and sophomore at tight end, but moved to defense last year and responded with a productive season. Ekuban had four quarterback sacks in the first three games, but was slowed by a shoulder injury that held him out of action for several weeks. He had nine tackles, four of them for losses, including three sacks, and caused a fumble that was returned for a touchdown in the win at Maryland. He finished the year with 40 tackles, nine of them for negative yardage, and five sacks. Last year he just bull-rushed past blockers and should only get better with experience.

Ekuban and Pringley will start at defensive end and will be backed up by Teto Simpson, a 6-4, 265-pound junior from Greenville. Simpson played a lot of football in 1995 and 1996, but requested a red-shirt season a year ago to catch up to the majority of his incoming classmates. The year off has really improved Simpson's confidence and understanding of the nuances of the game. Simpson worked hard to get bigger and stronger, as well. He has a chance to play a lot of snaps this year and will be an anchor on defense next season.

Davis is a tremendous athlete who Torbush says could go from playing tackle in college to linebacker in the NFL. He and Marcus Dow, a 6-0, 295-pound senior from Thomasville, will be asked to stop the run and provide more of an inside pass rush. Last August, Dow fell on a teammate's foot when making a tackle in a pre-season scrimmage and suffered a fractured kidney. That serious injury kept him out of action in the regular season, but he returned to practice in early December and played in the Gator Bowl. This spring, Dow was voted the Most Outstanding Defensive Performer.

Sherrod Peace, a 6-4, 280-pound junior from Durham, transferred to Carolina in January from Gulf Coast Junior College in Mississippi. A cousin of wide receiver Jason Peace, he was a highly recruited defensive standout out of Northern High School where he played for current UNC tackles coach Ken Browning. Peace should be the third tackle in a rotation with Davis and Dow. McAllister, who walked on at UNC and has since earned a scholarship, is also expected to see some action at tackle.

"Of course we lost some experience on the line with Ellis, Holliday and (Nate) Hobgood-Chittick, but still have lot of experienced players coming back," says Torbush. "Davis and Pringley have played a lot of football and been starters for several years. Ekuban, Simpson and Dow have played and I feel good about their abilities, but we have to stay healthy."

"Davis is the most athletic tackle we have ever had here. He just needs to be more consistent. We could play him at linebacker, he has that kind of skills. Sherrod Peace is such a physical athlete, he will jump out and play a lot."

Sophomores Sedrick Hodge and Merceda Perry join Newman and Spoon as the top four linebackers. Hodge, a 6-4, 235-pound speedster from Atlanta, Ga., had one tackle for a loss among his 15 hits last year. Perry, a 6-4, 245-pounder from Asheboro, added 18 tackles. Behind the first four at linebacker are Tim Burgess, a sophomore from Cary, Quincy Monk, a red-shirt freshman from Jacksonville, and Shawn Woodard, a junior from Wilson.

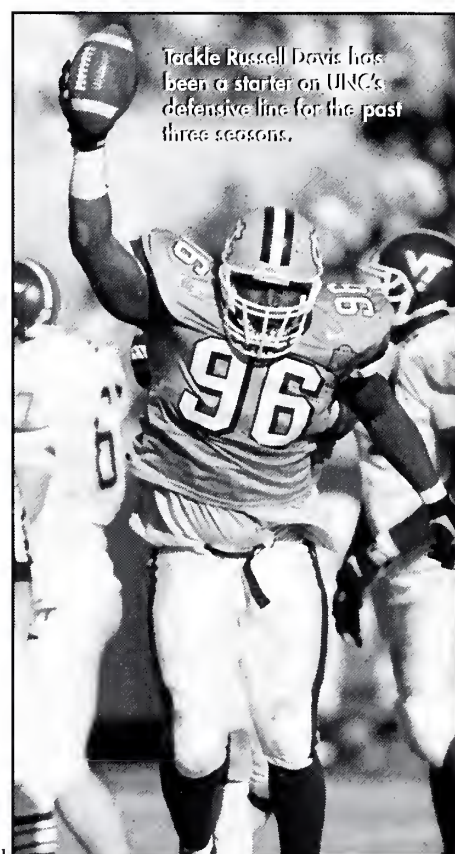

"We have good depth at linebacker," says Torbush, who relinquishes his role as linebackers coach to Rucker. "It reminds me of 1995 when we lost Kerry Mock, Eddie Mason and Mike Morton and Brian Simmons and Kivuusama Mays were young sophomore starters. Newman and Spoon bring a lot of snaps to the table. They are consistently sound players. Keith is very solid and faster than he looks. Physically, he was the strongest of last year's linebackers and was the best in taking on blockers. With a really good year I think he could be a high round pick in the NFL Draft."

"Spoon is physical and, like Keith, a real student of the game. He is real tough on himself because he prides himself on always making the right call and the correct play. He will call the signals for the front seven."

"The three kids we brought in last year have a chance to be special. Hodge made tremendous strides in the spring. He has good height, weighs 230-plus and can fly. Hodge could be a Brian Simmons-type player, but he will be bigger than Brian."

If there is a defensive question mark it likely rests in the secondary, where UNC must replace five of the top six players from a year ago. Bly returns at one cornerback, but UNC is without Robert Williams, who broke up 36 passes the last two years, at the other corner. Williams opted to enter the NFL Draft after his junior season. Also departed are safeties Omar Brown, a fourth round pick by Atlanta, and Greg Williams, who signed with Chicago. Brown was a three-year starter and Williams started 19 times over the last two years. Reggie Love and Terry Billups (who signed with New England) were key reserves at corner and safety and also were seniors in 1997.

Steve Fisher, a 5-10, 190-pound senior from New Bern, should start at cornerback. Fisher earned a scholarship last year after making a name for himself on special teams. He returned a blocked punt for a touchdown in the win over Wake Forest and also had an interception against Indiana. Fisher will be pushed for playing time by a pair of impressive red-shirt freshmen, Thomasville's Anthony Anderson and Lenoir's Errol Hood. Both Anderson and Hood had good showings in the spring.

Tyrell Godwin, a 5-10, 190-pound sophomore from Council, moved from tailback/wide receiver to cornerback in the spring. Carolina's starting left fielder, Godwin split his time between spring practice and the baseball field so it is hard to judge at this time just how much of an impact he will have this fall. In terms of athletic ability, Godwin has a chance to be an exceptional player.

The two safety positions will be manned by one player with plenty of experience, two with limited experience and a newcomer. Jomo Legins, a 5-11, 190-pound senior from Winston-Salem, has started four games in the last two years at strong safety and played extensively in nickel situations and on special teams. He is very adept at blocking kicks.

Sophomores Antwon Black and Quinton Savage saw some action in reserve roles last year, but will be on the field a lot this fall. Black, a 5-10, 200-pounder from Central, S.C., improved in the weeks leading up to the Gator Bowl and had an excellent spring. He will start at free safety. Savage, who also blocked two punts for touchdowns last year, is a 6-0, 195-pounder from Denver, Colo.. He is a physical player who likes to deliver big hits and will have that opportunity at strong safety and as the nickel back.

Billy-Dee Greenwood, a 6-2, 180-pound red-shirt freshman from Stamford, Conn., shifted from cornerback to free safety in the spring and has a chance to be an impact player.

"I know one thing - the corner opposite Dre' Bly will probably have a chance to become a great football player," says Torbush. "We certainly expect teams to challenge anybody we put there. But Steve Fisher has been around for a long time and has been going up against our receivers for four years. He has played some, been a great special teams guy and knows this is his opportunity. He is also being pushed by Anderson and Hood, who came a million miles in the spring. The guy who intrigues us all is Godwin because his athletic skills are as good as any player we have had.

Godwin has good hip flexibility, is strong for his size, has tremendous acceleration and speed and is a great backpeddler. I think we are in a situation at cornerback, especially the one spot, similar to where we were two years ago. Remember, nobody knew what Bly and Robert Williams could do and after a few weeks it's like they changed the way we could play defense.

"Jomo Legins is experienced and played well late last year against Clemson and Duke when Greg Williams was injured. Savage is a very athletic safety because he is a converted cornerback. Quinton can be a special player. He runs well, is physical and is a big hitter. Antwon Black made more progression in a year than any player I have seen in a long time. Right around bowl practice it just popped in. It is amazing how quickly he improved. Antwon is intelligent and plays with a lot of self pride. Greenwood reminds you lot of a young Rondell Jones, who started four years here and has had a long NFL career.

"I know and the safeties know they have not played a lot of football on Saturdays, but I tell them all the time that they are not going to play against better receivers in games than Na Brown, L.C. Stevens and Brandon Spoon is expected to be one of the ACC's top linebackers this season.

Jason Peace."

Carolina's special teams received a lot of attention the last two years because they gave up big plays at an alarming rate. Torbush installed Rucker as special teams coordinator to shore up the special teams, especially in the areas of kickoff returns and punting. The Tar Heels have had four punts blocked in each of the last two seasons and would have suffered even more damaging results were it not for defensive stands at Syracuse in 1996 and at Clemson last year.

Kickers Josh McGee, Brian Schmitz and Derrick DePriest, all of them juniors, return to the lineup this year. Last year, McGee handled the majority of placements and finished 12 for 16 in field goals and 34 of 36 in extra point tries. Schmitz averaged 40.0 yards per punt for the season, kicked off 59 times with 17 touchbacks and kicked a 51-yard field goal at N.C. State. DePriest was the punter and kicked off in 1996.

"Ken Rucker takes a great deal of pride in preparing our special teams play and has a lot of experience doing that," says Torbush. "Our kicking game is the one part of the three phases of football that has not been a Top 10 team. We have made silly decisions you can't make on kick off returns and we can't get four punts blocked like we have the last 2 years. We've just been so good on defense the last two years it didn't kill us.

"Godwin, Bly and Black returned kickoffs really well in the spring. Kory Bailey, Na Brown, Godwin could all return punts. We have to find some guys to block some punts and I think we have a chance there with people like Bly, Legins, Savage and Fisher.

"Basically, we've got to take the same mentality from offense and defense and attack the opponent in the kicking game. There's no doubt about it. We need to get after it more on special teams.

"Our three kickers have two years of experience. They should be better. Schmitz kicked really well in the spring. McGee was sick and didn't kick much, but we know he is a consistent kicker when it counts. I think DePriest's success in baseball this spring will give him more confidence.

"This is an area where we have worked hard in the past and our personnel is not a lot different from last year. Results must be different, however. Our execution has to be better. I think it will be because they understand what to do and have experience. Hopefully we will teach them to make wiser decisions which will allow them to put less pressure on themselves."

"Kenan Stadium is a special place to play college football. It was great to see the way our fans responded last year with the increased seating capacity. There were several times when the crowd was so loud you couldn't even hear the call in the huddle. Our fans really fired us up. I'm sure that will continue as Carolina continues to earn national recognition."

— Greg Ellis, UNC All-America and first-round draft pick of the Dallas Cowboys

— Michael Jordan, Six-Time NBA Finals MVP

Kenan Football Center

"We are in an era when football facilities represent how committed a program is to being one of the best. At North Carolina, I expected the Smith Center to be one of the best for basketball and it is. What surprised me was how outstanding the new football facility is. They certainly have a top-notch facility. When I walked away from Chapel Hill, I was totally impressed. Now I judge every other facility against Carolina's because I think they have the best in the country."

Carolina football season tickets have sold out more than two months prior to the start of the season in each of the last two summers. Kenan Stadium, now with a seating capacity of 60,000, is consistently ranked among the top college football stadia in the country. This year, 35,000 season tickets were bought by Carolina fans. A record 62,000 were on hand last November as the fifth-ranked Tar Heels played host to No. 2 Florida State. ESPN's Gameday, with Chris Fowler, Kirk Hirstreit and Lee Corso, came to Chapel Hill and set up studio operations on site for the first Top 5 matchup in Atlantic Coast Conference history.

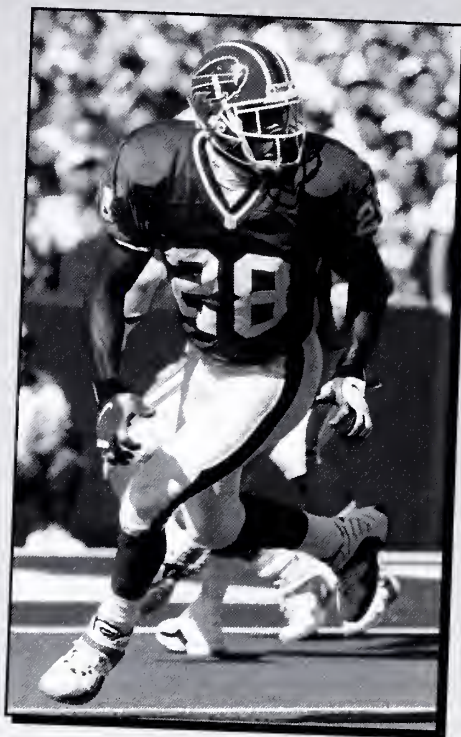

Carolina and the NFL

"I think the Carolina players are not only outstanding players, but outstanding people. Too often in the NFL people forget you better have good people in your program if you want to be successful. The University of North Carolina has always put those kind of players out in my view. There is a natural interest in high school athletes to attend a university with the kind of prestige North Carolina has. When you have a university of this quality, you are going to be able to get the best people."

UNC's Bowl Tradition

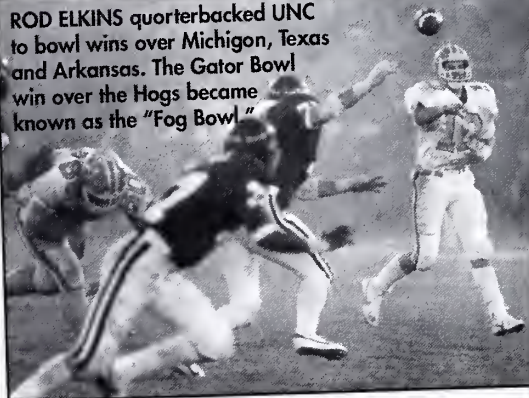

DON MCCAULEY rushed for 143 yards and three touchdowns in the 1970 Peach Bowl vs. Arizona State.

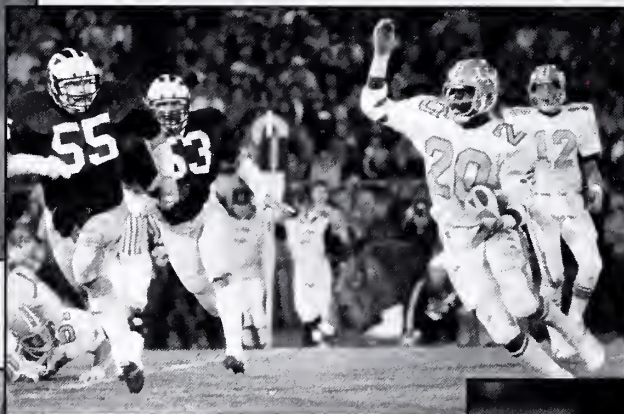

UNC Carolina has played in a school-record six straight bowl games and is one of only three schools in the country to have won bowl games in the last three years.

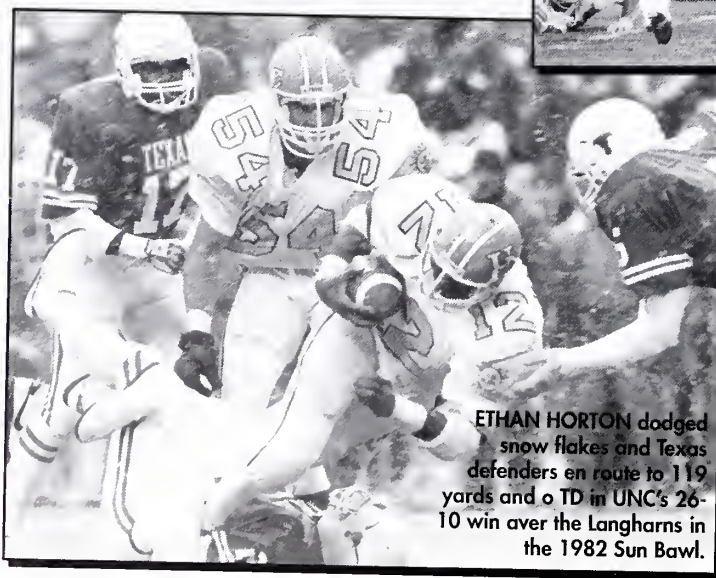

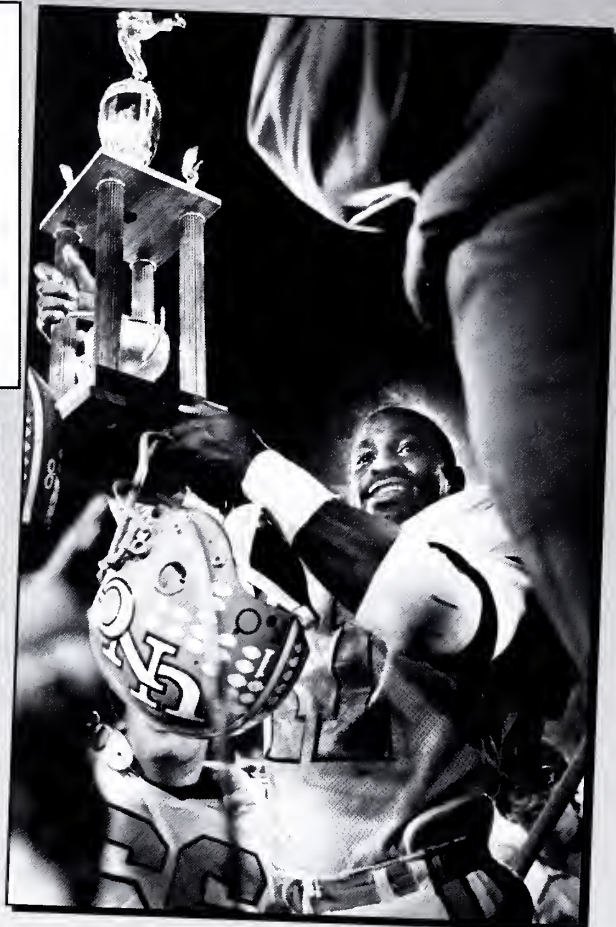

ROD ELKINS quarterbacked UNC to bowl wins over Michigan, Texas and Arkansas. The Gator Bowl win over the Hogs became known as the "Fog Bowl."

DICK OLIVER'S 22-yard TD run lifted UNC to a 32-28 win over Texas Tech in the 1972 Sun Bowl.

AMOS LAWRENCE'S (left) 118 rushing yards and Mott Kupec's 161 passing yards led UNC past Michigan in the 1979 Gator Bowl. RICKY BARDEN (above) holds aloft the Gator Bowl trophy. The win was one of four consecutive bowl victories by Head Coach Dick Crum from 1979-82.

ETHAN HORTON dodged snow flakes and Texas defenders en route to 119 yards and a TD in UNC's 26-10 win over the Longhorns in the 1982 Sun Bowl.

LEON JOHNSON set a Carolina postseason record with 195 rushing yards in the Tar Heels' 20-10 win over Arkansas in the 1995 Carquest Bowl.

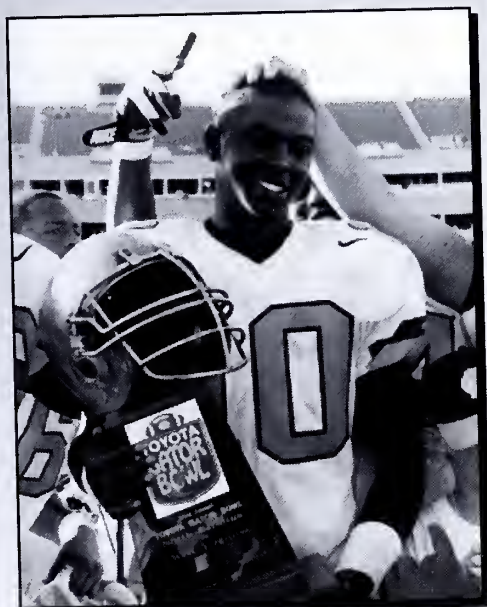

UNC's Bowl Tradition

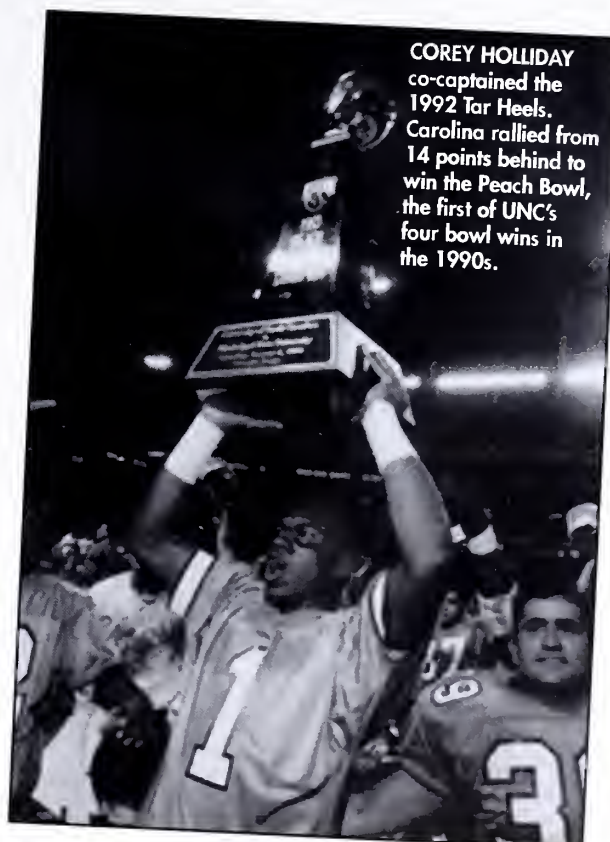

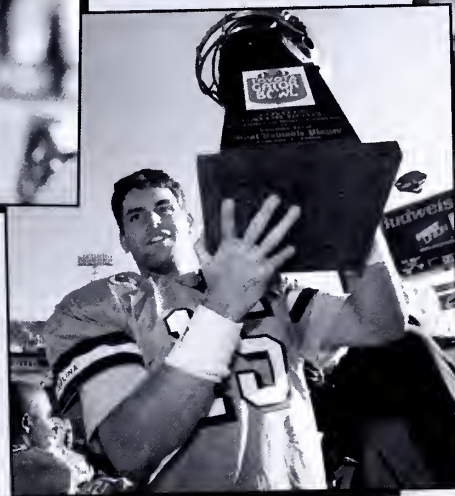

DREYER BLY returned a blocked punt six yards for a touchdown in last season's 42-3 win over Virginia Tech in the Gator Bowl. As a freshman, Bly intercepted two passes in Carolina's Gator Bowl win over West Virginia. The victories secured Top 10 finishes for UNC in 1996 and 1997.

The 42-3 win over Virginia Tech on Jan. 1, 1998, was the most decisive win in Carolina's 22-game postseason history.

OSCAR DAVENPORT (left) and CHRIS KELDORF (above) received Most Valuable Player honors in the 1997 and 1998 Gator Bowls, respectively. Davenport threw for 175 yards and a TD and scored on a 5-yard rush; Keldorf passed for 290 yards and a school-record three touchdowns.

COREY HOLLIDAY co-captained the 1992 Tar Heels. Carolina rallied from 14 points behind to win the Peach Bowl, the first of UNC's four bowl wins in the 1990s.

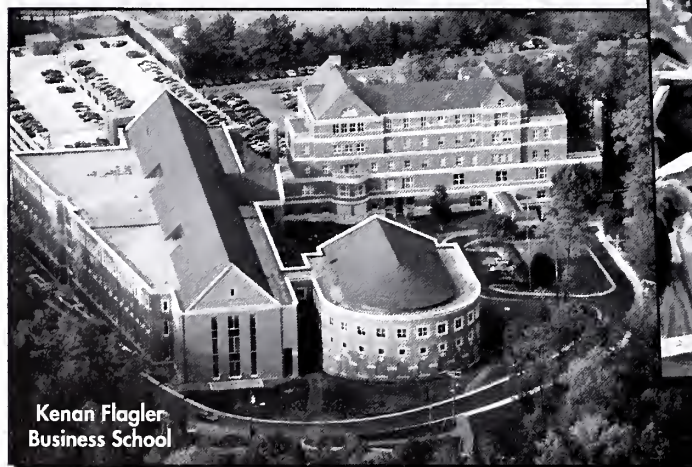

ACE WALKER'S two second-half blocked punts led Carolina to victory over Mississippi State in the 1993 Peach Bowl.

"We can sell the whole package here - a great year-round climate, an excellent academic environment, athletic tradition, but also a great social life. Let's face it, UNC has everything for an undergraduate. We've got the archetype for the great college town. If someone had to create a college town they'd call it Chapel Hill and construct it right after the town we have here. The campus is beautiful, the academic reputation is great and athletics top to bottom are tremendous."

DRE' BLY

Cornerback

5-10, 195, Junior
Chesapeake, Va. (Western Branch)

One of the best football players in America • Heisman Trophy candidate as the country's most outstanding player • Bronko Nagurski Award candidate as the best defender in the country • Jim Thorpe Award candidate as the top defensive back • Is the only player in Carolina football history to earn consensus first-team All-America honors in more than one season • Only five players in ACC history have repeated as consensus All-Americans (linebacker Marvin Jones of Florida State in 1991-92, although the Seminoles were ACC members beginning in 1992; FSU linebacker Derrick Brooks in 1993-94; Clemson safety Terry Kinard in 1981-82; N.C. State center Jim Richter in 1978-79; and Bly in 1996-97) • Has a great chance to become the first three-time consensus All-America in ACC history • Could become the first NCAA player to earn consensus All-America honors three times since Herschel Walker of Georgia in 1980-81-82 • Last defenders to accomplish that were Pittsburgh defensive end Hugh Green and UCLA safety Kenny Easley in 1978-79-80 • Hoping to follow in the footsteps of Michigan cornerback Charles Woodson as a Heisman Trophy winner • Member of the 15-Player Leadership Committee.

A gifted athlete with cornerback skills to match • Great hand-eye coordination • Savvy football player with a great deal of confidence • Knows when to take chances and when to play it safe • Has such great speed and quickness that when he does get beaten, can usually make up the ground and still make the play • Has all the physical tools to be a standout cornerback – quick feet, active hips, great recovery and closure speed and uncanny instincts • Plays man or zone coverage equally well • Thrives on the man-to-man competitive aspect of the position • Including high school he has intercepted 34 passes in his last five years of competition • Understands he must show mature leadership skills this year, as he is by far the most experienced member of the secondary • Carolina coaches will match him against the other team's top receivers as often as possible • Worked very hard in spring practice, especially on his run support skills • Is an outstanding bump-and-run cover corner • Last year, teams did not attack him downfield; most passes against him were short, "east-west" type routes • Should have a chance to help on special teams and could even be added as a third or fourth wide receiver in certain situations.

Has intercepted 16 passes and broken up 17 more in 22 regular-season games • Is tied with Lou Angelo for the UNC record and is just one interception from tying the alltime ACC record • The ACC interception record of 17 is held by five different players.

1997 — Earned first-team All-America honors from the Associated Press, Walter Camp Football Foundation, Football News and the Football Writers Association of America • Was one of three Carolina defenders named to the AP's first-team • It is the first time in ACC history one school has had three first-team honorees • Named third-team All-America by The Sporting News.

Was a finalist for the Thorpe Award for the second straight season • One of three finalists for the Bronko Nagurski National Defensive Player of the Year Award along with Ohio State's Andy Katzenmoyer and the winner, Charles Woodson of Michigan • For the second straight year, Bly was the recipient of the General Douglas MacArthur Award, given by the Norfolk Athletic Club to the best collegiate player from the state of Virginia • He is just the sixth player to win the award twice • The others were Purdue running back Leroy Keyes in 1967-68, Carolina tailback Mike Voight (1975-76), UCLA safety Kenny Easley (1978, 1980), Tar Heel basketball standout J.R. Reid (1987-88) and Virginia basketball player Ralph Sampson (1981-82) • Playboy Preseason All-America.

Was named first-team All-ACC and was the leading vote getter (149) on either side of the ball • Finished fourth in the balloting for the ACC Defensive Player of the Year and fifth in the voting for the ACC Player of the Year • Finished the year with five interceptions, which ranked second in the ACC and 22nd in the nation • Part of a UNC defense that ranked second in the nation in total defense, third in pass efficiency defense, fourth in rush defense and fifth in scoring defense • Had 55 interception return yards • Ranked in the preseason by Sports Illustrated as the nation's No. 1 cornerback, a position the magazine calls the "most valuable in the game today" • Returned an interception 17 yards for a touchdown against Virginia to tie the score at 20 • That was the play that turned the game around • It was the second consecutive season the Virginia native had returned an interception for a touchdown against the Cavaliers • Intercepted the ball on Clemson's last play of the game as Carolina won for the first time in Death Valley since 1980 • Had two interceptions and two pass breakups in the regular-season finale against Duke • It was the fifth multi-interception game of his career • Also picked off a pass against Indiana • Three of his five pass thefts led to touchdowns, another set up a field goal and the fifth came on the final play at Clemson • Returned 19 punts for 127 yards, including a season-best 40-yarder against TCU • Also returned two kickoffs for 35 yards • Picked up a blocked punt and returned it six yards for a first-quarter touchdown in Carolina's 42-3 victory over Virginia Tech in the Gator Bowl.

1996 — The first freshman to earn consensus first-team All-America honors in ACC history • Just the fifth freshman and first defensive freshman in history to be named to the Associated Press All-America first team • Herschel Walker, Tony Dorsett, Marshall Faulk and Bjorn Merten are the others • Also a first-team All-America selection by the Walter Camp Football Foundation, the Football Writers Association of America, The Sporting News and Athlon Sports • Finalist, along with Lawrence Wright of Florida and Chris Woodson of Michigan, for the Jim Thorpe Award as the National Defensive Back of the Year • ACC first-team selection and Rookie of the Year • Was the second-leading vote-getter on the All-ACC Team behind defensive end Peter Boulware of Florida State • Is the only Carolina freshman in history to earn first-team All-America honors • Tamarick Vanover, wide receiver at Florida State in 1992, is the only other freshman to earn first-team All-America honors in ACC history (Vanover was named first-team by The Sporting News as a return specialist) • Freshman All-America as named by The Sporting News • First-team All-ACC and second-team All-America pick by Football News

CB • Dre' Bly

• Recipient of the General Douglas MacArthur Award, given by the Norfolk Athletic Club to the best collegiate player from the state of Virginia • Had his high school jersey number retired in January ceremonies • Had two second-half interceptions, broke up two passes and had seven tackles against West Virginia in the Gator Bowl • Athlon Sports selected Bly's performance in the Gator Bowl the best by a defensive player in any of the postseason games • Led the nation in interceptions and interceptions per game • Just the fifth UNC player to ever lead the NCAA in a statistical category • Set an ACC single-season interceptions record with 11, one more than Bob Sullivan of

Maryland had in 10 games in 1965 • Is the only player in ACC history to average an interception per game in an 11-game schedule • Led the country in interceptions every week since the third game of the season •

Tied the NCAA record for interceptions in a game by a freshman with three against Georgia Tech • Had three multi-interception games • Had three against Tech, two at Florida State and two at Virginia • Had six more interceptions than any other player in the ACC and three more than any other player in the country (Wyoming's Brian Lee had eight in 12 games) • Had 141 yards in returns, including a 44-yard return against the Yellow Jackets to set up a touchdown and a 51-yard return for a touchdown at Virginia • Gave up just one touchdown all season (at Duke) •

Delivered some of the season's biggest hits • Had two tackles for losses, caused one fumble and had 32 total tackles • Broke up 13 passes, the third-highest single-season total in Carolina history and the second-highest figure in the ACC • Only teammate Robert Williams (23) and Thomas Smith (16 in 1991) ever broke up more passes in one year • Started all 11 regular-season games • Broke up two passes and had two tackles in his collegiate debut against Clemson • Broke up two passes and picked off his first collegiate pass against Donovan McNabb of Syracuse, a Davey O'Brien Award finalist • Intercepted three passes by Georgia Tech's Joe Hamilton, the third-rated quarterback in the ACC in 1996 • He returned the first one 44 yards to the Tech 6-yard line and set up a Freddie Jones touchdown catch • At Florida State he had two interceptions, broke up two passes and held first-team All-ACC wide receiver Andre Cooper without a catch for the first time in 18 games • The two breakups against Cooper came at the 5-yard line and in the end zone • Had a season-high seven tackles, including one for a loss, and broke up a pass at Wake Forest • Intercepted a pass with a shoestring catch against Maryland • Had one interception against Houston • Had four tackles, a breakup and an interception against Louisville • The interception against the Cardinals came on a fake punt attempt and was his ninth of the season, a UNC single-season record • Played his finest game of the season at Virginia • In fact, Mack Brown said after looking at the tape of the game he thought it was the best game he had ever seen a cornerback play • He had two interceptions, one for 51 yards and a score, broke up four passes,

NA BROWN

Wide Receiver
6-1, 190, Senior
Reidsville, N.C. (Reidsville)

Is on pace to catch more passes than any player in Carolina history • Currently is fourth at UNC with 110 career receptions • The top three include Corey Holliday (155), Leon Johnson (151) and Octavus Barnes (129) • Is the only player in Carolina history to catch at least 50 passes in consecutive seasons • Brown has arguably the best set of hands in the ACC • Makes the difficult catches seem routine • Has good size and deceptively good quickness • Ran a 4.47 second time in the 40-yard dash in the spring • Exceptional at finding the first-down marker and getting just enough yardage to move the chains • Worked hard in the spring at gaining more yards after the catch • Has very soft hands and can catch the ball in awkward positions • A very hard worker who is highly respected by his peers • Very good route runner • Has always been asked to run control routes; now he has learned to play at a faster speed • Member of the 15-Player Leadership Committee.

1997 — Established the single-season school record with 55 receptions • Broke the previous record of 54 set by tailback Leon Johnson in 1995 • Caught two passes for 39 yards in the Gator Bowl • One of the best third-down receivers in the ACC • Caught at least four passes in nine of 11 games and tied his career high with nine catches at TCU • Returned eight punts for 83 yards with a long of 23 yards at Maryland • Finished fourth in the ACC and 37th in the nation with 5.0 catches per game • Tied for second on the team with four touchdown catches • Had a career-high 145 yards against TCU on nine receptions • Pulled in six passes for 49 yards against No. 17 Stanford • Scored a touchdown against Maryland on a 14-yard pass from Oscar Davenport to tie the game at seven • Caught six passes for 74 yards against Virginia and had six receptions for 89 yards and two touchdowns against Duke.

1996 — The leading receiver on the team and one of only six players in Carolina history to have 50 or more receptions in a season • Was on pace to set a single-season school record, but was slowed by an ankle injury in the eighth game of the season • Averaged 55 plays and 6.1 receptions per game through the first seven games of the season and 25 plays and 2.3 catches per game over the last four regular-season contests • Had three receptions for 62 yards (20.7 average) in the Gator Bowl • Had a 30-yard catch-and-run in the first quarter on a 3rd-and-17 play which set up the Tar Heels' first score • Finished fourth in the ACC with 4.7 catches per game • Had eight receptions, including a 3-yard touchdown catch, at Syracuse • Seven of the eight receptions in the Carrier Dome were for first downs • Had five catches for 71 yards, including a 24-yard touchdown, against Georgia Tech • Made six receptions for 29 yards at Florida State • Had seven catches for 67 yards in the win at Wake Forest • Had a career-high nine receptions for a personal-best 86 yards and a touchdown against Maryland • Caught a 19-yard scoring pass against the Terps • Made some incredible grabs at Houston when he had seven receptions for 66 yards • Opened the scoring in the win at Houston with a 3-yard TD catch • Made the most memorable catch of the year early in the first quarter in the 52-20 win over N.C. State • Leaped over a Wolfpack defender and made a sensational catch for a 34-yard gain at the State 2-yard line • That set up a 1-yard scoring run by Leon Johnson for a 12-0 UNC lead • Sprained an ankle later in the first half against State and was hampered by the injury from that point on • Had a 40-yard reception at Duke on a halfback option pass.

1995 — One of five true freshmen to play for UNC in 1995 • Saw action in the last eight games of the regular season and the Carquest Bowl • Caught three passes for 45 yards • Had his first two collegiate receptions against Ohio • Caught a 20-yard pass, a season-long reception, from Mike Thomas in the third quarter • Also caught a 14-yard pass versus Ohio • Caught one pass for 11 yards against Wake Forest • Saw action on a total of 72 plays in the regular season • Was in on a season-high 35 plays in the Carquest Bowl versus Arkansas • Caught a Thomas toss on a second-and-19 play in the third quarter, picking up a first down.

Reidsville High School — Shrine Bowl selection who was twice named conference player of the year • Had 80 catches at wide receiver as a senior for 1,201 yards and 14 touchdowns • As a junior had 72 catches for 1,301 yards and 10 TDs • Ended his career with 195 receptions for 32 TDs and over 3,360 yards • Finished second in state history in receptions and third in reception yardage • Also played cornerback, punted and returned kicks • Three-year starter and an all-league choice each season • Played on two conference championship teams • Coached by Jimmy Teague • All-conference shortstop in baseball for four years, hitting .475 as a junior and over .400 as a senior • Baseball MVP in 1993 • A three-year starter in basketball on a Reidsville team which won three straight conference titles and the state 3-A championship his junior year with a 30-0 record • Named the state's Male Athlete of the Year by the North Carolina High School Athletic Association • Born Na Orlando Brown on Feb. 22, 1977 • Majoring in African-American studies.

ALGE CRUMPLER

Tight End
Wilmington, N.C. (New Hanover)

Likely would have been a preseason All-America selection at tight end, but is out for the entire 1998 season after he injured his knee in a spring practice • One of Carolina's top offensive threats and an emerging leader on and off the field • Suffered a torn anterior cruciate ligament, medial collateral ligament and medial meniscus (cartilage) in his left knee on March 26 when a player rolled into him on a running play • Strong, fast and has soft hands • Equally adept at catching the ball and run-blocking • Member of the 15-player Leadership Committee.

1997 - Had an outstanding sophomore season • Caught 24 passes for 278 yards • Was named second-team All-ACC • Earned first-team All-ACC and honorable-mention All-America honors from Football News • Caught five passes for 77 yards in the Gator Bowl victory over Virginia Tech • Started 11 of 12 games, including the Gator Bowl • Did not start at Maryland because of an ankle injury, but did see action • Fifth-leading receiver on the team with 24 receptions and tied for second with four touchdowns • Scored four touchdowns in the first five games • Had a career-high six receptions and 76 yards at N.C. State • Also had five catches for 47 yards versus Wake Forest • Made a spectacular touchdown catch between two Virginia defenders in UNC's 48-20 victory • Had touchdown catches of 17 yards vs. Indiana, 11 yards vs. TCU, six yards vs. Stanford and 10 yards against UVA • Had four plays of at least 20 yards, including a 36-yard reception at TCU.

1996 — Was one of five true freshmen to play • Co-recipient of the Tar Heels' Most Outstanding Special Teams Player award • Caught one pass for four yards against Clemson, but scored his first touchdown against Maryland when he recovered a fumble in the end zone • Was credited with nine tackles and two fumble recoveries • Also recovered a fumbled punt by N.C. State, a turnover which led to a UNC touchdown and a 12-0 lead.

New Hanover High School — All-Mideast 4-A Conference choice in 1995 • Played tight end and inside linebacker • Led team in tackles, averaging 11 per game • Team rolled up almost 2,000 yards rushing on the year, running mostly behind him • Played every position except quarterback and guard • Primary role was as a lead blocker, but he did average 12 yards per reception • Coached by Glenn Sasser • Three-time state champion in the discus and 1996 champion in the shot put • Discus best of 176-2 and shot put best of 57-6 1/2.

His father, Carlester Crumpler Sr., played for the Buffalo Bills from 1974-77 • His older brother, Carlester Jr., was a Walter Camp Foundation All-America at ECU and is currently a member of the Seattle Seahawks • Born Algernon Darius Crumpler on Dec. 23, 1977, in Greenville, N.C. • Majoring in journalism and mass communication.

OSCAR DAVENPORT

Quarterback
St. Petersburg, Fla. (Osceola)

One of the top quarterbacks in the country and a key man in Carolina's plans for success this season • Is talented, experienced, fearless, courageous and produces winning numbers • Has the highest completion percentage in Carolina history and set the school record last year for most consecutive passes thrown (154) without an interception (13 in 1996 and 141 in 1997) • Has completed 151 of 237 passes in his first three years, a percentage rate of .637 • Has the total package at quarterback • Has a solid grasp of the offense, makes good decisions, has a quick release, nice touch and a very strong arm • Dangerous player to defend because he can beat you so many different ways • Shows good touch on short-to-intermediate range passes, and can deliver the deep ball as well as any quarterback in the nation • Has a very economic throwing motion • When plays break down, he demonstrates exceptional poise and runs judiciously • Doesn't panic and run wildly.

Recovering from a serious ankle injury he suffered in the ninth game of last season against Florida State • Had a fractured fibula (bone at the outside of his ankle joint) and suffered ligament damage on the inside of his ankle when he was sacked by FSU end Greg Spires in the third quarter of the November 8th game • Team doctors inserted a metal plate and seven screws to assist healing • Davenport missed the final two regular-season games and the Gator Bowl • He was medically cleared in time for spring practice • Member of the 15-Player Leadership Committee.

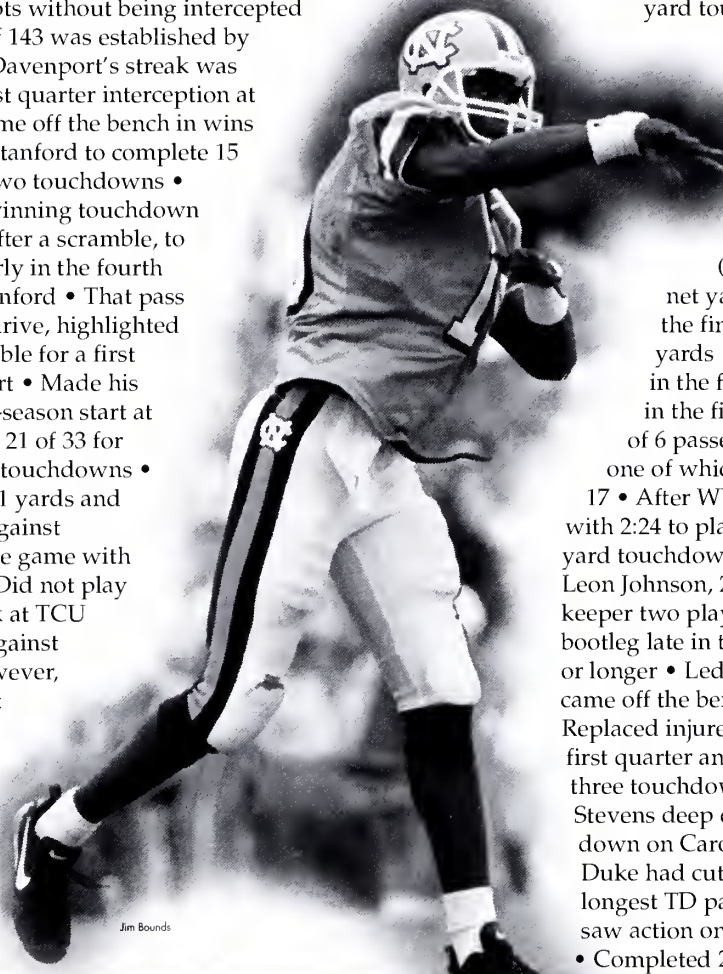

1997 — Recipient of the E. Carrington Smith Award as the team's Most Valuable Offensive Player, despite starting only five games and playing in eight at quarterback • Incredibly accurate, completing 115 of 183 passes, a completion percentage of .628, the third-highest single-season completion percentage in UNC history • The only other players to have higher completion percentages are Chris Kupec in 1974 (.693) and Jason Stanicek in 1993 (.641) • Tossed seven

One of the top big-play receivers in Carolina history • Is the only player in Carolina history to have 700-plus receiving yards in two different seasons • Has three of the eight-longest touchdown catches in Carolina history and two of the top five pass receiving yardage games in school history • Had an 87-yard against Arkansas in the 1995 Carquest Bowl (second longest), an 80-yarder at Duke in 1996 (sixth longest) and a 76-yarder, the longest ever by a Tar Heel in Kenan Stadium, against Maryland in 1996 (eighth longest) • Showed remarkable concentration and athletic grace in Carolina's 17-10 win at Clemson last year as he set up all three of UNC's scores with long catches • Had 169 receiving yards on just three catches (44, 67 and 58 yards) at Death Valley as the Tar Heels won their for the first time since 1980 • Is among the alltime leaders at Carolina in every receiving category • Is eighth alltime at Carolina with 95 receptions, fifth in receiving yards with 1,588 and tied for sixth with 11 touchdown catches • Is third in yards per reception at 16.7 yards per catch • Octavus Barnes (18.6 average) and Bucky Brooks (18.3) are the only players with a higher average yards per reception • Big target with excellent hands • Has good speed, especially for a receiver his size • Likes to overpower cornerbacks, but is working to add more finesse to his package.

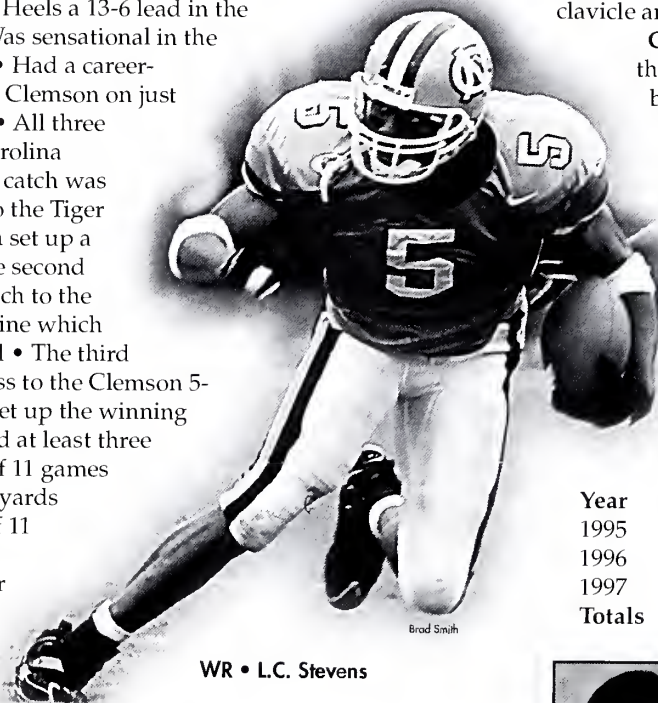

1997 — Second-leading receiver on the team with 45 receptions • Averaged 16.2 yards per catch and had three touchdowns • Led the squad with 727 receiving yards • That was the second straight year he led UNC in receiving yards • Had at least one catch in every game • Hauled in a career-high nine receptions for 114 yards at Maryland • Scored touchdowns at Maryland, at Texas Christian and at Georgia Tech • The touchdown against Georgia Tech was a 30-yard over-the-shoulder grab that gave the Tar Heels a 13-6 lead in the third quarter • Was sensational in the win at Clemson • Had a career-high 169 yards at Clemson on just three receptions • All three catches set up Carolina scores • The first catch was a 44-yard catch to the Tiger 1-yard line which set up a touchdown • The second was a 67-yard catch to the Clemson 4-yard line which set up a field goal • The third was a 58-yard pass to the Clemson 5-yard line which set up the winning touchdown • Had at least three catches in eight of 11 games • Had at least 67 yards receiving in six of 11 games.

1996 — Tied for the ACC lead in touchdown catches with seven (Florida State's E.G.

Green also had seven) • Was second in the conference in yards per reception • Averaged 17.5 yards per catch, the second-highest mark in the ACC • Germane Crowell of Virginia (20.8) was the only player to average more yards per catch than Stevens • Caught 44 passes for 771 yards • Was second on the team in receptions, but led the team in receiving yards • Posted the fifth-most TD catches in UNC history, the ninth-highest yards per catch average and 10th-best number of receptions • Had the most yards receiving in a game by an ACC player • Had at least one reception in 10 of the 11 games (all except Georgia Tech) • Started all 12 games at split end • Had three games with at least 100 yards receiving • Had five receptions for 91 yards in the 45-0 win over Clemson • Had a leaping 14-yard scoring grab and moments later raced past the Tiger secondary and hauled in a 45-yard touchdown • Had five catches for 60 yards at Florida State • Was spectacular against Maryland as he had six receptions for a career-high 167 yards and three touchdowns • All three scores came in the first half and tied the UNC record for TD catches in a game • On the second play from scrimmage in the first quarter, he ran a go-pattern down the left sideline and took a Chris Keldorf pass for 76 yards and a touchdown • It was the longest TD pass by Carolina in the history of Kenan Stadium • The 167 yards receiving were the most by any player in the ACC that year and the fourth-highest in Carolina single-game history • Had seven catches for 112 yards and a touchdown against Louisville • Grabbed a 44-yard scoring pass from Keldorf, despite the fact a Cardinal defender was draped all over him in the end zone • Finished the year with six receptions for 135 yards at Duke • That included an 80-yard touchdown catch-and-run from Oscar Davenport • Hauled in two receptions for 25 yards in the Gator Bowl against West Virginia.

1995 — Appeared in all but one regular-season game • Caught six passes for 90 yards and a touchdown as a red-shirt freshman • Averaged 15.0 yards per catch • Opened the scoring against Wake Forest when he hauled in a 48-yard touchdown pass from Mike Thomas • Broke open the Carquest Bowl with an 87-yard catch of a Mike Thomas pass • The reception, the longest touchdown play in UNC postseason history, gave the Tar Heels a 20-10 lead with 1:08 left in the third quarter • Saw significant playing time in the bowl game after starting receiver Octavus Barnes injured his knee in the third quarter of the win over Arkansas • Dislocated his clavicle and missed all of spring work • 1994 — Was red-shirted.

Clinton High School — Selected all-state as a senior by the Greensboro News & Record and was an all-region pick by the Fayetteville Times • Was chosen to play in the Shrine Bowl • Three-time all-conference selection •

Gained 1,102 yards rushing as a senior and combined for 14 touchdowns rushing and receiving • Added a pair of touchdown passes • At safety he averaged 11 tackles per game as a senior • Coached by Bob Lewis • As a junior he was the state 2-A track champion in the 100 meters • Was an all-conference selection for two seasons in basketball and also lettered in baseball.

Born Leander Calvin Stevens on Dec. 31, 1974 • Majoring in African-American studies.

Athletic Director Dick Baddour

Carolina's athletic department has undergone its most extensive season of change in a generation and the man leading the department through this period is Goldsboro, N.C., native Dick Baddour.

After 11 years as John Swofford's chief assistant, Baddour (UNC '66) was named director of athletics on June 25, 1997. The ensuing months have seen the athletic landscape in Chapel Hill change like no time in recent memory.

Through it all, Baddour's easy-going, friendly and visionary style of management combined with his love and passion for all things related to the University have kept the program on a solid foundation.

When Baddour was appointed athletic director, legendary men's basketball coach Dean Smith was preparing for his 37th year as head coach and Mack Brown was about to embark on his 10th season as football coach. By the end of the fall semester, Smith was in his new role as assistant to the athletic director and Brown had moved on to the University of Texas.

Baddour acted swiftly and decisively filling both vacancies, elevating longtime assistants Bill Guthridge and Carl Torbush to the men's basketball and football positions, respectively.

Guthridge, an assistant at UNC for 31 seasons, became the winningest first-year head coach in college basketball history by leading the Tar Heels to 34 wins, an ACC championship and a trip to the NCAA Final Four. Torbush directed Carolina to a 42-3 win over Virginia Tech in the Gator Bowl on New Year's Day, a win that left UNC No. 4 in the final coaches' poll.

Baddour hired three spring sport head coaches, moves that should help revitalize those programs and keep the UNC athletic department among the nation's elite. He hired Mike Fox, a former Tar Heel who played in the 1978 College World Series, as baseball coach; John Inman, 1984 NCAA men's golf champion and former PGA Tour golfer, as the men's golf coach; and Roland Thornqvist, former National Indoor Singles Champion, as the women's tennis coach. In addition to the five new head coaches, Baddour added Larry Gallo, athletic director at Indiana State for the past three years, to his administrative staff.

Baddour continues to direct a vast facilities expansion project that stretches from Kenan Stadium to Finley Golf Course. The department is currently in the midst of at least a half dozen major facility projects, including the final touches on the $50 million expansion and renovation of Kenan Stadium, construction of new office/dressing room complexes for soccer at Fetzer Field and a stadium for field hockey and lacrosse at Navy Field, restructuring of Kenan Fieldhouse, construction of a new indoor football practice and track and field complex adjacent to Belk Track and total re-design of Finley Golf Course.

He oversaw the signing of the equipment/apparel contract with Nike and the department's multi-media marketing plan with Vilcom. The agreement with Nike is worth more than $10 million and enhances the athletic department and its coaches as well as provide for $400,000 to the Chancellor's Academic Enhancement Fund. He also initiated discussions between the student body, Carolina Athletic Association and Office of Student Affairs to develop a comprehensive and equitable policy on student tickets that will allow students to obtain football and basketball admission without having to miss class or camp out in inclement weather.

"Dick Baddour has proven time and again we made the right choice when we selected him as the Athletic Director," says Chancellor Michael Hooker. "In a first year filled with a number of changes — not the least of which was the retirement of Dean Smith — he has shown he can handle the tough decisions. He also has continued to guide Carolina's program with an eye on the quality experience our student-athletes receive; he is a firm believer that the playing field can offer an excellent opportunity for learning. UNC and its student-athletes are all the better for that philosophy."

Carolina had another outstanding season in Baddour's first year as athletic director. The women's soccer and field hockey teams won NCAA championships, men's basketball was ranked No. 1 in the final media poll, football was No. 4 in the final coaches' poll, and women's basketball was one of nine UNC teams to win ACC championships. The overall program finished tied with Florida for second place in the prestigious Sears Cup.

Baddour, who has served on 12 ACC committees, will chair the ACC Athletic Directors this year and serve as a member of ACC Committees on Football, Basketball and Television.

He is in his 32nd year of continuous service to the University. Prior to replacing Swofford, he had been the athletic department's executive associate director of athletics. He handled many of the day-to-day affairs of the department. That included personnel matters, serving as NCAA and ACC compliance coordinator, supervisor of the grant-in-aid program, administrator of the student-athlete development program and liaison with the academic support programs.

After graduating from UNC, Baddour spent one year as a cost accountant for Burlington Industries. He then returned to his alma mater in 1967 as assistant dean of men. In that role he worked closely with students, directing orientation and serving as the administration's liaison with fraternities and Student Government committees.

In 1971 he became assistant dean of undergraduate admissions. Coordinating freshman admissions took him into every high school in the state.

In 1975, he was awarded a Master of Arts degree in education with a major in student personnel administration and a minor in business administration.

Baddour was then named Assistant Dean at the UNC School of Law from 1983 to 1986. He served as the school's director of admissions and scholarship programs, head of personnel and supervisor of career planning and placement. He was also in charge of minority recruitment programs.

He became associate athletic director in April 1986. He was promoted to senior associate director in July 1990 and to executive associate in June 1995.

A 1962 graduate of Goldsboro High School, Baddour is active in community affairs in Chapel Hill. He is past president of the Public School Foundation, has been co-president of the Ephesus Elementary School PTA and has served on the Chapel Hill-Carrboro School System Effective Schools Committee.

He received the Chapel Hill/Carrboro Public School System award as "Volunteer of the Year" for his service and leadership as president of the Public School Foundation.

In 1998, he was inducted into the Order of the Golden Fleece, one of the most prestigious honor societies on campus.

He has been a member of the Chapel Hill Library Foundation, The Chapel Hill Library Building Committee and the board of directors of The Village Bank and later Triangle Bank.

He is a past president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer of the East Chapel Hill Rotary Club and served as vice-president of the Chapel Hill Parks and Recreation Commission. Baddour completed 31 years as a member of the N.C. National Guard and holds the rank of colonel.

Baddour's wife, Lynda, taught kindergarten and first grade for 17 years. They have two sons and a daughter. Allen, 27, recently married, graduated from UNC and Carolina law school and practices law in Chapel Hill. David, 25, is a UNC graduate and an accountant in Washington, D.C. Jennifer, 24, is a graduate of UNC Greensboro and currently is a graduate student in the UNC School of Social Work.

Head Coach Carl Torbush

It seems only appropriate at a school whose most legendary gridiron star is nicknamed "Choo Choo", the newest head football coach is a North Carolina native who spent his childhood riding trains on his dad's rail pass.

In 1963, Carl Torbush Jr. was an 11-year-old from East Spencer, N.C., whose dad, Big Carl, was relocated by the Southern Railroad to Knoxville, Tenn. Little Carl, a blossoming star athlete, spent the next homesick summer riding the trains back to East Spencer to play in Little League games.

Thirty-five years later, Little Carl is homesick no more. In fact, he is right where he has always dreamed he could be — head football coach of the Tar Heels. UNC's players would not want it any other way.

Torbush, the 1996 National Defensive Coordinator of the Year, was named the 31st head coach on December 8, 1997. He is the first native Tar Heel to lead the state university's football team since Tom Young directed Carolina in 1943.

He promptly led Carolina to a 42-3 win over Virginia Tech in the Gator Bowl for his first win as UNC's head coach. The Tar Heels dominated the game throughout, scoring 16 first-quarter points and allowing just 185 total yards. The 39-point victory was Carolina's most lopsided in a bowl game.

"When I have time to think about being Carolina's head coach, I still pinch myself," says Torbush. "I try not to get caught up in it because it could be overwhelming. Call it humble pride. I am proud of being the head coach and still humbled by that. I was content being defensive coordinator here and would have been content with that rest of my life because this is where I want to coach. I did not want any other jobs. In my opinion, if there was ever a place where I would be a perfect fit for a job this is it."

The Gator Bowl victory capped arguably the greatest season in Carolina history as the Tar Heels finished 11-1 and earned a No. 4 national ranking. It was UNC's highest final ranking since Carolina finished third in 1948.

The 1998 season will be Torbush's 11th in Chapel Hill, but first full year as head coach. The previous 10 seasons, he was the architect of UNC's defense. That unit led the Atlantic Coast Conference in total defense in each of the last three seasons and was among the top five in the nation in every category the last two years.

In 1996, Torbush was named the National Defensive Coordinator of the Year by American Football Quarterly. He was one of five finalists for the 1997 Frank Broyles Award that honors the nation's top assistant coach.

During his tenure, Carolina's defense developed into one of the nation's best. Carolina was No. 2 in the nation last year in total yards allowed per game at 209.3. It was the second consecutive year in which the Tar Heels have finished No. 2 in the country in total defense. The Tar Heels were also third in the country in pass efficiency defense (81.52 points), fourth in run defense (77.9 yards per game) and fifth in scoring defense (13.0 points per game).

Defensive end Greg Ellis, cornerback Dre' Bly and outside linebacker Brian Simmons earned consensus first-team All-America honors in 1997 and middle linebacker Kivuusama Mays was a third-team A.P. All-America. It marked the first time in ACC history that a school had three consensus All-America defenders in the same year.

Carolina is the only school in the country to finish among the top five in the country in total defense, run defense, pass defense and scoring defense in each of the last two seasons. The Tar Heels were also the only team in the nation last year to have finalists for the Lombardi, Butkus and Thorpe Awards as the lineman, linebacker and defensive back.

Torbush is best known in football circles as a defensive mastermind, but his reputation as a devoted family man with strong personal and spiritual convictions is far greater. True, he is an outstanding teacher of football techniques and strategy and is a tenacious recruiter, but if you ask his players and peers, it is his ability to teach life skills and build relationships that draw even higher praise.

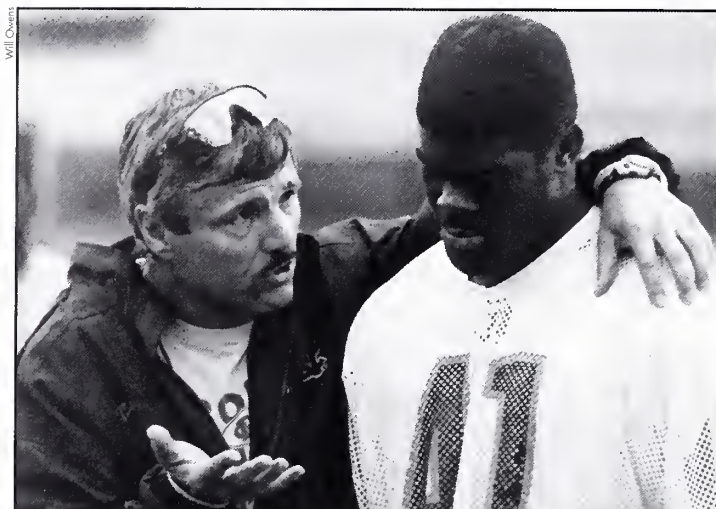

"I always thought Carl was an excellent tactician, but more than that he is a players coach," says Mike Gottfried, ESPN's lead analyst. "Players love to play for him. They get excited about playing for him, they have a good relationship with him and they get in it for the long haul with him. He is an excellent defensive coach and I think he will be an excellent head coach because he has earned respect with his demeanor, his intelligence and his work ethic. I like him as a football coach but I give him higher marks as a man for his high morals. It's nice to see good things happen to good people."

"I love to play for Coach Torbush because he likes to take chances defensively," says Bly, who could become the only player in ACC history to earn consensus All-America honors three times. "He wants us to play aggressively. He's a players' coach and the guys really respect him and look up to him personally. If you have a problem, even if it is not related to football, you can go talk to him. He's a great listener."

In a poll taken of 1998 Tar Heels in which they were asked to provide a word or phrase that they felt best described Torbush, "intense" was the clear winner. Torbush is intense in his preparation, affection for his players and staff, will to win and commitment to be the best. There are no half-efforts in his gameplan, no settling for second-best.

"If there is a right person to take this program to another level it's Carl Torbush," says Rick Steinbacher, captain and starting middle linebacker on the 1993 UNC team that won 10 games. "If you look at the Gator Bowl, you saw a different personality, a little more urgency, a little more intensity. I think that's something you'll see from this team. He's the kind of guy who believes in all out intensity, all out perfection on every play."

Players also described him as "a players' coach, family man, good Christian who puts family first, honest, genuine, real, motivated, energetic, magnificent, determined, ready, enthusiastic, down to earth, tough, intense Christian, competitive, hard-nosed, exciting, upright and dedicated."

It is no shock then that the players rallied around Torbush so dramatically last December when athletic director Dick Baddour was selecting the next head coach. Half a dozen veteran players representing their teammates asked to meet with Baddour and gave Torbush a rousing recommendation. When Baddour announced Torbush's selection he said, "Carl is an outstanding coach and a person of the highest standards. He is one of the finest defensive minds in college football. He has wonderful rapport with the players and he is a terrific recruiter and student of the game."

And what of that visit to the athletic director's office by the six football players? "What they did was really special," Baddour said. The players' feelings certainly left their mark on the new head coach.

"It humbled me to know that the players thought enough of me to go to Mr. Baddour," says Torbush. "I thought I had developed a tremendous relationship with the linebackers, defense and the whole football team, but you are never sure how much people respect you, admire you and trust you until this happened. That told me, 'Coach, we do love you, want you and respect you.'"

Torbush has also received tremendous backing from the entire athletic department. Since coming to Chapel Hill in 1988, Torbush has remained one of the most popular people in the department and is one of the program's biggest fans. He is a huge men's and women's basketball fan, thinks field

- The coaches who have had the most influence on me and my career are: Dal Shealy (college coach), Bob Polston (high school coach), Ron Case, Grant Teaff, Billy Brewer, Mack Brown
- The biggest influences on me as a person have been: my mother and father, Bob Polston, Dal Shealy, Ken Sparks
- My hobbies are: collecting baseball cards and sports memorabilia, enjoying the lake

- What is the single most important piece of advice anybody has ever given you: never ask of others what you would not do yourself; treat others as you would like to be treated

- My favorite part of practice is: spring practice scrimmages

- If you could be a world class athlete in another sport, what sport would it be: baseball

- My favorite way to unwind after a game is: sit in the recliner with lots of food and watch college football games with my wife and son

- When you think of the personal traits and characteristics of the great players you have coached, what are the ones that repeat themselves in all the great players: great work habits, intensity, mental and physical toughness and coachable

- Three things that someone writing a feature story about me should really know:

1. I was the only white athlete in an all black high school; 2. I earned All-America honors in two sports in college; 3. I have been the head baseball coach and head football coach in college hockey coach Karen Shelton could whip any number of college football teams into shape and attends and supports as many Olympic Sport events as his schedule allows.

"I can't tell you how much I appreciate the support I have had from our other coaches," Torbush adds. "These are relationships I've developed over 10 years time and they are very special to me."

What is special to those who know Torbush is his every-day approach to simply being a good person. Almost embarrassed by his roomy new office, Torbush is careful to remain in touch with his roots.

"I do not want to change as a person just because I am the head ball coach," he says. "I want my staff to enjoy working here every day and I want my players to love the game of football and get their degree. This is the University's football team, not mine. I want people to think they can approach me and say hello whether they are the Chancellor, a coach, campus police officer or custodian. That will never change."

"At heart, I am just a big sports fan. I enjoy saying we have one of the best athletic programs in the country - in all sports, not just football. I think it's important to be in the Top 10 in football and basketball, both men and women. I think it's important that the entire coaching staff all pull together. There's no jealousy here. That's important, too, and something I believe in."

Torbush also believes in an aggressive, man-to-man defensive philosophy and a pro style offensive system that will emphasize both passing and running the football. "We want to continue to throw the ball as well as we have thrown it the last several years and be able to convert on third downs like we have," he says. "To be consistently among the Top 10 football teams and be able to beat the teams we have to beat on a yearly basis, we are going to have to be able to run the ball better. We need to run it better, but not necessarily more. We want to feel as good about our running game as our passing game."

In his 10 years in Chapel Hill

as defensive coordinator, a position he retains even as head coach, Torbush constructed one of the nation's toughest defenses. Twenty-three of his former players have made NFL rosters, not including the six defenders who were drafted in April or three who signed NFL free agent contracts.

Carolina had three defensive players selected in the first round of the 1998 NFL Draft, including Ellis (eighth pick by the Cowboys), Simmons (17th pick by the Bengals) and tackle Vonnie Holliday (19th pick by the Bengals). Two other recent Tar Heel defenders – cornerback Thomas Smith and lineman Marcus Jones were first-round picks. Smith came to UNC as a walk-on, but was a first round pick by Buffalo in 1993. Jones earned consensus All-America honors in 1995 and was picked in the opening round the next spring by Tampa Bay.

Last year, 14 former Tar Heels coached on defense by Torbush played in the NFL. That included linebackers Bernardo Harris of Green Bay, Dwight Hollier of Miami and Mike Morton of the Raiders. Harris started for the Packers in the Super Bowl. Two years ago, he was Green Bay's top special teams tackler as the Packers won the Vince Lombardi Trophy.

"The University of North Carolina is very fortunate to have Carl Torbush as its head coach," says Gil Brandt, NFL consultant, and former Director of Player Personnel for the Dallas Cowboys. "While he is a stern taskmaster and works his players hard, after the players leave the field there is no more accessible coach than Carl Torbush. He has a special passion for his players. He understands that there is more to college life than football games and practice for his athletes. He believes the athlete should be a well-rounded member of the student body."

Torbush has coached some of the top linebackers in Carolina history. Hollier, Tommy Thigpen, Eric Gash, Harris, Kerry Mock, Eddie Mason, Mike Morton, James Hamilton, Simmons and Mays all earned NFL opportunities after playing under Torbush.

"Coach Torbush was definitely instrumental in teaching me the skills about being a linebacker," says Hollier. "I owe him a lot and I am very appreciative of the lessons on football and life that he has taught me. Coach Torbush taught us a work ethic that is required in the NFL. Even when you don't have to, you need to be working out or doing something to prepare yourself. We spent a lot of time at Carolina learning the game of football."

In the last 10 years, Carolina has received 37 All-ACC selections on defense, including 16 first-team choices. Carolina placed five defensive players on the 1997 All-ACC first team and three more on the All-ACC second team. That totals eight of the 11 starters on defense among the top 22 players on defense in the ACC.

Six defenders have received All-America accolades, including first team selections Bracey Walker (safety, 1993), Jones (1995), Bly (1996, 1997), Ellis (1997) and Simmons (1997).

Ellis is just the third player in Carolina history to be named first-team All-ACC in three seasons. Ellis set the UNC career record for quarterback sacks with 32.5. He was a finalist in 1997 for the Lombardi Award, which is presented to the nation's best lineman.

Simmons was rated the No. 3 player in the 1998 NFL Draft by Sports Illustrated. The NFL Scouting Service rated him a perfect 8.0, one of just two players in the entire country to receive a perfect ranking (Tennessee quarterback Peyton Manning was the other).

"Regardless of your athletic ability, Coach Torbush makes sure that every player learns the proper technique," says Simmons. "Then as you get older, he allows you to 'freelance' more within the system and let your athletic ability and aggressiveness make plays. On and off the field, Coach is a straightforward guy. He makes you feel welcome and you trust him and can come talk to him about anything, not just football."

Mays was a finalist for the Butkus Award, which is presented to the nation's top linebacker. Carolina was the only school in the country with four players on the Butkus Award Watch List (Mays, Simmons, Brandon Spoon and Keith Newman). A two-time first-team All-ACC selection, Mays made over 100 tackles for three consecutive seasons.

The 1997 defense was one of the finest in Atlantic Coast Conference history. The 209.3 yards allowed per game was the lowest figure by an ACC team since 1963. Other defensive highlights from recent thrilling 1992 season was led by a defensive stand in which Carolina gave up just three points in the second half. The 1992 Tar Heels were second in the ACC in total defense behind Florida State and 31st in the nation. In 1991, Carolina was 19th in the country against the run and 23rd overall.

In 1990, the Tar Heels set a school record that still stands with 45 quarterback sacks. Hollier and Thigpen both earned All-ACC years include:

- Carolina has allowed fewer yards per game in each of the last five seasons. (326.5 in 1992, 322.3 in 1993, 319.3 in 1994, 267.3 in 1995, 225.6 in 1996 and 209.3 in 1997).

- Carolina's defense has allowed one touchdown or fewer in 20 of the last 24 games. Only two teams (Florida State and Stanford) scored two touchdowns on Carolina in that span.

- Opponents have gained more than 300 yards in just two of the last 24 games. Only four teams gained more than 200 yards against the Tar Heels in 1997.

- Last year, Carolina's defense held the opposition to no gain or negative yards in 50.2 percent of all plays. The opponents ran 693 plays and gained zero or minus yards 348 times. That includes 174 incomplete passes, 112 tackles for losses, 47 tackles for no gain and 15 interceptions.

- Last year, Carolina gave up less than 50 yards rushing in six games and less than 100 yards in nine games. The Tar Heels allowed 77.9 yards per game rushing, the third-lowest figure at UNC in the last 62 years.

- No team has scored more than 20 points in a game against UNC in the last two years.

In 1996, the UNC defense ranked first in the nation in points allowed per game, second in total yards allowed per game and third in pass efficiency defense and run defense. The Tar Heels forced 34 turnovers in the regular season, the fourth-most in the country, and forced West Virginia, which had committed the fewest turnovers in the country, to turn the ball over four times in the Gator Bowl. Carolina allowed just 10.0 points and 225.6 yards per game. Bly (consensus first-team), Simmons (second-team) and Ellis (second-team) earned All-America honors. Seven of the 11 starters on defense were first- or second-team All-ACC selections.

In 1995, Torbush had just three returning starters on defense, but fashioned a new, aggressive scheme around a pair of sophomore linebackers – Mays and Simmons – and a dominant frontline led by Jones, Terry and Ellis. Carolina led the ACC and was sixth in the nation in total defense in 1995 as it allowed 267.3 yards per game. It was the first UNC team to lead the circuit in defense in 12 years. Jones earned ACC Defensive Player-of-the-Year honors and consensus All-America honors and broke Lawrence Taylor's career school record for quarterback sacks.

In 1994, Carolina was third in the ACC and 27th in the country in total defense. The Tar Heels were 16th in the nation against the run at just 115.2 yards per contest. All three starting linebackers that year were in NFL camps, including Morton who plays for the Oakland Raiders and Mason, who played for the New York Jets.

In 1993, the Tar Heels placed seven defensive players on the first-, second- or third-team All-ACC squads after finishing second in the league in total yards. Carolina was seventh in the nation against the run and 21st in total defense. The defensive highlight that year came in UNC's 24-0 shutout win over Clemson as the Tar Heels limited the Tigers to three yards rushing. It was the second time in 14 years that Clemson had been blanked.

The Peach Bowl win over Mississippi State that capped a recognition that year, a season that was highlighted by a fourth quarter goalline stand that forced a tie with eventual co-national champion Georgia Tech.

"That third year here (1990) was when I saw it start to happen," says Torbush. "I saw it in the spring after the second year. As coaches we could see guys like Thigpen, Rondell Jones and Tommy Smith were special. We were recruiting better athletes. The win over Wake Forest in 1990 when we came back from 24-10 down was a key game. After that game we started to feel like we had a chance to win."

Torbush joined Mack Brown's original staff on December 28, 1987, after resigning as head coach at Louisiana Tech. Torbush was 3-8 in his first season as a head coach. He left as a result of a change in administration at the Ruston, La., school, and for the opportunity to coach at Carolina.

He had taken over the Louisiana Tech program after 12 years as an assistant to Billy Brewer at three different schools. He coached linebackers and defensive ends at Southeastern Louisiana from 1976-79, was the assistant head coach and coached linebackers at Louisiana Tech from 1980-82 and was defensive coordinator and linebackers coach at the University of Mississippi from 1983-86.

Torbush spent those 12 years under Brewer alongside Robert Youngblood, currently the head coach and assistant principal at Oxford (Miss.) High School. Youngblood coordinated the defensive staff at SE Louisiana and Louisiana Tech and then switched places with Torbush at Ole Miss.

"If I had a son, Coach Torbush would be the one that I would want to coach him," says Youngblood. "He's a tremendous person. His character and integrity are the best; he is the whole ball of wax."

"I don't think you could pick a better man to run a football program. He's a great motivator, a great tactician and a great teacher. He's just so very thorough and such a hard worker, and that's what it's all about. He does things the right way."

SE Louisiana finished 9-1-1 and was ranked in the Top 10 in Division II in 1976 in his first year as a fulltime assistant coach. Linebacker Calvin Favron went on to play for the St. Louis Cardinals in the NFL.

Torbush also was the head baseball coach at SE Louisiana and was named Gulf South Conference Baseball Coach of the Year in 1978 as he led the Lions to the conference title. The baseball team was 15th in the country in 1978 and 12th in the nation in 1979.

He spent three years in his first stint at Louisiana Tech and helped guide the Bulldogs to the 1982 I-AA semifinals. The Bulldogs were ranked No. 2 in the final I-AA poll in 1982. Torbush coached four linebackers who played in the NFL, including Tank Landry (New Orleans), Andre Young (San Diego), Kenny Williams (Pittsburgh) and Tony Boles.

In his four years as defensive coordinator at Ole Miss, Torbush overhauled the Rebel defense. Ole Miss was last in the Southeastern Conference in total defense his first year in Oxford, but was No. 1 in the SEC in 1986, his final year there. Ron Case, Carolina's defensive backs coach since 1996 and Torbush's position coach in college, rejoined Torbush at Ole Miss. The Rebels played in two bowl games in those four seasons, including the 1983 Independence Bowl, Ole Miss's first postseason appearance in 12 years.

Torbush helped coach a number of outstanding players at Ole Miss, including future NFL standouts Jeff Herrod (Indianapolis), Freddie Joe Nunn (Colts), Wesley Walls (now a tight end with the the Royals in February 1975 and played in the midseason All-Star Game with the Royals' Class A franchise in Sarasota, Fla. John Schuerholz, the general manager who constructed the Atlanta Braves in the 1990s, is the executive who signed Torbush to a pro baseball contract. Torbush was teammates with future major leaguer Clint Hurdle. Swing guru Charlie Lau was his batting instructor.

Following the 1975 pro baseball season, Carl and his wife-to-be, Janet Gilbert – who he met at Carson-Newman – hopped into their non-air conditioned 1975 Toyota Corolla and drove from the head coach."

Torbush launched his coaching career after an outstanding playing career at the junior high, high school and collegiate levels.

His father, Carl William Torbush, moved the family from East Spencer, N.C., to Knoxville, Tenn., when Carl Jr. was 11 and one-half years old, midway through his seventh grade year. Carl played most sports as a kid, excelling in baseball and basketball and playing sandlot football. He played organized football for the first time in the eighth grade. He claims his football career began when he was sitting on the front porch with his dad and some ninth graders walked by on the way to practice and asked Carl to join them. He did and has been playing or coaching the sport ever since. The second day of practice he became a center and linebacker and never got a chance to play running back, his dream position.

His junior high coach, Bob Addonizio, made him one of two eighth graders to start on his junior high football team. Although Torbush excelled at a young age in football, baseball and basketball, boyhood friend Randy Wood says his track career actually tells a lot about Torbush's determination.

"When Carl moved to Tennessee everyone thought he was this funny-talking kid from North Carolina," says Wood. "We were in all the same classes together so we became friends and we are still friends to this day. We played a lot of ball together. Carl was a really hard worker. He may not have had as much talent as some kids, but no one worked harder than Carl. He hated to lose, even in practice. We would stay out there practicing until he won. You could tell even back in high school that he was a leader."

"Carl also ran track because we were a really small junior high school. He was a star in football and baseball but in track he ran the 880 and came in last in every meet all year and took a good deal of ribbing for it. But he kept trying and

Carl Torbush earned first-team All-America honors in both football and baseball at Carson-Newman. He led the Eagles to the NAIA National Championship football game as a junior. Torbush also played one season with the Kansas City Royals' Class A team in Sarasota, Fla.

Carolina Panthers), Tony Bennett (Colts) and Stevon Moore (Baltimore Ravens).

"Carl is a very well organized, very intense guy, a guy who works at it all the time," says Brewer, his boss for a dozen years. "He's a tremendous communicator and a relentless recruiter. Carl Torbush will get the job done. This man can coach."

Torbush began his coaching career as assistant football and baseball coach at Carter High School in Knoxville, Tenn., in 1974-75. He resigned after the baseball season to play professional baseball in the Kansas City Royals organization. Torbush was signed by Sarasota to Waco, Texas.

Torbush began his college coaching career as a graduate assistant under Grant Teaff at Baylor. He earned his master's degree in physical education and health at Baylor in 1976.

"I've known for a long, long time that Carl would be a Division I-A head coach," says Teaff, who is now the Executive Director of American Football Coaches Association. "I was fortunate to work with him early in his career and it was obvious that he had all the necessary characteristics for becoming a great head coach."

"I think Carolina has made one of the great decisions in its athletic history in naming Carl working hard at getting better and in the last meet, the city meet, he finally beat someone. He didn't finish last. I think that was one of his greatest thrills — not finishing last in that city track meet. That just shows you the way he was. Even if he was not very good at something, he would just work harder and harder."

Torbush attended Austin-East High School in Knoxville and played for Coach Bob Polston, who was almost a second father to him. Oddly, he played center on offense and cornerback on defense as a sophomore and junior and led the league in interceptions as a junior with eight. As a senior he moved to linebacker. Polston's teams lost just four games in Torbush's three years.

"If you had a son you would like him to turn out exactly like Carl Torbush," says Polston. "He's one of the finest kids I have ever been associated with. I didn't know he was going to be a football coach, but I was sure he was going to be successful at whatever profession he chose. He's dedicated, intelligent and works at it. Plus he loves the game. He came from a good family."

"His dad, Big Carl, was at every game," recalls Wood. "He would sit back real quiet, but you always knew he was there supporting us. Big Carl was a really good influence on Little Carl."

A multi-sport standout, Torbush had several Division I and even started in the spring game.

The summer after his first year at UT, however, he signed a scholarship to play baseball and football at Carson-Newman College in Jefferson City, Tenn. He had to sit out the first football season, but played immediately for the baseball team. Not playing in games, however, did nothing to contain his competitive fires, however.

"His first year he was ineligible to play because he had transferred from Tennessee so he played against the first team," recalls Coach Case, who was linebackers coach under head coach Dal Shealy at Carson-Newman. "Coach Shealy, he's the type who never wants to stop practice until the first team scored. With Carl on the other side, there were a lot of nights we had practice go for a long time."

Torbush played three years of football and four years of baseball at Carson-Newman and performed so well that he earned first-team All-America honors in both sports and has been inducted into the Carson-Newman and Knoxville Sports Halls of Fames.

In 1971-72, Torbush received second-team All-America honors as a catcher. In 1972-73, he was named honorable mention All-America as a linebacker and first-team All-America in baseball. In 1973-74, he was first-team NAIA All-America in both sports. He hit scholarship offers, but he was holding out for an athletic scholarship from the University of Tennessee. When one didn't come, he attended UT anyway and walked on the football team. He did not play as a freshman, but worked his way up to the second team

.420 as a junior, .454 as a senior and still holds the career batting average record at .401.

One of his teammates at Carson-Newman for two years was Ken Rucker, a linebacker, who is in his first year as Carolina's linebackers coach and special teams coordinator. "Carl was the kind of teammate you could depend on," says Rucker. "Playing alongside him, you never had to worry about the job getting done. He's a friend, but he is also the kind of person I respect because he respects others. I've known him for almost 30 years and I have grown to love him and I am thrilled to get the opportunity to coach here and work alongside him again."

As a junior the Eagles lost to East Texas in the NAIA championship game. East Texas was led by Harvey Martin, who went to star for the Dallas Cowboys. As a senior, Carson-Newman was sixth in the country.

"As a player, Carl was really a playing coach," recounts Coach Shealy. "He was a strong leader on the field who studied the game — he knew all the players' assignments, on both sides of the ball. He was a super competitor. Carl has excellent self-control and he brings his high principles and standards to his coaching. I'm sure he'll continue to be received and appreciated as one of the finest 'people' coaches in football."

In January 1996, Torbush hired Case to coach the cornerbacks and safeties at Carolina, reuniting a special friendship and bond that is extraordinary. Case coached Torbush and Rucker at Carson-Newman, coached with Torbush for four years at Ole Miss and is one of the most popular assistant coaches the Tar Heels have ever had. Torbush and Case have a mutual friendship and sense of respect.

"I've known Carl for 28 years," says Case, smiling like a proud uncle. "He was one of the first players I ever coached. As a player you didn't have to say a whole lot to him. You taught him the scheme and you never had to worry about him getting the job done. He's always on time, never late, always ready to go. He loves the game of football. As a coach, he has a good football mind, is a hard worker, but he's fun to work with because he allows you to enjoy the game as a coach. It's been fun to see him progress in his coaching career. He very much deserved the head coaching job at UNC and I think he will do an outstanding job."

Torbush has coached defense his entire career, but his admirers do not rest solely on that side of the ball. In fact, Mike Geter, a senior tailback who saw limited action in his collegiate career, one of the six players who approached the UNC administration on Torbush's behalf. NFL players such as Corey Holliday, who had two catches in the Super Bowl for the Steelers, and fullback William Henderson, who started the last two Super Bowls for the Packers, also endorse the new head coach.

"Carl Torbush is an honest, straightforward guy," says Holliday. "He speaks the truth and lives the truth and only good things come from that. He is more than just focus and attitude. There's more to life than football. He wants to know more about you than just football, he wants to get to know you personally and that is what a good coach is all about."

"Coach Torbush has always been one of my favorite coaches," adds Henderson. "He's got a personality that works well with the players. I am sure the guys will learn a lot from him. He's one of those guys you just want to play for."

Torbush will turn 47 on October 11. His wife, Janet, has a Ph.D. in education and teaches at Elon College. Their son, Trey, is eight years old.

Ken Browning

ASSISTANT COACH
Defensive Tackles
(5th Year at UNC)

Twice named the state's high school Coach of the Year, Ken Browning brought that formula for success to Carolina. Browning has developed several outstanding tackles, including first-round NFL draft picks Vonnie Holliday and Marcus Jones.

Holliday was the 19th overall player selected in the 1998 NFL Draft by the Green Bay Packers, Jones was a first-round selection of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers in 1996 and Rick Terry was the first player selected in the second round in 1997 by the New York Jets. Andre Purvis was a fifth round pick in 1997 by the Bengals and Riddick Parker has been a member of the Seattle Seahawks for the past three seasons. Nate Hobgood-Chittick signed a free agent contract with the New York Giants.

Holliday had an outstanding senior season in which he made 13 tackles for losses, including five quarterback sacks, and had 31 quarterback pressures. Jones earned first-team All-America honors, was the ACC's Defensive Player of the Year and set the school record for quarterback sacks in 1995.

The Tar Heels have led the ACC in total defense in each of the last three seasons and finished No. 2 in the nation in yards allowed per game in 1996 and 1997. The Tar Heels were third in the country against the run in 1996 allowing 73.9 yards per game. Last fall, Carolina was fourth in the nation stopping the run as the opponents averaged 77.9 yards per contest. UNC held opponents to less than 50 yards rushing in six games last year and less than 100 yards in nine of 12 games. The Tar Heels have held 27 straight opponents to less than 200 yards rushing.

Carolina has not allowed an opponent to score more than 20 points in the last two seasons.

Browning was the head coach and athletic director at Northern High School for 18 years. He posted a 178-35 record and won the 1993 4-A state title and Shrine Bowl. Over his last three years, Northern built a 43-2 record and was named the North Carolina Coach of the Year by the Associated Press in 1992 and 1993. In 1988 he was elected as first president of the North Carolina football Coaches Association. He directed North Carolina to a 9-0 win over South Carolina in the Shrine Bowl as he became only the third coach to win both the state title and Shrine Bowl in the same year. Browning was the coach at Ledford High in Thomasville from 1970-75 before moving to Durham.

Recruiting Areas: Northeast and North Central North Carolina (Elizabeth City, Raleigh, Durham, Winston-Salem, Greensboro), Tidewater and Southern Virginia (Danville, Martinsville, Roanoke, Hargrave, Chesapeake, Virginia Beach, Norfolk, Portsmouth), Central and Eastern South Carolina.

Ken Browning Personality Profile

- The sports teams I followed as a kid were: Baltimore Colts
- My favorite football players to watch as a kid were: Gino Morchetti, Johnny Unitas, Jim Brown
- The one team achievement I have been a part of that I cherish the most has been: I have been fortunate enough to have been involved with too many championship teams to pick just one
- The best thing about coaching college football is: the opportunity to meet and try to help many young people through an exciting and great learning experience
- If I could take three people (living or dead) to dinner, they would be: my parents and grandparents
- The coaches who have had the most influence on me and my career are: Allen Brown. We have spent the most time together studying football
- The biggest influences on me as a person have been: my mother and father
- My hobbies are: fishing
- My favorite part of practice is: individual technique periods
- My favorite way to unwind after a game is: grade the film - learn from it and get ready for next week
- When you think of the personal traits and characteristics of the great players you have coached, what are the ones that repeat themselves in all the great players: they are all effort players and have fun playing the game

Ron Case

ASSISTANT COACH
Defensive Backs
(3rd Year at UNC)

Carolina's return to national prominence has been led by a stifling defensive unit, one that finished second in the nation in total defense in each of the last two years. Ron Case has coached the defensive backs in those seasons and is credited with bringing to Chapel Hill the aggressive, man-to-man coverage the Tar Heels now feature. Case's teams have led their respective conferences in pass efficiency defense for three consecutive seasons.

Tar Heel cornerbacks Dre' Bly and Robert Williams and safeties Omar Brown and Greg Williams formed one of the nation's top secondaries over the last two seasons. Bly is the most decorated football player in Carolina history. He is the first Tar Heel to earn consensus first-team All-America honors twice in a career. A two-time finalist for the Thorpe Award, given to the top defensive back in the country, Bly has tied the UNC record for career interceptions with 16.

Robert Williams, a fifth-round selection by the Kansas City Chiefs in the 1998 NFL Draft, broke up 36 passes in the last two seasons and was a first-team All-ACC pick in 1997. Brown anchored UNC's defense that has finished No. 1 in the ACC and No. 3 in the nation in pass efficiency defense in 1996 and 1997. Brown was selected in the fourth round by the Atlanta Falcons in the 1998 draft. Greg Williams signed as a free agent with the Chicago Bears, Terry Billups signed a free agent contract with the New England Patriots and Reggie Love signed to play in the Canadian Football League.

Over the last two seasons, Carolina has intercepted 38 passes and allowed 15 touchdowns in 24 games.

Carolina allowed just 209.3 total yards per game in 1997, the lowest figure allowed by an ACC defense since 1963. The Tar Heels have allowed 300 or more total yards on just two occasions in the last two seasons. Carolina has not allowed an opponent to score more than 20 points in the last two seasons.

Case came to Carolina from LSU, where the Tigers were first in the Southeastern Conference in pass defense in 1995. He spent six years at both Vanderbilt and Ole Miss and coached UNC defensive coordinator Carl Torbush at Carson-Newman.

He spent 13 years in the U.S. Marines after high school and played 11 years of football in the Corps. In 1969, while an undergraduate, he was the defensive coordinator and linebackers coach at Carson-Newman.

He was the head coach at his alma mater in 1978-79 and the assistant head coach and defensive coordinator at Richmond from 1980-82.

Case and his wife, Joan, have five grandchildren - R.J. (7), Luke (4), Jane Costner (4), Madison (2) and Sarah Catherine (2).

Recruiting Areas: Southern North Carolina (Fayetteville, Lumberton, Clinton, Wilmington), Central Tennessee, Atlanta, Mississippi Junior Colleges, Kentucky, Indiana, Northeast South Carolina.

Jim Hofher

ASSISTANT COACH
Quarterbacks,
Passing Game Coordinator
(1st Year at UNC)

Jim Hofher, head football coach at Cornell for the past eight years, is the Tar Heels' new quarterbacks coach and passing game coordinator.

During his eight year tenure at Cornell, the Big Red posted a 44-36 record, including a 35-25 league mark. The 35 wins are the most of any Cornell head coach in league history. While at Cornell, his teams set 172 school records, including 133 offensive records. In the first two years of the NCAA overtime rule, Cornell was 2-1 with both wins occurring in double overtime.

A 1979 Cornell graduate, Hofher became the head coach in January of 1990. Prior to that he coached the quarterbacks at the University of Tennessee in 1989. The Volunteers were the Southeastern Conference tri-champions and defeated Arkansas in the 1990 Cotton Bowl and set a school record for total offense.

From 1987-88, Hofher coached the running backs and special teams at Syracuse University. The Orangemen were undefeated in 1987 with an 11-0-1 record and played Auburn to a tie in the 1988 Sugar Bowl. The 1998 Syracuse squad capped off a 10-2 season with a Hall of Fame Bowl victory over LSU. The Orangemen also established an NCAA record for kicking 260 consecutive PAT's during Hofher's tenure.

From 1983-86, Hofher coached the running backs and special teams at Wake Forest and were Big Four champions in 1984.

His first full time coaching position was at Miami (Ohio) University in 1981-82 coaching the quarterbacks and wide receivers.

Hofher first broke into coaching as a graduate assistant to the offensive staff at Wake Forest in 1979-80. Wake went to its first bowl game, the Tangerine Bowl, in 39 years at the conclusion of the 1979 season to face LSU.

A three-year letterwinner at Cornell, Hofher was the starting quarterback and led the team in passing yardage in each season from 1976-78. He played two years under George Seifert, who later led the San Francisco 49ers to two Super Bowl titles.

He was selected to the Xavier (Conn.) High School Hall of Honors in 1992, and the Middletown (Conn.) Sports

Hall of Fame in 1998.

Hofher is married to Cathy Baxley, who is from Lumberton, N.C. and whose family now resides in Winston-Salem. Cathy is the current President of the American Football Coaches Wives Association, and has been involved with the AFCWA since its creation 10 years ago.

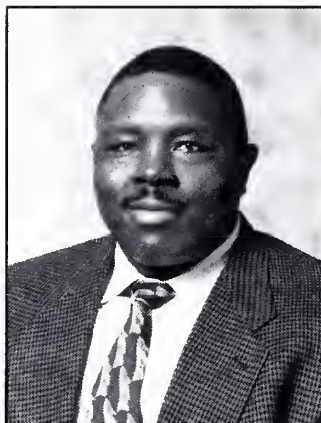

The couple has three daughters, Tara (14), Shannon (11) and Molly (8).

Terry Lewis

ASSISTANT COACH
Tight Ends
(5th Year at UNC,
1st Since 1991)

Terry Lewis, formerly the guards and centers coach at the University of Colorado and a former assistant coach at North Carolina, was the first new assistant coach hired by Tar Heel head football coach Carl Torbush. Lewis coaches the tight ends at UNC.

The 49-year-old graduate of Southern University coached tight ends and offensive tackles at Carolina from 1988-91 under former head coach Mack Brown. Lewis came to Carolina after a year with Brown at Tulane.

Lewis just finished his sixth season at Colorado, where he worked for head coaches Bill McCartney and Rick Neuheisel. He has 27 seasons of experience coaching offensive linemen and/or tight ends. North Carolina is his 10th collegiate coaching stop, including a pair of stints at both UNC and Navy. He coached three All-Americans at Colorado—guard Heath Irwin (1995), guard Chris Naeole (consensus first-team pick in 1996) and center Bryan Stoltzberg (consensus first-team pick in 1996). The Buffalos were 53-16-2 in Lewis' six years. He was the offensive line coach at Colorado in 1994 when Rashaan Salaam won the Heisman Trophy.

In Boulder, Lewis coached the tackles and tight ends in •Three things that someone writing a feature story about me should really know: my father graduated with honors from college, was one of the first black men to sing on TV in Memphis, and was an early friend to former NAACP Director Benjamin Hooks 1992, the tackles in 1993 and 1994, the entire offensive line in 1995 and 1996, and the guards and centers in 1997. He began his coaching career at the United States Naval Academy Prep School in 1971. The Memphis, Tenn., native also coached at Navy (1972-74), Western Michigan (1975-76), Illinois (1977-78), Southern (1979-80), ECU (1981), Navy (1982-83), LSU (1984-86), Tulane (1987), North Carolina (1988-91) and Colorado (1992-97).

He graduated in 1970 from Southern University, where he lettered four years from 1966-69, mostly at offensive tackle. Lewis earned All-America and All-Southwest Athletic Conference honors as a player. In 1970, he played with the Buffalo Bills.

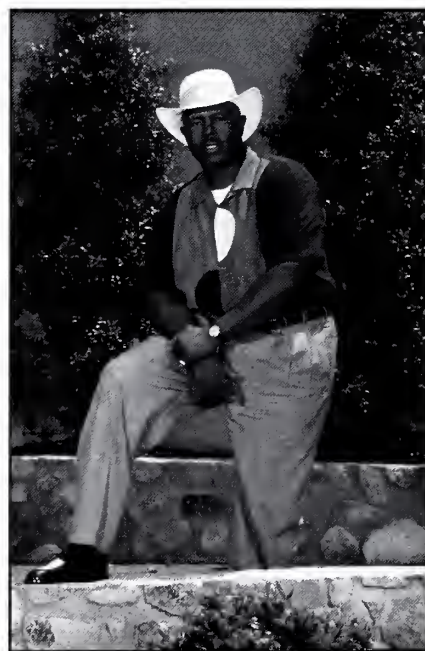

Lewis coached the tackles and tight ends at Carolina in 1988 and 1989 and the offensive tackles in 1990 and 1991.

Kevin Donnalley, entering his eighth year with the Tennessee Oilers, earned first-team All-Atlantic Coast Conference honors under Lewis' tutelage.

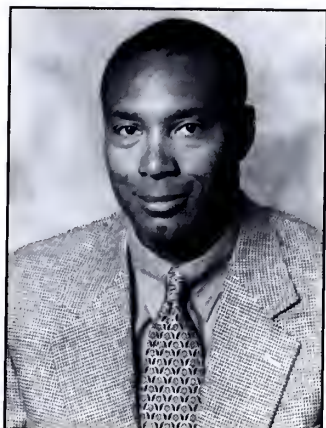

Lewis has coached in nine bowl games, including five New Year's Day games. He coached in the 1985 Sugar Bowl (LSU), the 1985 Liberty Bowl (LSU), the 1987 Sugar Bowl (LSU), the 1987 Independence Bowl (Tulane), the 1992 Fiesta Bowl (Colorado), the 1993 Aloha Bowl (Colorado), the 1994 Fiesta Bowl (Colorado), the 1995 Cotton Bowl (Colorado) and the 1996 Holiday Bowl (Colorado).

Louisiana, Western Tennessee, North Central South Carolina, Houston, Central and Southwest Ohio (Columbus, Cincinnati), California.

Ken Mack

ASSISTANT COACH Running Backs
(3rd Year at UNC)

A three-year letterwinner at Carolina from 1976-78, Ken Mack returned to Chapel Hill for the 1996 season after spending 14 seasons at the University of Virginia. Now entering his third year on the Tar Heel coaching staff, Mack is responsible for the running backs, a position he played at UNC.

In 1996, his first year in Chapel Hill, Mack coached second-team All-ACC tailback and first-team All-ACC specialist Leon Johnson, who had 913 yards rushing, 39 receptions and 12 touchdowns.

Last year, Mack took a backfield with no returning starters and developed it into one of the most productive and consistent units on the field. Jonathan Linton, who entered the year with just 569 career rushing yards, became a standout who earned second-team All-ACC honors and was selected in the fifth round of the 1998 NFL Draft by the Buffalo Bills. Linton became the latest Tar Heel to rush for 1,000 yards, earning it with a 199-yard performance in the regular-season finale against Duke. Linton topped the 100-yard mark four times. He scored a touchdown in 10 of UNC's 12 games, averaged 9.9 yards on 29 receptions in the regular season and finished second in the ACC in all-purpose yards with 117.3 per game. He became the first player in UNC history rush for 100 yards and catch passes for 100 yards in the same game. (Linton had 138 rushing and 137 receiving at Georgia Tech).

Mack also has developed a pair of fullbacks – Deon Dyer and Ronnie Robinson – who added to the Tar Heels' multidimensional offense.

Mack played running back for coach Bill Dooley in 1976-77 and for Dick Crum in 1978. He was a member of Carolina teams which played in the 1976 Peach Bowl and 1977 Liberty Bowl.

The Wayne County, N.C. native coached offensive backs at Howard University in 1980 and defensive ends at the U.S. Naval Academy in 1981. The following year he joined George Welsh's staff at Virginia where he coached running backs for 14 years.

Mack has coached some of the most outstanding running backs in ACC history. Johnson finished his career as the league's alltime all-purpose yardage leader and is eighth in career rushing. At Virginia, where he was a member of eight bowl game staffs, Mack coached Barry Word, who set the school's single-season rushing record in 1985; Terry Kirby, who established UVA's career rushing record; and Tiki Barber, who led the ACC in all-purpose yardage in 1995, Mack's final year in Charlottesville.

Will Owens

Steve Marshall

ASSISTANT COACH
Offensive Coordinator, Offensive Line
(1st Year at UNC)

Steve Marshall is in his first season as the Tar Heels' offensive coordinator and offensive line coach. Marshall handled those same responsibilities last year at Texas A&M.

Marshall coordinated a Texas A&M offense last year that led the Aggies to a 9-4 record, No. 20 final national ranking in the Associated Press poll, Big 12 championship game appearance and Cotton Bowl berth. The Aggies averaged 35.2 points, 374.8 yards and 18 first downs per contest. Three different Aggies rushed for more than 500 yards, eight different players caught at least 10 passes, and two quarterbacks completed 56 percent or more of their passes and had quarterback ratings of 130.63 and 125.20, respectively.

Marshall, a native of Vernon, Conn., played offensive guard and tight end at Louisville in 1976-78. He coached the offensive line and the kicking game at Marshall in 1982-83, the offensive line and tight ends at Louisville in 1984, and coordinated the offense and coached the line at Murray State in 1985-86.

In 1987, Marshall moved to Virginia Tech to coach the offensive line. A year later, he was promoted to offensive coordinator, a position he held for the next five seasons.

Vaughn Hebron, a member of the Denver Broncos Super Bowl championship team, rushed for 2,327 yards, the seventh-highest total in Hokie history, under Marshall's direction. Will Furrer, who played for three NFL teams, quarterbacked the Hokies from 1988-91 and is still the school's second alltime leading passer with 6,009 yards. Antonio Freeman, standout wide receiver for the Green Bay Packers, spent his first two years at Virginia Tech in Marshall's offense and finished his career as the Hokies' alltime leading receiver.

In 1993, he returned to Knoxville to coach the offensive line. After two years he was given the added responsibility of running game coordinator. The Volunteers led the Southeastern Conference in rushing in each of those three seasons. In 1995, Tennessee beat Ohio State in the Citrus Bowl and finished No. 2 in the final coaches poll. In 1996, Marshall coached the offensive line at UCLA.

Marshall has coached in five bowl games, including the 1998 Cotton Bowl at Texas A&M, the 1996 Citrus Bowl, the 1994 Gator Bowl, the 1994 Citrus Bowl and the 1981 Garden State Bowl at Tennessee.

Four of his players from the 1995 Tennessee team are playing in the NFL, including Jason Layman (Nashville Oilers), Bubba Miller (Philadelphia Eagles), Jeff Smith (Kansas City Chiefs) and Leslie Ratliffe (Kansas City Chiefs). He also coached three NFL linemen at Virginia Tech, including William Boatwright (Philadelphia Eagles), Eugene Chen (New England Patriots) and Jim Pyne (Tampa Bay Buccaneers). Chen was a first round draft pick and first-team All-America by the Football Writers. Marshall also coached New England Patriot All-Pro Bruce Armstrong in 1984 at Louisville.

He is married to the former Karin Ross.

Darrell Moody

ASSISTANT COACH
Wide Receivers, Recruiting Coordinator
(9th Year at UNC,
1st Since 1995)

Darrell Moody returns to Carolina to coach the wide receivers and coordinate recruiting. Moody spent eight years at Carolina from 1988-95 in various capacities on the offensive staff, including offensive coordinator, quarterbacks coach and running backs coach. He was a part of four consecutive bowl game appearances at Carolina from 1992-95 and coached record-setting standouts such as Natrone Means, Leon Johnson, Corey Holliday and Jason Stanicek.

The 1998 season will be Moody's 26th as a collegiate coach and his 17th at an ACC institution. The Asheboro, N.C., native played quarterback at N.C. State from 1968-70 and began his coaching career at Asheboro High in 1971. He has made coaching stops at N.C. State (graduate assistant in 1973-74, defensive backs coach in 1976, quarterbacks and running backs coach from 1977-79, wide receivers in 1997), Southern Mississippi (quarterbacks and running backs in 1975), LSU (running backs from 1980-83), Appalachian State (assistant head coach in 1984), Tulane (offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach from 1985-87), North Carolina (1988-95) and Clemson (offensive coordinator in 1996).

Moody has the unique distinction of coaching two of the top six career running backs at three different universities. He coached Ted Brown and Billy Ray Vickers at N.C. State, Dalton Hilliard and Garry James at LSU and Leon Johnson and Means at Carolina.

Over the last six years of his tenure at Carolina, the Tar Heels posted a 47-23-1 record and averaged better than 25 points per game. He coached four 1,000-yard backs (Kennard Martin in 1988, Means in 1991 and 1992, Curtis Johnson in 1993 and Leon Johnson in 1993) and 13 offensive players received first-team All-ACC honors. UNC set a single-season passing yardage record in 1995.

Thirteen former Tar Heels who played in offenses he coordinated in Chapel Hill played in the NFL, including running backs Torin Dorn, Eric Blount, Means, Leon Johnson and William Henderson, wide receivers Corey Holliday and Bucky Brooks, tight ends Deems May, Greg DeLong, Oscar Sturgis and Freddie Jones and offensive linemen Darrell Hamilton, Kevin Donnalley and Brian Bollinger.

Means rushed for 1,000 yards twice and went on to lead the San Diego Chargers to the Super Bowl. Leon Johnson became the career all-purpose yardage leader in ACC history. Henderson never earned all-conference honors at Carolina, but fundamentally was one of the top fullbacks in the ACC. Henderson has started the last two years for the Green Bay Packers.

Moody coached first-team All-ACC wide receiver Torry Holt in 1997. Holt led the ACC in receiving yards last year with 1,099 and 16 touchdowns. He set an ACC single-game record with five TD catches at FSU.

Recruiting Areas: Piedmont and Central North Carolina

Ken Rucker

ASSISTANT COACH
Linebackers,
Special Teams Coordinator
(1st Year at UNC)

Ken Rucker is a 1976 graduate of Carson-Newman College in Jefferson City, Tenn. He played linebacker at Carson-Newman alongside Torbush under defensive coordinator Ron Case, who is currently the Tar Heels' secondary coach. He spent the last four years as the running backs coach at Texas A&M.

Rucker, a native of Morristown, Tenn., has been an assistant coach at the collegiate level for the past 19 years. North Carolina is his seventh college appointment.

He earned all-conference honors in each of his four seasons at Carson-Newman and led the Eagles to the 1972 NAIA championship game. His first coaching stops were as defensive coordinator at Cawood High in Kentucky in 1976 and Crockett High in Tennessee in 1977-78.

He coached the defensive line at Appalachian State from 1979-81, outside linebackers at Richmond in 1982-83, and running backs at Air Force (1984-89), Arkansas (1990-92), Baylor (1993) and Texas A&M (1994-97). He coordinated several areas of special teams for 10 years and was the assistant head coach at Baylor in 1993. Rucker has coached in seven bowl games, including the 1998 Cotton Bowl. Leeland

(10th Year at UNC)

Donnie Thompson enters his 10th season with the Tar Heels. The second-most tenured coach at Carolina, Thompson coaches the defensive ends.

Thompson coached Greg Ellis, who was a 1998 first-round draft pick and the eighth overall player selected by the Dallas Cowboys. Ellis earned consensus first-team All-America honors in 1997 by the Associated Press, the Walter Camp Foundation, the American Football Coaches and Football News. He also set the alltime UNC quarterback sack record with 32.5 and is just the third Tar Heel to receive first-team All-ACC honors three times. Ellis was a finalist for the Lombardi Award which is given to the nation's top lineman. Carolina's two starters at end in 1997, Ellis and Mike Pringley, were named to the ACC All-Academic Team.

The Tar Heels have led the ACC in total defense in each of the last three seasons and finished No. 2 in the nation in yards allowed per game in 1996 and 1997. The Tar Heels were third in the country against the run in 1996 allowing 73.9 yards per game. Last fall, Carolina was fourth in the nation stopping the run as the opponents averaged 77.9 yards per contest. UNC held opponents to less than 50 yards rushing in six games last year and less than 100 yards in nine of 12 games. The Tar Heels have held 27 straight opponents to less than 200 yards rushing. UNC has not allowed an opponent to score more than 20 points in the last two years.

Ellis, Pringley, and Ebenezer Ekuban formed one of the top defensive end units in the nation last fall. The trio combined to make 35.5 tackles for losses, including 17.5 quarterback sacks. They also pressured the quarterback 73 times. Ekuban and Pringley both return in 1998.

Thompson coached Marcus Jones en route to the UNC career quarterback sack record in 1992-95, a mark Ellis topped in 1997. When Jones broke the sack record in 1995, the year he earned consensus first-team All-America honors, he topped the mark held by Lawrence Taylor. Taylor's standard had held for 16 years prior to Jones and Ellis. Jones was a first-round draft pick of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers in 1996.

Thompson began his coaching career at Carolina by coaching the outside linebackers. He coached Bernardo Harris, a second-team All-ACC linebacker in 1993 and a member of the 1997 Super Bowl champion Green Bay Packers. Thompson coached

MATT BOWERS
□ Assistant Athletic Media Relations Director

Matt Bowers is in his third year as an Assistant Athletic Media Relations Director. Overall, he is in his eighth year as part of Carolina's Athletic Media Relations Office.

Bowers' responsibilities include handling the publicity needs of the men's soccer, wrestling and baseball teams. In addition, he assists in the day-to-day publicity of the UNC men's basketball and football teams and is the assistant curator of the Smith Center Memorabilia Room. Bowers also edits the men's basketball game programs. His 1998 men's basketball programs were judged "Best in the Nation."

A 1994 graduate of Carolina, Bowers earned a B.A. with honors in history and psychology. He completed his honors thesis in history and was inducted into Phi Beta Kappa and Psi Chi, the psychology honor society. As an undergraduate, Bowers worked for three years as a student assistant in the UNC Sports Information Office. Following his graduation, he was the office's intern for another year and a half.

As the intern, Bowers was the primary contact for volleyball, wrestling, baseball and women's lacrosse in addition to aiding with the day-to-day promotion of football and men's basketball.

Bowers, 26, is a native of Chapel Hill and a devotee of the Dallas Cowboys. His favorite moment in Carolina athletics was witnessing the Tar Heels' 102-100 double overtime victory at Duke in 1995.

RICK BREWER
□ Associate Athletic Director for Sports Information and Communications

Rick Brewer is in his 31st year in the Carolina Media Relations Office and his 24th as its director. He oversees media relations for the entire 28-sport program.

Brewer is a native of North Carolina, growing up in Winston-Salem and Greensboro. A student assistant in the sports information office for three years, Brewer was named the school's first assistant SID upon graduation in 1971. He held that position for four years and then was named sports information director in the summer of 1975. He was promoted to assistant athletic director in July, 1990 and to associate athletic director in Dec., 1995.

He served as president of the College Sports Information Directors of America during the 1995-96 academic year and still serves on CoSIDA's Board of Directors. In July, 1991 he was inducted into the CoSIDA Hall of Fame.

At the 1996 Final Four he was named by the U.S. Basketball Writers Association as the ninth winner of its Katha Quinn Award. The award, named for the late St. John's SID, is given to recognize someone who has rendered a special service to the media in its coverage of college basketball. Brewer, Quinn and Roger Valdiserri of Notre Dame are the only SIDs who have been selected for the award at this time.

Twice he was appointed by the NCAA Council to serve terms on the NCAA Communications Committee before it was altered due to NCAA reorganization.

In 1984, Brewer served as a press officer for the United States Olympic Committee

LARRY GALLO JR.
□ Senior Associate
Athletic Director

Larry Gallo joined the Carolina athletic department on Nov. 1, 1997 in the position of Senior Associate Athletic Director.

Previously, Gallo had been the Director of Athletics at Indiana State University for three years.

Prior to his tenure at Indiana State, Gallo had spent eight years in various roles at Wake Forest University.

Gallo, a 1973 graduate of the University of Rhode Island, steps into the role previously held by current UNC athletic director Dick Baddour. Gallo will work as Baddour's top assistant.

His major responsibilities include assisting Baddour in the daily running of the department's administration; supervising departmental personnel; handling compliance and student-athlete eligibility issues in regard to ACC and NCAA guidelines; supervising the administration of the athletic grant-in-aid program and the department's substance abuse program; serves as the department contact with the University offices of admissions, financial aid and academic support services; and assists with the administration of the Sports Medicine and Athletic training units. He also supervises several departmental offices, including the Media Relations and Sports Information Office, Community Relations Office, football administration and academic support services for athletics.

While at Indiana State, Gallo was chair of the Officiating Committee in the Missouri Valley Conference and a member of the MVC's Eligibility and Long Range Planning Committees. He was also a member of the NCAA Division I-AA Governance Committee.

From 1990-1995, Gallo was the associate athletic director for internal affairs and operations at Wake Forest. He was responsible for the men's Olympic Sports program, all game and event management with particular emphasis on football and men's basketball, facility administration and the athletic department's substance abuse program. He also handled NCAA compliance issues for all sports.

He was the Tournament Director when Wake Forest hosted the first and second round of the 1993 NCAA Men's Basketball Championship.

From 1987-90, Gallo was the assistant athletic director for facility development and management and the assistant baseball coach with responsibilities as the pitching coach. He was chair of the ACC Men's Soccer Committee and Tournament and vice chair of the ACC Baseball Committee and Tournament. He also served on the NCAA Men's Soccer Advisory Committee and was involved with Special Olympics. Gallo now serves as Vice Chairman of the ACC Men's Soccer Committee.

Gallo was the head baseball coach at the University of Notre Dame from 1980 to 1987 and was chair of the physical education department in his last three years in South Bend.

He played baseball at the University of Rhode Island from 1970-73 and later coached at his alma mater for five seasons. He was selected to the Yankee Conference's All-Academic Team in 1973. Gallo also was a physical education instructor at URI. He received his master's degree from Rhode Island in 1977.

Gallo married the former Laura Cramer in 1979. The couple has two children, Nicholas (15), and Christopher (11)

□ BRUCE HEMPHILL
Athletic Director*

Bruce Hemphill is entering his eighth season at the University of North Carolina. He joined the Tar Heel staff just prior to the end of the 1990 season as recruiting coordinator and held that position for four years. Hemphill is an assistant to athletic director Dick Baddour and handles matters of football compliance as well as special administrative projects.

Hemphill is in his 21st season as a college coach or administrator. He is a 1977 graduate of Louisiana State University where he lettered three years in football and won All-Academic Southeastern Conference honors at wide receiver. He served as a graduate assistant in 1977-78 and was the Tigers' recruiting director in 1979. Hemphill earned his master's in education administration at LSU in 1979. He then served as LSU's head junior varsity coach. Hemphill became the supervisor for Health and Physical Education for the Louisiana Department of Education in 1984.

Following a short stint there he worked as an assistant coach in charge of wide receivers at Louisiana Tech for two seasons. He was recruiting coordinator at N.C. State from 1987 to 1989. He then became the assistant recruiting coordinator at South Carolina and held that post until he came to Chapel Hill in November 1990.

Hemphill was born on Christmas Day 1955, in Sulphur, La., where he was an all-state prepster at Sulphur High. He is married to the former Susan Jones. The couple has a son, Jamie (3), and a daughter, Hayden (2).

□ DAN HOOKER
Head Trainer

Dan Hooker is heading into his 10th season as head athletic trainer for the University of North Carolina football team. Hooker has been on the Carolina athletic training staff since 1972.

In addition to his work with the gridiron Tar Heels, Hooker also coordinates athletic training and physical therapy at Carolina. He has held that position since 1984.

A native of Danville, Va., Hooker initially came to Chapel Hill to direct the physical education department athletic training education program. He has served as head trainer for a number of Tar Heel teams, including football. He has worked with four lacrosse NCAA title teams.

Hooker earned his Bachelor of Science degree in physical therapy from the Medical College of Virginia in Richmond in 1967. He also received a Master of Science degree in secondary education from the University of Southern California in 1971 and Ph.D in education from Carolina in 1981. He became a Board Certified Sports Physical Therapist in 1987.

He was recertified as a Sports Physical Therapy Specialist in 1998 and in May, he was elected President of the Atlantic Coast Conference Sports Medicine Association for a three year term.

His favorite experience at Carolina was helping and watching Octavus Barnes successfully comeback from a serious knee injury in 1996. He says it gave him a great feeling of pride and satisfaction.

Dan and his wife, Sharon, have two sons, Sean and Stefan.

DAVE LOHSE

□ Director of Media Relations for Olympic Sports

Dave Lohse is in his 22nd year as a member of the Carolina athletic media relations staff.

He was promoted to the position of Director of Media Relations and Publications for Olympic Sports in December of 1995. He had been the Associate Sports Information Director from 1990-95. Prior to that, he was the Assistant Sports Information Director from 1979-90 and a graduate assistant in the sports information office from 1977-79.

Lohse's major responsibilities include coordinating the media relations and publications efforts for the entire 26-sport Olympic sports program at the University. Specifically, Lohse handles publicity efforts for women's soccer, men's and women's swimming and diving and men's and women's lacrosse.

He also assists in publicizing football and men's basketball programs and is the curator of the Smith Center Memorabilia Room. He serves as the public address announcer for home events in swimming and diving, women's soccer, men's soccer, men's lacrosse and women's lacrosse. He is also the football press box public address announcer at Kenan Stadium.

Lohse has won over 60 national and district editing and writing awards from the College Sports Information Directors of America since 1980. His 1990, 1991, 1992, 1993, 1995 and 1996 men's lacrosse media guides and his 1991-92 men's basketball game programs were all judged "Best in the Nation" by CoSIDA. His story chronicling the Tar Heel women's soccer team's recapturing of the NCAA championship last year was named by CoSIDA as the best season review story in the nation in 1997.

The U.S. Olympic Committee picked Lohse to serve as a press officer at the 1988 Summer Olympic Games in Seoul, Korea, working with the American diving and yachting teams. He also worked for the USOC at three U.S. Olympic Festivals—1986 in Houston, 1987 in North Carolina and 1990 in Minneapolis. In 1994, he worked as assistant director of communications for Gay Games IV in New York City. He was the director of press operations for the Georgia Tech Aquatics Center at the 1996 Summer Olympics in Atlanta.

A 1977 graduate of Purdue University with a B.A. in political science, Lohse, 43, was inducted into Phi Beta Kappa there and worked in the Boilermaker sports information office for three years as a student assistant. The Griffith, Ind. native and valedictorian of the Class of 1973 at Griffith Senior High School enjoys watching all sports, dancing, reading almanacs, playing trivia games, discussing politics, working out and taking vacations to Provincetown, Mass.

Recently Lotz was inducted into the Suffolk County (Long Island) Sports Hall of Fame.

Lotz received both his bachelor's and master's degrees from East Texas State University. On the college level, Lotz began his career serving as the top assistant basketball coach at Carolina to Dean Smith for eight years. During his tenure, the Tar Heels won four Atlantic Coast Conference championships, four NCAA Eastern Regional titles, one NIT title and made four trips to the NCAA Final Four.

In 1972, the Flushing, N.Y., native was named head basketball coach at the University of Florida. In 1973, he was named Southeastern Conference Coach of the Year in his rookie season with the Gators. In 1977, his Florida team went 17-9 and he was honored with the SEC Coach of the Year award from UPI while his fellow coaches also voted him the prestigious Adolph Rupp Award given to the league's top coach.

Lotz attended Baylor University and ETSU. Lotz and his wife, Vicki, assistant director of UNC's Career Services, have two daughters. Corrie, a graduate of UNC with a Doctor of Pharmacy, is a pharmacist at Emory University Hospital. Laci, a graduate of Baylor University, is an elementary school teach in Atlanta.

His favorite moment is Carolina Athletics was Charlie Scott hitting a jumper to beat Davidson in the final seconds of the game to send the Tar Heels to the 1969 Final Four.

DAREN LUCAS
□ Director of Ticket Operations

Daren Lucas is in his eighth year as Director of Ticket Operations, where he oversees the ticketing for both Carolina's revenue and Olympic sport programs, as well as all ticketing operations for special events and concerts.

A 1987 graduate of UNC, Lucas played free safety from 1983-85. He earned his degree in 1987 and completed his master's in sports administration at Ohio University in 1988.

Lucas returned to the University in 1988, where he worked at the Educational Foundation for three years before being promoted in 1991 to his current position.

Lucas, 32, is a native of Clinton, N.C., and has been married to his wife Dawn for 10 years. Dawn, a Concord, N.C. native, earned her undergraduate and graduate degrees from UNC and is presently the Assistant Director of Recreation Therapy at UNC Hospitals.

BETH MILLER
□ Senior Associate Director of Athletics

Beth Miller was promoted in June 1995 to the role of Senior Associate Director of Athletics. In her present capacity, Miller is responsible for supervising the highly-successful 26-sport Olympic program at UNC. She has handled similar duties under different titles since 1985.

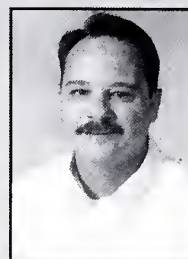

Miller is a 1968 alumnus of Appalachian State University with a B.S. degree in health and physical education. She also earned an M.A. from ASU in the same fields a year later. She went on to receive a Doctor of Arts degree in physical education at Middle Tennessee State University in 1974.

From 1969-72, she served as head women's volleyball and basketball coach at ASU while also serving as an instructor in the PE and health department there. She came to Carolina in 1974 as an assistant professor of health and physical education and an assistant women's basketball and volleyball coach. She was named head women's volleyball coach in 1975 and led the Tar Heels to four successive Atlantic Coast Conference titles from 1980-83 and five post-season tournament appearances. She also coached softball at Carolina in 1984.

In 1979, she took on added duties as athletic business manager at Carolina. She retired from coaching volleyball after the 1983 season, but continued to handle all financial affairs for the department through 1987. In 1985, she was also put in charge of the Olympic Sports program.

Miller is a member of the National Association of Collegiate Women Athletic Administrators and the Division I-A Women's Athletic Administrator's Steering Committee. She also serves on the Executive Committee of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics, the Board of Trustees of the N.C. Health and Fitness Foundation and the UNC Housing Advisory Board.

SCOTT OLIARO

□ Assistant Football Athletic Trainer

Scott Oliaro begins his first season as Assistant Football Athletic Trainer.

Oliaro is a 1993 graduate of Cornell University where he earned a B.S. in nutritional sciences. At Cornell he was a three-year football letterwinner, a two-time captain and a two-year Ivy League selection at tailback.

A native of Lansing, Mich., Oliaro earned a Master's degree in athletic training from North Carolina in 1996. Oliaro is a NATABOC certified athletic trainer and a member of the National Athletic Trainers Association.

For the past two seasons, he has worked as an assistant athletic trainer for American University and the Washington Capitals.

BOB SAVOD

□ Senior Associate Athletic Director/ Director of Multimedia Operations & Director of Marketing

Bob Savod, a native of New York, N.Y., and CCNY alumnus, serves as Senior Associate Athletic Director and Director of Multimedia Operations and Marketing at North Carolina. He has been with the Athletic Department since 1976 and supervises a marketing staff of five.

Savod was one of the first full-time sports marketing directors in the country and designed the "Carolina Fever" campaign in the late 1970s which helped sell out Kenan Stadium. UNC season football tickets have been sold out for the past 20 years.

Savod also designed the original specifications and coordinated the athletic department's negotiations for its multimedia program linking all radio and TV properties, game programs and other sponsorships into a "one stop" shopping package. Savod's major responsibility involves managing the multi-media relationship between the University and Tar Heel Sports Marketing as well as contributing to ties sales and marketing efforts.

Savod also coordinates the athletic department's involvement with the University's trademark licensing program.

Savod's wife, Judy, "the inspiration of his life," passed away after a brief illness last November. Savod is very proud of their two children. Suzy, a UNC graduate, is a vice-president of NationsBank. Jason, graduated from Franklin and Marshall College and the UNC M.A.C. program and is currently a Senior C.P.A. with Price-Waterhouse.

WILLIE SCROGGS

Willie Scroggs is beginning his 18th year as the Director for Operations at the University of North Carolina. Scroggs, who retired following the 1990 season after 12 years as Carolina's head lacrosse coach, now devotes his entire attention to his duties in athletic administration. He oversees all operations for football, men's basketball and the 26 Olympic sports at Carolina as well as supervising all outdoor facilities, the department's transportation programs and assists with renovations, new construction within the department and supervises the director of the Dean E. Smith Center.

The Baltimore, Md., native came to Carolina in 1978 as head lacrosse coach after being an assistant football and assistant lacrosse coach at his alma mater, Johns Hopkins University, for six seasons. At Carolina, Scroggs worked as assistant business manager and assistant to the athletic director, for three years before accepting his present position. He was also assistant director of the Smith Center from 1986-90. He was the tournament director for the NCAA Wrestling Championships held at the Smith Center in 1994 and the NCAA Women's Soccer Championship at Fetzer Field.

Scroggs' 12 lacrosse teams compiled a record of 120-37, a winning percentage of .764. He led Tar Heel teams to their first NCAA and ACC championships in the sport, winning national crowns in 1981, 1982 and 1986 along with six ACC titles. The 1981 National Coach of the Year, Scroggs led his Tar Heels to 11 NCAA Tournament appearances and a 17-8 tourney record from 1980-90. His teams reached the Final Four of the NCAA Tournament nine times.

He played lacrosse on three Blue Jay national championship teams as a midfielder. He coached lacrosse at the Gilman School in Baltimore for three years before going to Hopkins in 1972.

Scroggs is married to Karen Shelton, Carolina's head field hockey coach. They have a son, William Alexander, born in March 1990. Scroggs also has two daughters, Betsy, 23, a graduate of Johns Hopkins University, and Emily, 19, from a previous marriage.

DR. BRYAN SMITH
□ Head Team Physician

Dr. Bryan Smith is in his sixth season as a team physician having joined the UNC staff in 1993. Smith, a 1979 graduate of the University of North Carolina with an A.B. in chemistry, received his medical degree from Duke University in 1988.

A Clinical Assistant Professor of Pediatrics and Orthopaedics at UNC, Smith was an assistant team physician at UCLA from 1991-93 while completing a sports medicine fellowship. He also was team physician for the United States Women's Select Basketball Team which won the gold medal at the R. William Jones Cup in Taiwan in 1992.

A native of New Bern, N.C., Smith was a North Carolina Merit and Carle C. Conway Scholar. He received his M.A. in exercise physiology from UNC in 1982 and earned a Doctor of Philosophy in that field from Michigan State in 1984.

He was a resident in UNC's Department of Pediatrics from 1988-91. Smith is on the Board of Directors of the American Medical Society for Sports Medicine, is a Fellow of the American Academy of Pediatrics and is a member of the American College of Sports Medicine. Smith also is a member of the NCAA Competitive Safeguards and Medical Aspects of Sports Committee and medical consultant to the NCAA Football Rules Committee.

He is married to Dr. Molly Froelich Smith, herself a 1979 UNC graduate who earned her medical degree at Carolina in 1988. They have a daughter, Mary Bryan, and a son, Stephen.

DR. TIM TAFT
□ Director of Sports Medicine

Dr. Timothy Taft serves as the team orthopaedic surgeon and Director of Sports Medicine at the University of North Carolina. Taft has worked at Carolina for more than two decades.

Taft, a native of St. Louis, Mo., received his A.B. degree from Princeton University in 1964 and his M.D. from the University of Missouri in 1969. He completed his residency in orthopaedic surgery at Carolina in 1974.

Taft holds one of only two endowed professorships in sports medicine in the United States, the Max Novich Distinguished Professor of Sports Medicine chair. He is a member of the American Orthopaedic Society for Sports Medicine, the American Academy of Orthopaedic Surgeons, the Committee on the Medical Aspects of Sports for the North Carolina Medical Society and is an examiner for the American Board of Orthopaedic Surgery.

Taft served as team physician for the 1979 U.S. Pan American Games Team and the 1980 U.S. Olympic Team and as head physician for the 1981 U.S. World University Games Team. He has served as a team physician for U.S. basketball teams which have competed in the 1980 Olympics, 1981 World University Games, 1982 FIBA International Tournament, 1986 Men's World Championships and 1990 Women's World Championships.

Taft and his wife, Judy, have two children-Todd, 24, and Becky, 19.

MONK TOMLINSON
□ Assistant Athletic Director

Monk Tomlinson is in his ninth full year as an assistant athletic director. In his role, Tomlinson oversees management of the football office operations, including the budget, housing, travel, meals, Kenan Fieldhouse and special events.

Tomlinson moved into the administrative position prior to the 1990 season after he served for two years as interior line coach for two seasons with the Tar Heels. He was one of five assistant coaches Brown brought to Chapel Hill when hired in December 1987 from Tulane. He had

JOHN SWOFFORD
Commissioner

John Swofford enters his second year as the commissioner of the Atlantic Coast Conference. Swofford was named the fourth fulltime commissioner of the ACC in the summer of 1997. He follows Gene Corrigan who served as the Commissioner from July 1987 to July 1997, James H. (Jim) Weaver, who held the position from 1954-70, and Robert C. (Bob) James, who served from 1971-1987

In his 17 years as the Director of Athletics at the University of North Carolina, Swofford was instrumental in building UNC's program into one of the country's most respected entities. During his tenure, North Carolina claimed 123 ACC championships and 24 national collegiate titles, including 18 by the school's women's programs. During the 1994-95 season, the Tar Heels won an ACC-record 12 conference titles, more than half of the league championships contested that year.

In Swofford's final 10 years at Carolina, the Tar Heels won a league-high 85 ACC titles and 15 national collegiate titles. In 1993-94, Carolina captured the inaugural Sears Directors' Cup, edging Stanford for the award, emblematic of the collegiate all-sports champion.

Academic Support Program

Today's student-athlete is under a tremendous amount of pressure. There are considerable demands on their time and energy in the classroom, in the athletic arena, and socially.

"I am afraid it is very difficult to explain to a high school senior all that awaits them in the three short months after their graduation from high school," explains John Blanchard, Director of the Academic Support Program for Student-Athletes at UNC. "That is why it is imperative recruits and their families select an institution and an athletic program with the same goals and objectives. Carolina is not a good choice for students who are interested in only pursuing their athletic goals. We have goals and expectations for our students in the classroom as well. The good news is that they are exceeding the goals that I have had for them!"

Blanchard reports that 338 student-athletes had a 3.0 or above GPA in the fall semester. That is 44 percent of the student-athlete population. In that same semester 22 percent made the Dean's List. The football team was second in the conference with five players named to the Academic All-ACC team. Consensus All-America and first round draft choice Greg Ellis headed the Tar Heels named to the squad. It also included Chris Keldorf, Jonathan Linton, Nate Hobgood-Chittick and Jeff Saturday.

"We have a program with our priorities in line," says Director of Athletics Dick Baddour. "That is a credit to our coaches, administrators, support people, but most of all our students. Their accomplishments in the classroom are very impressive."

The Academic Support Program is responsible for directly working with the student-athletes on their academic work. The program is housed in the Student-Athlete Development Center in Kenan Fieldhouse. The Center opened its doors in 1986 and was one of the finest academic centers in the country at that time. With the new Kenan Football Center opening last February, it will once again jump to the head of the list as the Student-Athlete Development Center is expanding into the old football offices.

"We are very excited about the expanded space for the Academic Support Program. Besides adding needed space and resources for our student-athletes, it also reinforces our commitment and tradition to the education of Carolina student-athletes. We will not neglect the academic careers of our student-athletes," Baddour says.

The Academic Center boasts an impressive array of facilities for the benefit of all Tar Heel student-athletes in the 28-sport program. Included in the building, convenient to dorms and classrooms alike, is a large classroom, which can be divided into two smaller ones, and a 128-seat auditorium, used for seminars and lectures. "The new space will give us much needed study rooms and a library. We are very excited to gain the new the area. It will be put to good use," Blanchard says.

In April, the computer lab was updated with 15 brand new computers, four laser printers complete with a variety of multimedia software packages, which include word processing programs, spreadsheets, CD-ROM reference materials, tutorials, internet access and email capability. The center now has the latest and most up-to-date computer systems in place.

Blanchard has assembled an enthusiastic and highly qualified staff, which includes Burgess McSwain, assistant directors Susan Berner and Robert Mercer, and academic counselors Jan Boxill and Jennings Durand. Doug Roberts serves as the administrative assistant.

"The staff is incredible. Their commitment to their students and the unsung dedication to their jobs is an inspiration to me and all those who understand how much they do. I can not say enough good things about them," Blanchard says.

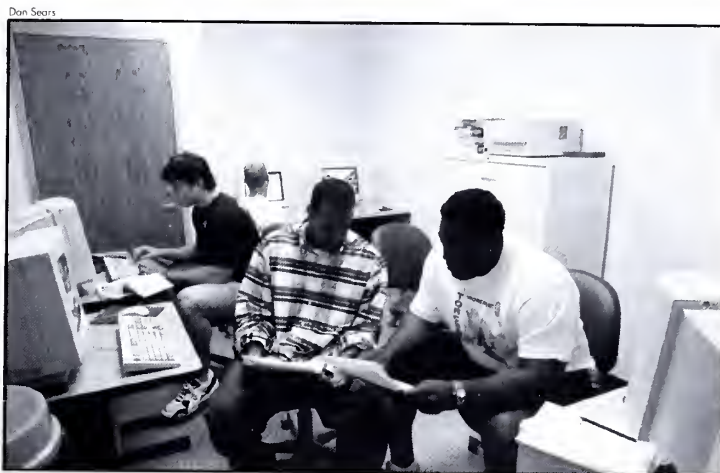

Blanchard and his staff are primarily concerned with the freshmen, since they have incredible transitions to make from high school to college. To try and ensure that student-athletes will not run into early academic difficulty, Blanchard and his able staff teach freshmen necessary study skills, such as note taking and time management, and all freshmen football players are required to attend study hall every Sunday through Thursday evening at the Center. On those nights, tutors are available to assist the student-athletes in a variety of subjects. Also, a Freshman Academic Success seminar is held weekly in the fall and is required of selected freshman athletes.

The Center is open from 8 a.m. to midnight during the week and from 6 p.m. to midnight on Sundays. During those hours, the facility is in almost constant use.

Statistics bear out the fact the football team is making great use of the Center. "The football team is an excellent example of the Department's commitment to excellence in both athletics and academics," Baddour says. "They finish in the Top 5, have five outstanding players on the Academic All-ACC team, earn honorable mention from the CFA eight out of the past 10 years for graduation rates exceeding 70 percent and 80 percent of our NFL players have their degrees. There are not many institutions in the country that can boast those numbers," Baddour adds.

"Carl Torbush and I have talked extensively about our vision for the football program in terms of academics," Blanchard says. "I am convinced that we are only going to build on an already fine tradition. A tradition where excellence is the goal."

Strength & Conditioning

Carolina football has finished in the Top 10 in the country in each of the past two seasons and one of the primary reasons for this stunning success is the improvement in the team's overall strength and conditioning. The Tar Heels believe they are one of the most focused and disciplined teams in the country.

Led by George Smith, Director of Strength and Conditioning, the Carolina program is one of the finest in the country. He and his staff preach explosive power-linking speed and strength to maximize results. Carolina athletes follow the maxim of "practice winning every day." That begins with each moment spent in the weight room.

Smith joined the Tar Heels from the University of Colorado where he worked for the Buffaloes in 1992 and was a member of CU's Fiesta Bowl squad. He spent his first five years at Carolina Working out in the new weight room: Ebenezer Ekubon (above), who won the Morris Mason Award for Most Outstanding Offseason Performer, and Quinton Savage.

"There's not a better facility in the country. It has all the latest state of the art equipment, it's an intense environment to work out in and the staff gives great direction. It's the kind of place you want to work out in because the equipment is the best and the people there are working hard to help you."

— Linebacker Brandon Spoon

as the chief assistant with football and the Director of Strength and Conditioning for Olympic Sports. The 1998 season is Smith's first as director of the entire program. Smith lettered two years in football at the University of South Carolina. He was the Director of Strength and Conditioning at Georgia Southern from 1989-91 and was a member of two Division I-AA national championship teams.

He is a certified strength coach by International Sports Science Association and a member of the National Strength Coaches Association. In 1991, he won the "American Drug Free Power Lifting Deadlift Championship" as he set a national record of 745 pounds. In 1987, he won first place in the Mr. Junior South Carolina bodybuilding championship. He also won the teenage national powerlifting title from 1977-79.

The strength and conditioning philosophy at UNC is speed and explosive power. That is developed through the use of speed-strength and power building movements. Smith believes that speed without strength and vice versa is useless. Thus, the staff has developed a program to link the two components. The coaching staff uses periodization/pyramid formulas to maximize strength and speed. The coaches believe in having an intense, enthusiastic atmosphere that encourages the athletes to develop to their maximum potential.

Smith prefers free weights as opposed to the nautilus machine approach saying, "The extra benefits that free weights allow may be applied more readily to football. We use explosive lifts like power cleans and snatches. A nautilus machine takes you through the same range of motion every time. When lifting a free weight, you can go beyond that range of motion. It is undetermined which way it is going to go. In a bench press or military press, your left arm may not be as strong as your right arm therefore you have to overcompensate or work on that arm. Free weights allow that.

"It's just like playing against a defensive lineman. One play he may go left, the next he may go right or he may come right at you, you never know. Free weights help you overcome deficiencies. That's why we use explosive movements with our free weights and dumbbells.

"Football is short, quick and powerful. If we were training long distance runners we would use more endurance enhancing exercises. Since we are training football players we have more quick and explosive exercises. We do build endurance as a foundation, however.

"Flexibility plays a big part because the more you stretch a muscle, the more it can grow. If you have greater flexibility then you can improve your running technique and when you do that you can increase your speed, quickness and overall strength. Then you can become an outstanding football player."

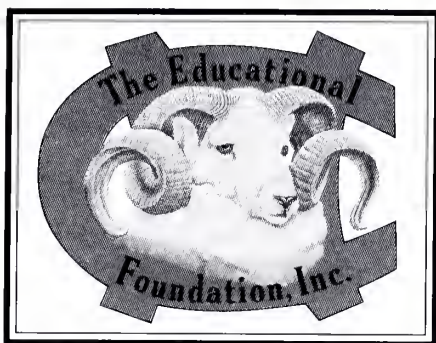

Smith and his staff believe the key for remaining a national football program is to get linemen running like linebackers, linebackers running like wide receivers and our receivers and backs running like Olympians.

Smith has recruited an outstanding staff to assist the Tar Heel athletes. His energetic and widely popular staff includes fulltime staffers Greg Gatz, Jodi Hopkins, Victor Ishmail and Todd Hagler, graduate assistants Mark Yakel and John Williams and athletic trainer Elizabeth Jewell.

Smith's staff goal is to develop each individual student-athlete and develop them both physical and mentally. Each student-athlete is given an opportunity to train in the finest facilities and given the best hands-on instruction.

What is the Educational Foundation?
The Educational Foundation is the oldest foundation on the UNC campus and holds a status comparable to the Business Foundation, the Medical Foundation and other fundraising organizations working for the benefit of the University.

What is the purpose of the Educational Foundation? The Educational Foundation was established to offer financial aid to worthy student-athletes seeking an education at the University of North Carolina and to support the University's athletic program by providing services and funds for the construction of facilities or purchase of equipment.

How much support does the Educational Foundation actually provide? Since its founding in 1938, the Educational Foundation has provided scholarships, either partial or full, to over 7,000 student-athletes. Nearly 400 will be awarded scholarships during the 1998-99 school year at a cost of more than $5.6 million.

What are the different levels of giving to the Educational Foundation?

Little Ram ($50*) — Contributions of any amount are welcome, however, individuals contributing $50 or more have the opportunity to purchase season football tickets, the location of which is subject to the point system; gain access to the Rams Room in Kenan Fieldhouse for home football games; participate in football and basketball ticket exchanges; purchase group travel packages; receive the RamPage Newsletter, car window decals and invitations to annual Foundation functions which feature Carolina coaches as guest speakers.

Ram ($150) — In addition to that above, a Ram donor has the opportunity to purchase mini-season basketball ticket packages when available and receive football and basketball media guides.

Rameses ($300) — In addition to the benefits received at the Ram level, a Rameses donor has the opportunity to purchase and maintain the assigned location of two season football tickets; additional tickets may be purchased, location subject to the point system.

Big Ram ($750) — In addition to the benefits received at the Ram level, a Big Ram donor has the opportunity to purchase and maintain the assigned location of four season football tickets and receive an assigned parking space.

Super Ram ($1,500) — In addition to the benefits received at the Ram level, a Super Ram donor has the opportunity to purchase and maintain the assigned location of up to eight season football tickets and receive an assigned parking space.

Can a donor contribute in ways other than through the annual giving program? Yes. Carolina was one of the first schools in the nation to set up an endowment program for athletics. This program consists of $15,000 and $30,000 life memberships as well as $50,000 and $100,000 endowed scholarships which may be set up through various giving vehicles.

In addition, the Foundation is in the midst of numerous capital campaigns highlighted on the next three pages of this brochure.

*(increases to $100 effective 1/1/99)

Does the Foundation have chapters at the local level? There are currently 45 local Educational Foundation chapters which meet at least once a year. Many of the coaches attend these gatherings, giving donors an early opportunity to hear about recruiting, prospects for the upcoming season and schedules.

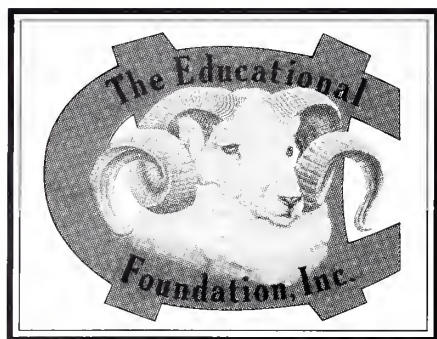

Who provides the leadership for the Educational Foundation? The Foundation's outside officers include a Chairman, three Vice-Chairmen, a Secretary, Treasurer, Counsel and Past Chairman. These officers, together with the at-large members and an Investment Committee, comprise the Executive Committee. The Executive Committee is the decision-making body of the Educational Foundation and reports its actions to the Board of Directors.

The leadership within the Foundation office is provided by Moyer G. Smith. He is in his 12th year as President. He was appointed to the position in December 1986. There are also five vice-presidents within the office: John D. Cherry, Executive Vice-President; Neal B. Harrell, V.P. for Donor Services; Sue Walsh Stankavage, V.P. for Endowment; and Dawn D. McPherson, Administrative V.P.

How can one become a contributor to the Educational Foundation? By contacting the Educational Foundation at (919) 962-2393 or by writing P.O. Box 2446, Chapel Hill, N.C. 27515.

THE NEW FINLEY GOLF COURSE

For Continued Carolina Success

For many years, Finley Golf Course has been a valuable recreational and educational resource for Chapel Hill and the University of North Carolina. With the passage of time, however, Finley has become a relic of a bygone era, remaining very much the course it was in 1950 when it was constructed. Though Finley is no longer regarded as a recruiting asset, the UNC golf program has still managed to keep pace with other programs around the country.

Now, The Educational Foundation is asking its donors to make a commitment to put Finley on par with the other world-class educational and athletic facilities at UNC. Tom Fazio, the world's premiere golf course architect, has been hired to design the new Finley Golf Course. It will be one of the best collegiate golf facilities in the country. There will be a completely different layout, yet some of the best aspects of the old course will be retained.

The New Finley Golf Course

The New Finley will have a number of tees allowing it to play from 5,100 to 7,100 yards, presenting a stiff challenge to the best golfers while still remaining accessible to those of all skill levels. Tees, greens and fairways will be built and planted to the highest standard, while a state of the art irrigation system and exceptional drainage will maintain the quality of the course. The clubhouse will be completely renovated. A brand new teaching and practice facility will be an asset not only to the golf program at UNC, but also to recreational golfers. Eventually, the Fazio design will allow UNC the opportunity to host NCAA regional and championship golf tournaments.

Support from the Golfing Community

Former UNC golfer and 1997 PGA Champion Davis Love III has signed on to be the Honorary Chairman for the Campaign. When he was asked about his involvement in the project, he responded, "Once a Tar Heel, always a Tar Heel. That's why I am so excited to be helping The Educational Foundation on this project. As great as my own experience was at UNC, I know The New Finley Golf Course is going to provide an even better experience for future generations of young players at Carolina." Please join Davis and other Carolina faithful in supporting this project. It will be a great asset to the entire university community and ensure the success of UNC's golf program for years to come.

Why Your Support Is Needed

The Educational Foundation will need your support to complete this project. The New Finley Golf Course will come at a cost of $8 million. Already over $3 million has been committed to the campaign. The Educational Foundation asks that you consider a pledge of $3,000 or more, over a three year period. Donors who contribute a minimum of $3,000 by the specified date will be recognized on a donor's wall at the new course. There will also be additional naming opportunities and benefits associated with specific gifts. However, participation at any level is very much appreciated.

Thank you for your support

For Women's Athletics

The University of North Carolina maintains a widely acknowledged reputation for superior performance by each of its athletic programs, and is consistently rewarded with nationally ranked teams year after year. In fact, Carolina Athletics recently completed a banner year, as UNC was once again a contender for the Sears Directors' Cup which recognizes the best overall athletic program in the country.

Historically, UNC has supported its athletic programs with solid funding, superb coaching, and excellent facilities. The University has made a firm commitment to the participation and success of women in athletics. As a result, women's athletics at UNC carries a proud tradition of defining and attaining goals, being a strong leader at the conference and national levels and proving that team sports indeed offer significant enrichment to the women who participate, both as athletes and as supporters.

Your Support Is Needed

The Field Hockey and Women's Lacrosse teams have demonstrated achievements that leave little doubt as to a promising future. Yet, until now, the student-athletes in these two programs have had no locker rooms, no team meeting space, and only on-the-field sports medicine. Until now, they've had no place to call their own.

The Athletic Department and The Educational Foundation have responded to this need with a proposal for a $2.7 million complex at Navy Field. This facility will be the finest of its kind in the nation. It will not only be a valuable resource for the women already on campus competing in these two sports, but will have a definite impact on recruiting as well. This is a tremendous opportunity for you to join the University in its efforts to enhance women's athletic programs.

The Complex At Navy Field

In addition to locker rooms for each team, the new facility will house a common meeting room where each team can review games on a big screen television with state-of-the-art video technology. This room will also be used for receptions and as a study lounge for the student-athletes. The facility will make it possible for the student-athletes to work on sports psychology and mental focus, as well as have a place to discuss strategies.

A separate coaches' facility within the complex allows for one-on-one discussions and small conferences. Also on site will be a sports medicine facility enabling athletes to receive prompt attention to injuries, as well as an equipment room.

Plans for the complex include a 700-seat stadium, a press box and concession areas and public restrooms. Since the complex will be built adjacent to the football practice field, the football team will benefit from having a storage space for their equipment as well as having access to on-site sports medicine during practices.

Your Pledge Will Make A Difference

Please help support this important legacy for women's athletics at UNC. Your contribution will have an impact on the heritage of all women's intercollegiate sports. The Educational Foundation asks that you consider a pledge of $500 or more, over a three year period. Donors who contribute a minimum of $500 by the specified date will be recognized on a brick walkway outside the complex. However, participation at any level is much appreciated.

Thank you for your support

UNC SOCCER

A Tradition of Excellence

For over 50 years, soccer has been a dominant presence among the superior athletic programs at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. Since Dr. Marvin Allen founded and coached the first varsity team in 1947, Men's Soccer has remained consistently one of the finest in the ACC, the South Region, and the NCAA. And when women's varsity soccer was born at UNC in 1979, few could have predicted the level to which this program would rise. Carolina Women's Soccer has staked a claim as one of the greatest dynasties in intercollegiate athletics history, claiming more national championships than any other Division I women's athletic sport program in the nation.

With each passing year, the list of accomplishments grows longer, and the roots of UNC's soccer tradition sink deeper into Tar Heel soil. Now the time has come to give something back to these programs that have given us so much. The men's and women's soccer teams have always had the privilege to call Fetzer Field their home turf. However, there is something that the men's and women's programs have always lacked, and that is an adequate facility in which to house their programs.

The UNC Soccer Center

It's hard to imagine the entire UNC Soccer Program located in a building of just 1,200 square feet, but that is what they have had to live with for too many years. A new UNC Soccer Center is currently under construction to take the place of the old "soccer hut". It will be built on the same site - conveniently adjacent to Fetzer Field - but it will be significantly larger, more modern, and much better suited to the needs of the student-athletes and their coaches.

The new $1.8 million 6,600 square foot soccer facility will be a two-story structure. The first floor will accommodate varsity men's and women's locker rooms as well as a common team meeting room between the dressing areas. The second floor will house offices for each of the soccer coaches and a large conference room which can be used by all of the Tar Heels' Olympic Sports teams.

Why Your Support Is Needed

This is a pivotal time for UNC Soccer. Our men's and women's programs have done well to thrive despite obviously inadequate facilities. But while the past is full of achievements, collegiate soccer is becoming increasingly competitive. Other universities are rapidly narrowing the gap with strong programs of their own. Not only will a quality facility like the UNC Soccer Center bolster the success of current teams, it will enhance UNC's recruiting power for future teams.

Your Pledge Will Make A Difference

By becoming involved in the effort to build the UNC Soccer Center, you have the opportunity to make a direct and tangible contribution to the success of UNC Soccer. What's more, you'll gain the satisfaction of knowing that your support of this very important project will have an impact for many years to come.

The Educational Foundation asks that you consider a pledge of $750 or more. Donors who contribute at that level and above will have their names inscribed on bricks in the patio area of the facility. However, we very much appreciate participation at any level.

On behalf of the UNC Men's and Women's Soccer Programs,

Thank you for your support

Chancellor Michael Hooker

In 1969, Michael Hooker became the first person in his family to earn a college degree: no small accomplishment for someone coming from the coalfields of southwest Virginia near Richlands. Hooker credits his parents' strong work ethic -- his father was a coalminer -- and their unwavering belief in education with his academic success at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and beyond.

Twenty-six years after leaving Chapel Hill to pursue graduate degrees in philosophy, Hooker returned in July 1995 as Carolina's eighth chancellor, continuing an extraordinary career for a man of his years. He was president of Bennington College at age 36; president of the University of Maryland-Baltimore County at age 40; and president of the five-campus University of Massachusetts system at age 47. Hooker took UNC-CH's helm at age 49.

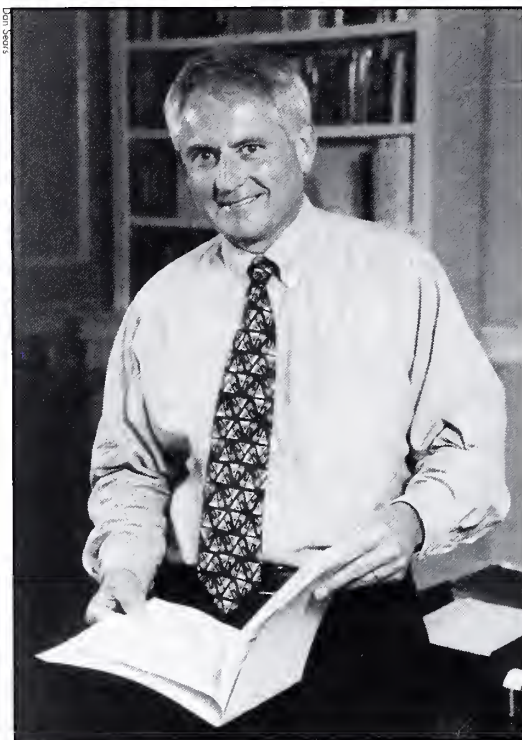

A staunch believer in accountability, Hooker, 52, emphasizes the need for the university to work better, faster, and cheaper to meet the challenges facing higher education in a knowledge-based economy. "We can't escape the information revolution," he says. "In the 21st century, the only thing that will secure competitive advantage for our regional, state and national economies is the extent to which we have developed, nurtured, fostered, cultivated and deployed brain power."

Hooker's vision for Carolina's role in that era includes marshaling resources for students and faculty that will make UNC-CH the top-ranked public institution in U.S. News and World Report magazine's annual list of the best colleges and universities. In fall 1997, UNC-CH ranked fourth among the publics. "This is, by any standards, a great university that is very, very strong," Hooker says of UNC-CH. "It has an exceptional faculty that is highly committed to good teaching. It's easy to find strong research faculty among the top 20 or so universities. It is not so easy to find a faculty that is as committed to teaching as ours."

The chancellor also stresses the university's commitment to North Carolinians and his administration's theme: "For the People."

"There is only one reason to schools, community colleges, small businesses and manufacturing plants. He met with legislators, alumni and Carolina students in their hometowns. In both 1997 and 1998, the chancellor has participated in a weeklong bus tour across the state aimed at introducing new faculty and administrators from other states and countries to the "real" North Carolina and providing them the opportunity to see first-hand where 82 percent of the university's undergraduate students come from. Hooker provided the private funding to support the trip, which was suggested by a faculty group devoted to public service.

Such travels have served Hooker well as Governor Jim Hunt's representative on the 1997-98 Commission on the Future of the South, chaired by former Kentucky Governor Martha Layne Collins. The commission's report and recommendations are aimed at helping guide the region into the 21st century.

Public education has been another major priority for Hooker, who has ardently supported LEARN North Carolina (Learners' and Educators' Assistance and Resource Network of North Carolina), a one-stop World Wide Web site offered free to all N.C. school systems through the School of Education. Teachers, curriculum or technology specialists and others in 108 of the state's 117 school districts have been trained on the site, which includes an electronic database of exemplary lesson plans indexed by grade, subject and have a public university, and that is to serve the people of the state," he says. "That should be the touchstone of everything we do: whether it's in the interest of North Carolina and our citizens. Our litmus test is the question: Is this the best possible use of our resources? Is what we do in Chapel Hill helping the factory worker in Kannapolis?"

To show that conviction, Hooker drew from the tradition of UNC President Frank Porter Graham, who barnstormed the state more than a half century ago to boost support for education at all levels during the economic shift from farming to manufacturing. Hooker spent 1996-97 personally visiting all 100 North Carolina counties to reconnect the university with the people and learn first-hand about the state's economy and educational system.

The issue-oriented tour included speeches to civic, business and education groups in dozens of Tar Heel towns and cities. He visited public

"bible."

On campus, the chancellor has joined with the faculty, students and staff in strengthening the intellectual climate. A chancellor's task force has spearheaded those efforts through a major yearlong report completed in 1997. Some of the top recommendations, including a Freshman Seminars program in the College of Arts and Sciences, are being implemented. Technology also has been a key point of emphasis. The university has successfully launched its first Internet-based courses and degree programs at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. The chancellor emphasizes the need to make Carolina accessible to working people who have mortgages, children in school and can't pull up stakes and move to Chapel Hill.

Other focal points of Hooker's first three years in office have included taking numerous steps to bolster relations with the North Carolina General Assembly.

The chancellor also has stressed adequate and equitable support for faculty, staff and graduate students, resolved long-standing personnel disputes and continued efforts to involve the local community in future planning for development on both the main campus and outlying properties. Under Hooker's leadership, the university also works to sustain the success of private fund-raising efforts during the $440 million Bicentennial Campaign for Carolina, completed in 1995.

Hooker returned to Chapel Hill from the presidency at UMass, where he oversaw a $1.2 billion budget, 58,000 students, 3,400 faculty and 7,000 staff. After becoming president in 1992, he spearheaded improvements in areas such as teaching and economic development and later tackled restructuring two campuses.

Hooker went to UMass from the 10,300-student University of Maryland-Baltimore County, which he led from 1986 to 1992. Hooker governed Vermont's Bennington College, a 600-student liberal arts school, from 1982 to 1986. The chancellor was featured in Esquire magazine's 1984 story on the "Best of the New Generation" along with future U.S. President Bill Clinton.

From 1975 to 1982, Hooker held posts at Johns Hopkins University, including dean of undergraduate and graduate studies. He taught philosophy at Harvard University from 1973 to 1975 after earning master's and doctoral degrees in philosophy from the University of Massachusetts-Amherst in 1972 and 1973, respectively.

Hooker long has been a national leader in education. In recent months he has been keynote speaker at the Council for the Advancement and Support of Education's first national conference on university outreach efforts. He also participated in a forum addressing technology standards for global learning sponsored by Western Government's University and the National Governors' Association for Best Practices. In 1996, the chancellor was among the first 20 college presidents named by Secretary of Education Richard Riley to serve on a steering panel for the "America Reads Challenge," aimed at boosting the ranks of college students helping elementary students learn to read well by the end of the third grade.

Hooker is a member of the Association of Governing Boards' Advisory Board of Presidents and the North Carolina Biotechnology Center's Board of Directors. He has served on the American Association of State Colleges and Universities' Committee on International Programs and chaired the American Council of Education's Commission on Leadership Development.

An expert on medical ethics, Hooker has written scholarly articles on applied ethics in business and the ethics of biological warfare. He chaired the biotechnology advisory panel for the U.S. Congress' Office of Technology Assessment from 1982 to 1984. His awards include an honorary degree from Drexel University, a Danforth Associateship, a Woodrow Wilson Dissertation Fellowship, and a Harvard Faculty Research Fellowship.

Hooker is the father of a 16-year-old daughter, Alexandra. His wife, Carmen, a Philadelphia native, is group vice president for the Carolinas HealthCare System with responsibilities for coordinating government relations activities in the Carolinas and Washington, D.C. She served six terms in the Massachusetts House of Representatives and was Chairman of the Joint Committee on Health Care. A graduate of Springfield College, she earned a master's degree in regional planning from UMass-Amherst in 1984. She has two daughters: Jennifer, a public school teacher in Charlotte, and Cyndi, an art student at the Museum School in Boston.

University of North Carolina

As the nation's first state university, the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill was chartered in 1789. The cornerstone of its first building, Old East, was laid in 1793 and opened to students in 1795. Carolina was the only public university to award degrees to students in the 18th century.

Carolina's 13 colleges and schools offer programs in more than 100 fields leading to 86 bachelor's, 164 master's and 108 doctoral degrees, as well as professional degrees in dentistry, medicine, pharmacy, law and library science. Five health-affairs schools, which help comprise one of the most complete academic medical centers in the country, are well-integrated with a prestigious liberal arts program.

Among the most comprehensive universities in the United States, UNC-Chapel Hill belongs to the select group of 62 research campuses forming the Association of American Universities.

The 729-acre central campus, once called "The Noble Grove," is among the nation's most beautiful. It includes the two oldest state university buildings, Old East and Person Hall. Old East, a residence hall, and PlayMakers Theatre, an 1852 Greek-revival building, are National Historic Landmarks.

RECENT NATIONAL RANKINGS

UNC regularly appears in a number of highly respected rankings and ratings.

In the fall of 1997 U.S. News & World Report magazine's "America's Best Colleges" issue, Carolina was ranked fourth among public universities and 27th among both public and privates in the national university category, UNC tied for ninth in a list of national universities offering "high quality education at a reasonable cost."

According to Money magazine's 1997 "Your Best College Buys Now" guide, Carolina was the best college buy in America among public universities and third overall. UNC was 13th best in discounted tuition — the amount spent after financial aid is deducted from the list price for tuition and fees.

In the most recent Kaplan/Newsweek magazine's "How to Get into College" guide, Carolina was one of just 12 U.S. campuses called "first-rate schools at bargain prices." Editors cited some of the university's "pluses" as strong academics, high-quality facilities, a college-friendly town, a beautiful campus and powerhouse sports.

In the 1998 issue of The Fiske Guide to Colleges, Carolina appeared on the list of 21 public universities in the nation selected as a "best buy." UNC earned a perfect five-star rating for academics. In a profile about Carolina, editors noted that "Chapel Hill has been blessed with top-notch faculty, a gorgeously lush campus, and of course stellar athletic teams. Chapel Hill gives students everything they want, both academically and socially."

Carolina was the top-scoring public university in the country for academic quality and financial value in the March 1997 issue of Kiplinger's Personal Finance Magazine.

In March 1998, U.S. News and World Report magazine ranked 11 of UNC's graduate programs and specialty areas in the top 25.

STUDENTS

Some 24,189 students coming from all 100 North Carolina counties, the other 49 states and more than 100 countries studied at UNC in 1997-98. About 63 percent are enrolled as undergraduates, 28 percent in graduate programs, and nine percent in professional programs.

More than 66 percent of incoming freshmen graduated in the top 10th of their high school classes, and nearly 88 percent finished in the top 20th.

Nearly 27 percent of incoming freshmen scored 1,300 or higher on their Scholastic Aptitude Test scores, and 57 percent scored 1,200 or above. The average SAT score among in-state incoming freshmen was 1,207; the average among out-of-state students was 1,289.

Sixty-three percent of the 3,331 freshmen who enrolled in 1993 graduated after four years, a rate significantly higher than the 35 percent average among colleges in the Association of American Universities. For the class starting in 1992, Carolina's five-year graduation rate of more than 78 percent was nearly 20 points above the AAU average.

For the first time since 1956, two UNC students were named Rhodes Scholars in the same year during the 1997-98 academic year. Leslie Carolyn Kendrick of East Point, Ky., and Jonathan Tepper of Madrid, Spain, were two of 32 students nationwide who earned the prestigious scholarship to England's Oxford University. The scholarship pays all academic expenses and fees, transportation and a stipend of 14,000 pounds ($23,240) for two years. Twelve Carolina students have been selected as Rhodes Scholars since 1980. Carolina has been represented by 35 Rhodes Scholars since the program began in 1902. UNC, also the alma mater of the first black woman recipient, has been one of the nation's most successful public universities in the Rhodes competition.

Andrew Barker, a 1991 Carolina graduate, was awarded an Andrew J. Mellon Fellowship in Humanistic Studies. Barker was among 97 winners selected from 750 applicants and UNC's sixth Mellon fellow since 1993. The fellowships are awarded to seniors and recent graduates of outstanding promise to encourage them to join humanities faculties at U.S. campuses.

Two UNC seniors were named 1998 Morris K. Udall Scholars, joining an elite group of undergraduates linked by superior academics and an interest in environmental public policy. Brad L. Saunders of Greensboro, and Laura M. Wisland of St. Louis, were among 75 winners chosen from 370 nominees nationwide. They received a one-year scholarship to cover tuition, books and room and board.

The Old Well

Two UNC chemistry students won 1998 Barry M. Goldwater scholarships. The Goldwater scholarship is the premiere undergraduate award in math, science and engineering. Sendhil Cheran, a junior from Cary, and Brian Kwang Hwa Yen, a junior from Raleigh, are the eighth and ninth winners from UNC in the program's 10-year history. The one- and two-year scholarships are annually awarded to sophomores and juniors from every state and Puerto Rico. Cheran and Yen were among eight winners from North Carolina. More than 1,100 student nominees competed for the scholarships nationwide.

UNC alumni have included dozens of N.C. legislators, judges and governors, as well as U.S. President James K. Polk; authors Thomas Wolfe, Walker Percy, Shelby Foote and Charles Frazier; journalists Charles Kuralt, Tom Wicker, Ed Yoder, Roger Mudd, Deborah Potter, Jonathan Yardley and Eugene Roberts; and editorial cartoonist Jeff MacNelly. Others include U.S. Senator Sam Ervin Jr.; pollster Louis Harris; civil rights leader Julius Chambers; bandleader Kay Kyser; corporate banker Hugh McColl; geneticist Dr. Francis Collins; NBA basketball superstar Michael Jordan; soccer star Mia Hamm; former basketball standout and current "fastest woman in the world" Marion Jones; actors Andy Griffith and George Grizzard, a recent Tony Award winner; actress Sharon Lawrence; Broadway composer Richard Adler; and fashion designer Alexander Julian. More than 210,224 living alumni reside in all 50 states and 129 foreign countries.

FACULTY

Carolina's full-time faculty of 2,421 includes professors who hold or have held major positions in virtually every national scholarly or professional association. Overall, more than 90 percent of Carolina's faculty members have earned their field's highest degree.

Many faculty members have been elected to some of the nation's most prestigious academic organizations, including nine current members of the National Academy of Sciences, 19 of the academy's Institute of Medicine, five of the National Academy of Engineering and 29 of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

Dr. William E. Leuchtenburg, William Rand Kenan Jr. professor of history at UNC, recently received a prize for the best article on the Supreme Court published in 1997. Chief Justice William Rehnquist presented the award to Leuchtenburg.

Dr. Frederick O. Mueller, professor and chairman of physical education, exercise and sport science at UNC, won the Dr. Ernst Jokl Sports Medicine Award for 1997. The award, given for lasting contributions to the growth and development of sports medicine through practice or scholarship, is the top honor in the field. Among the award's previous winners was Sir Roger Bannister, the first four-minute miler. Mueller's nationwide data collections on catastrophic sports injuries and deaths are credited with leading to rules changes and coaching techniques that save dozens of lives annually.

RESEARCH

In fiscal 1996-97, UNC-Chapel Hill attracted sponsored research, including grants and contracts from government and private agencies, totaling a record $290.6 million. That figure marked an increase of more than $41 million, or about 17 percent, over the previous year and made UNC the leading Southern university for research funding. The fiscal 1997-98 figure is expected to top $305 million.

Each dollar invested in Carolina creates an estimated $4 in net earnings. That's a four-to-one return, and it means that sponsored programs at UNC contribute about $1 billion and some 15,000 jobs to the state's economy.

UNC contributes skilled employees to the North Carolina economy: 60 percent of the dentists, 40 percent of the attorneys, 43 percent of the physicians, 15 percent of the city managers and more than 10 percent of the college and university professors.

In fiscal 1996-97, UNC was awarded 30 patents, all as a result of research conducted at the university. The fiscal 1997-98 total will be at least 35 patents.

During fiscal 1997-98, UNC disclosed 88 inventions and licensed 49 of them. Since 1979, eight new high-tech companies have been created as a direct Corporate-sponsored research funding in conjunction with licenses reached $831,894 in fiscal 1996-97. The total royalties received on UNC's licensed technologies was more than $1.5 million. In fiscal 1997-98, corporate sponsored research funding topped more than $2.25 million, and the university had received nearly $1.8 million in royalties.

Carolina, Duke and N.C. State are sharing a $1.4 million grant from the National Science Foundation to connect to a new high-speed, research-oriented version of the Internet. Called Internet II, the network will link about 100 leading research universities. The grant was part of a 35-school, $12.3 million package announced by Vice President Al Gore in 1997.

Carolina chemists have developed a significantly improved method of synthesizing promising antiviral drugs for people with AIDS, hepatitis B and other deadly illnesses. The new method is faster and possibly cheaper than those now used to create the compounds.

AIDS researchers at Carolina are studying a new combination of three drugs that promise to be the best treatment yet for people infected with the virus that causes AIDS. Carolina was one of four centers in the country that participated in a clinical trial with the drugs zidovudine, lamivudine and indinavir, which dramatically cut the AIDS virus in patients after 24 weeks of therapy and boosted the number of critical infection-fighting cells that the virus slowly destroys.

UNC researchers discovered a key cancer control mechanism in 1998 that is believed to be one of the most potent natural ways of fighting tumor development. Scientists hope the mechanism might be manipulated to treat cancer better or to detect it earlier.

Dr. Robert J. Duronio, assistant professor of biology at UNC, was one of four U.S. researchers to receive a $200,000 Damon Runyon Scholar Award from the Damon Runyon-Walter Winchell Foundation's Cancer Research Fund. The two-year stipend helps outstanding young biomedical scientists start independent cancer research laboratories at universities.

Dr. Howard A. Rockman, associate professor of medicine at UNC, received a $750,000 grant from the Burroughs Wellcome Fund to study promising new molecular strategies for treating congestive heart failure. Rockman was one of 10 physician-scientists in the United States and Canada named a recipient of the fund's Clinical Scientist Awards in Translational Research.

U.S. Secretary of Education Richard W. Riley named the Frank Porter Graham Child Development Center the National Center to Enhance Early Learning and Development, the only university-based facility aimed at boosting U.S. children's intellectual and social development. The recognition will bring five years worth of grants expected to total nearly $14 million from the National Institute on Early Childhood Development and Education to support center activities.

PUBLIC SERVICE

Carolina's public service activities and programs easily reach more than 400,000 people each year, according to conservative estimates in the most recent self-study completed for the Southern Association of Colleges and Universities. Carolina's service programs extend to every region of North Carolina, helping communities protect public health, improve their schools, deliver better medical funds appropriated by the N.C. General Assembly and designated by Chancellor Michael Hooker.

CULTURAL RESOURCES

The North Carolina Literary Festival, which will now be a biennial mainstay, took Chapel Hill by storm in early April 1998. The festival featured performances by more than 100 authors, including best-seller John Grisham, Nobel Laureate Derek Walcott and Pulitzer Prize winners Rita Dove and Annie Dillard.

The Academic Affairs Library, the nation's oldest public university library, houses more than 4.8 million volumes and ranks 17th among 108 peer libraries in the Association of Research Libraries. It includes the world-renowned Southern Historical Collection as well as the North Carolina Collection. The Federal Library of Congress chose the library as one of just 10 across the country asked to contribute to the national library on the Internet.

The Health Sciences Library contains approximately 304,000 volumes. It maintains the finest collection of books and journals related to the health sciences in the Southeast and one of the best in the nation.

WUNC-FM, a National Public Radio affiliate licensed to Carolina, serves more than 175,000 listeners in 16 central counties in North Carolina 24 hours daily.

The Morehead Planetarium attracts about 123,000 people, including more than 70,000 school children from 80 counties, annually.

More than 38,000 visitors annually enjoy the Ackland Art Museum's 14,000 works of art.

PlayMakers Repertory Company, the only non-profit professional, full-season theater company in the state, draws up to 70,000 patrons annually. More than 8,000 N.C. public school students attend its Glaxo Wellcome Educational Matinee Series every year.

Tar Heel Traditions

WHY TAR HEELS?

University of North Carolina athletic teams are known as the Tar Heels because North Carolina is "The Tar Heel State."

One legend has the nickname being applied to the state's residents as long ago as the Revolutionary War.

According to this story, the troops of British General Cornwallis were fording what is now known as the Tar River between Rocky Mount and Battleboro when they discovered that tar had been dumped into the stream to impede their crossing. When they finally got across the river they found their feet completely black with tar. Their observation that anyone who waded North Carolina rivers would acquire tar heels led to the nickname first being used.

Others say the nickname was acquired during the War Between the States. During one of that war's fiercest battles a column supporting North Carolina troops was driven from the field. After the battle, the North Carolinians who had successfully fought it out alone, happened to meet the regiment which had fled to safety and were greeted with the question, "Any more tar down in the Old North State, boys?"

"No, not a bit," shot back one of the North Carolina soldiers. "Old Jeff's bought it all up," he went on, referring to Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederacy.

"Is that so? What's he going to do with it?"

"He's going to put it on you'ns heels to make you stick better in the next fight."

Upon hearing of the incident, Robert E. Lee smiled and said to a fellow officer, "God bless the Tar Heel boys."

A letter found in 1991 by State Archivist David Olson lends credence to another more direct theory. A letter from Maj. Joseph Engelhard describes a fight involving men from North Carolina in which

Lee was heard to have said, "There they stand as if they have tar on their heels."

The letter, dated August 24, 1864, told the tale of a battle on the outskirts of Petersburg, Va. Engelhard was elected secretary of state for North Carolina in 1876.

RAM MASCOT

For nearly 70 years the mascot of North Carolina's football team has been a ram. Since Carolina's nickname is Tar Heels, it might seem strange to have a ram as a mascot. It is. But, there is a good explanation. It's offered by Vic Huggins, Carolina's head cheerleader back in 1924.

"In 1924 school spirit was at a peak," Huggins once explained. "But something seemed to be missing. One day it hit me. Georgia had a bulldog for a mascot and State a wolf. What Carolina needed was a symbol."

Two years earlier the Tar Heels had posted a brilliant 9-1 record. The star of that 1922 team was a bruising fullback named Jack Merritt. Merritt was nicknamed "the battering ram" for the way he plunged into lines. It seemed natural to Huggins to link a mascot with Merritt's unusual sobriquet.

"Charlie Woollen, the athletic business manager at that time, agreed with the idea and gave us $25 to purchase a fitting mascot," said Huggins.

Rameses the First was shipped in from Texas, arriving just in time to be introduced at a pep rally before the VMI game. Complete with a monogram blanket on his back, Rameses helped make the pep rally one of the school's greatest.

Then the ram was taken to Emerson Field where Carolina was an underdog to a strong VMI team. But, for three quarters the Tar Heels battled the visitors to a scoreless tie.

Late in the fourth period Carolina's Bunn Hackney was called upon to attempt a field goal. Before taking the field he stopped to rub Rameses' head for good luck.

Seconds later Hackney's 30-yard dropkick sailed between the goalposts, giving the Tar Heels a 3-0 victory and a legendary mascot.

Tar Heels rams have traveled everywhere from New York City (for the Carolina-Notre Dame game in 1949) to Jacksonville for Carolina's Gator Bowl appearances.

SCHOOL COLORS

The adoption of light blue and white as UNC's colors

dates back to the 19th Century. When the University reopened following the Civil War, most social activities were directed by two literary societies, the Dialectic and Philanthropic. The official color of the Di was light blue and that of the Phi white.

Since society membership was compulsory for all students, the opinions and activities of these organizations were by nature of circumstances all embracing. It was the custom for all men from localities west of Chapel Hill to affiliate with the Di and generally for students from the east to become members of the Phi.

On public occasions the student officers, marshals and ball managers were chosen equally from the membership of the two societies. It had long been the custom of each society for its members to wear its color on such occasions.

However, the chief marshal and chief ball manager, one from the Di and the other from the Phi, wore combination light blue and white regalias and rosettes signifying that they represented the whole student body.

Later, when intercollegiate athletics were established, the question of what to wear became a problem. Certainly, the students wanted to be associated with the University, but the school had no official colors. So it seemed only natural for the fans to adorn themselves with the same combination as that used by the chief marshals and ball managers, colors which represented not membership in a society, but a University student body.

Kenan Stadium

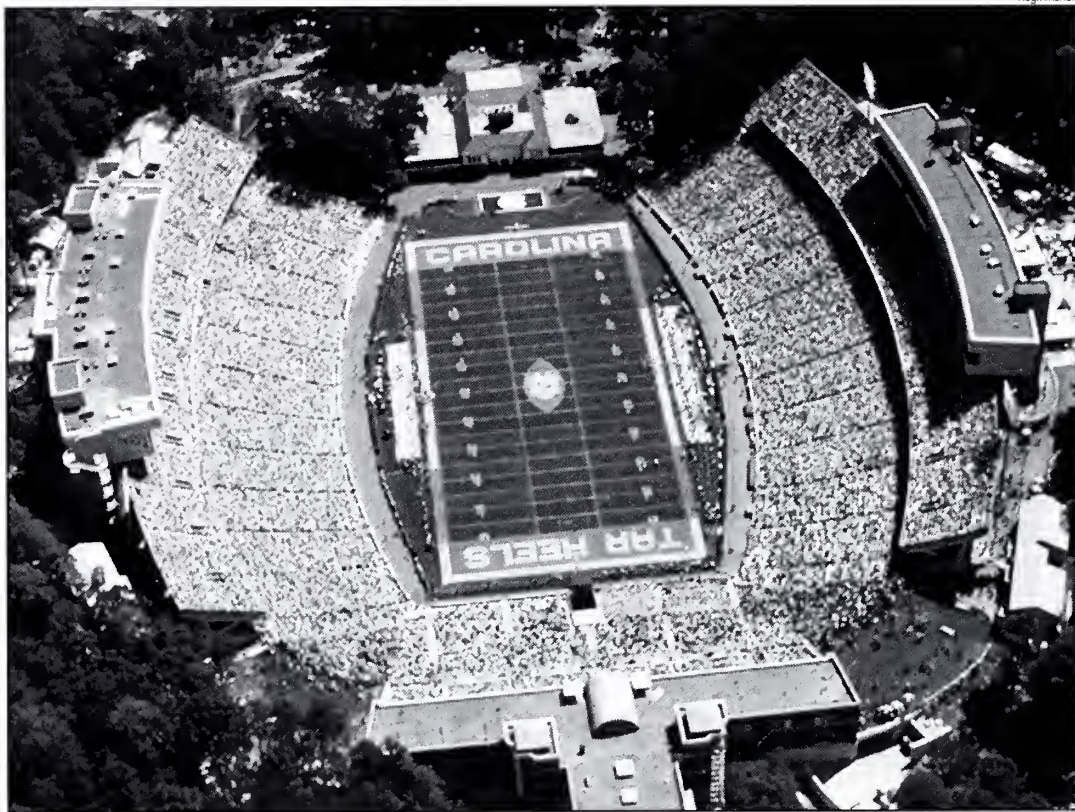

Carolina football plays its home games at Kenan Memorial Stadium, one of the most picturesque athletic venues in America. The Tar Heels have called Kenan Stadium home since 1927 and the thrill of playing in or attending a game there is as exhilarating now as it was when it was first constructed.

The stadium's beauty, charm and simple elegance have not been diminished with the recent expansion project that added nearly 8,000 seats, a state-of-the-art football facility, chancellor's box and preferred seating box. The renovation and expansion project, financed through a combination of private contributions through the Educational Foundation and bonded indebtedness from the athletic department through the sale of revenue-generating bonds, is in its fourth year. The Educational Foundation and its members have committed more than $43 million to the project. This summer, nearly 2,000 permanent seats were installed in the lower level of the stadium in the west end zone. That brings stadium capacity to 60,000.

Kenan Stadium is one of the most beautiful football facilities in the nation. Considering its majestic setting among the Carolina pines, many observers say it is the most beautiful. One national sports magazine rated Kenan one of the five best places in America to watch a college football game. For scenery, atmosphere and charm, it cannot be surpassed.

The stadium has been expanded several times since its completion in 1927. In each instance, though, great care was taken to keep its fundamental beauty intact. The addition of the Frank H. Kenan Football Center and the North Side Stadium Preferred Seating Box have further enhanced the stadium's status as a campus landmark.

"Kenan Stadium has always been one of the prettiest places to spend a Saturday in the fall," says head coach Carl Torbush. "Now, with the Frank H. Kenan Center, it is also one of the most impressive places to work each day. This building is unmatched in college football and shows the type commitment the people of North Carolina have to sustaining an outstanding football program. Our coaches love it, our players love it and the former players who have been through it are proud of what they helped build. It has created a sense of pride that I believe each future football team will be committed to passing on from year to year."

The Kenan Football Center is one of the most impressive structures of its kind in the country. The four-level structure houses the Carolina football program, including the coaches' offices, locker rooms, weight room, training room, equipment room, players' lounge, computer labs and study areas, academic coordinator's office, 100-plus seat auditorium, theater and Hall of Honor.

The Hall of Honor, located on the ground floor, is a multimedia history of Carolina football. Photographs, awards, trophies and artifacts detailing the rich and storied history of the sport in Chapel Hill are on display. The 17 Carolina players who have been honored by placing their names and numbers on display in the stadium are also featured in the Hall of Honor. Special plaques, flags and an audiovisual presentation on each player are highlighted.

The James A. Heavner Theater was made possible by a special gift by the executive producer of the Tar Heels Sports Network and president of Vilcom. The theater is a 30-person mini-theater equipped with surround sound and seven dramatic videos presenting the history of UNC football.

A number of rooms in the Kenan Football Center have been dedicated in the honor or memory of Carolina's benefactors, fans and athletic personalities. They include the Brinkley Lounge, the fourth floor reception area named for Harvey M. Brinkley Jr.; the Don McCauley/Paul Miller Head Coach's Suite; the Norman M. (Buddy) Black Jr. Lounge, the fourth floor hospitality area; the Oscar Davenport/Chris Keldorf Quarterback Meeting Room as given by Bob Biggerstaff; the Jo Allison Clary Smith Weight Room; the Carolina Football Players' Locker Room, named in behalf of the more than 400 former Tar Heels who donated more than $2 million to the project; Koury

Box North, box seating on the north side of the stadium named for Maurice J. Koury; the John W. Pope Academic Support Facility; the John W. Pope Stadium Box, a stadium box on the north side; and the John W. Swofford Auditorium.

The expansion project, in which great care was taken to ensure that the surrounding environment would be altered as little as possible, ties the north and south concourses to either end of the lower deck via the third level of the Kenan Center, making fan movement around the stadium much easier.

The new football center is named in honor of the late Frank H. Kenan, one of the school's most generous benefactors. Kenan was a Durham resident and chief executive officer of Kenan Transport Company in Chapel Hill. He passed away at the age of 83 in June 1996.

Kenan, a 1935 Carolina graduate, was the great-great-grandson of General James Kenan, a member of the University's founding board of trustees. An Atlanta native, Kenan had a tremendous impact on the growth of the University. He served on many campus boards, including the Board of Visitors and the Educational Foundation Board of Directors.

In recent years the William R. Kenan Jr. Charitable Trust, of which he was a trustee, has donated more than $100 million to schools in the state's consolidated university system, including Carolina, N.C. State and the N.C. School of the Arts. Among other things, the trust funds 92 William R. Kenan Jr. Professorships at 56 colleges and universities nationwide.

He served on the steering committee of Carolina's Bicentennial Campaign, the University's largest fund-raising effort. Gifts by him, his family and the trust during the campaign exceeded $31 million. The largest portion of that was targeted for the business school. In 1991 the school was renamed the Kenan-Flagler Business School after a $10 million gift.

The preferred seating box that rises above the second deck of the grandstand on the north side of the stadium has outdoor seating for almost 1,200 spectators. That includes the Chancellor's Box on the second level of the box 45 feet above the ground. The fourth level, 68 feet high, has outdoor seating for more than 1,000, plus concessions and a 7500 square foot lounge. There is a smaller lounge and food prep areas on the third floor.

The new fieldhouse and preferred seating box are the predominant changes in a multi-year renovation plan which has been underway for the past four seasons. A new playing field was installed in the spring of 1995. The new turf includes an improved drainage system beneath the field that drains through the field itself rather than off the sides of the field as in the past. Prior to the 1996 season the restrooms and concession stands were expanded and renovated and the bleachers in the end zone nearest the Bell

Another significant stadium expansion took place prior to 1988 and involved adding 2,000 choice seats between the 40-yard lines where the press box and chancellor's box formerly stood. A new press box was constructed on top of the upper deck on the stadium's south side. It is a one-level elongated structure, running from 10-yard line to 10-yard line.

Also part of the 1987-88 project were a permanent lighting system, a chancellor's lounge on the north side of the field and a football lettermen's lounge on the south side. The lights are part of a General Electric low-mount system which minimizes the height of the lightpoles. Cost of the entire project was $7 million. It was funded by private gifts and bonds.

William Rand Kenan Jr. deserves the credit for originally making the stadium a part of the University. He was born in North Carolina in 1873 and graduated from Carolina in 1894. An international industrialist, Kenan discovered carbide and made monumental progress in the field of chemistry. During his business career he was president of The Florida East Coast Railroad, The Florida East Coast Hotel Company, The West Palm Beach Water Company and the Florida East Coast Car Ferry Company.

He was a director of Florida Power and Light Company and built the first power plant in Miami in the early 1900s.

The stadium was built as a memorial to his parents, William R. Kenan and Mary Hargrave Kenan. Construction began in November 1926 and was completed the following August. Complete cost of the stadium and accompanying fieldhouse was $303,000.

Originally, the stadium was to be built through funds raised by alumni donations and by June 1926, a group of nearly 40 alumni had contributed $27,926. At this time, however, a copy of the prospectus and plan of financing the stadium came into the hands of Mr. Kenan who expressed an interest in the proposal. Kenan was considering establishing a memorial to his parents and the pressing need for a stadium and the possibilities of the beauty, dignity and permanence it presented, suggested to him that the benefaction he contemplated may well take the form of a memorial stadium. The Stadium Committee immediately endorsed his proposal and on the very day in November 1926 on which Kenan visited the planned site, he announced his financial gift to build the stadium.

Mr. Kenan remained very interested in Kenan Stadium throughout his lifetime. In the 1950s he gave a $1,000,000 contribution to construct a second deck on the stadium. After Mr. Kenan's death in 1965 the William R. Kenan Jr. Charitable Trust, which was established by his will, donated $1,000,000 to enlarge and modernize Kenan Fieldhouse.

In 1988 the Kenan Trust ships. He was awarded the honorary degree of LL.D. by his alma mater in 1944.

In the first game played there, Carolina defeated Davidson, 27-0, on November 12, 1927.

increased capacity to 48,000. That was expanded to 50,000 in 1979, 52,000 in 1988, 57,500 in 1997 and 60,000 in 1998.

After the 1976 season, Kenan Fieldhouse underwent a massive renovation. The building was expanded to 30,000 square feet of dressing rooms, coaches' offices, lounges, meeting rooms, weight-training quarters and other facilities. The players' lockerroom was renovated again in 1988.

The Student-Athlete Development Center was added to the fieldhouse in 1986. A 20,000 square foot building, it is a one-of-a-kind facility. For study purposes, it contains a language lab, video room, computer lab, theatre-style lecture hall, several reading rooms and numerous tutorial rooms. Carolina's academic counseling staff has the advantage of using the most modern techniques in helping student-athletes with their studies.

Scheduled improvements to renovate the original fieldhouse include providing substantially remodeled academic support space on the second floor which will connect with the Student-Athlete Development Center, improve the visiting team's dressing room on the first floor, and public rest rooms for use on football game days. Additional space on the second floor will be used to increase the size of the existing Ram's Room and to provide office space for use by the athletic department.

Capacity crowds have come to be expected at Kenan. Last year, the Tar Heels played in front of the five-largest crowds in stadium history, including a record-shattering crowd of 62,000 on Nov. 8, 1997, as fifth-ranked Carolina battled No. 2 Florida State. The largest crowd to watch a game prior to the most recent major expansion was 54,300 as Carolina defeated N.C. State, 31-17, in 1994.

The 1983 season saw another first in the stadium — a game played under artificial lights. The Carolina-Duke game was played in the late afternoon so it could be televised throughout the Atlantic Coast Conference area. Portable lights were brought in since the second half was played after sunset. Portable lights were also used in the 1987 Clemson game which was televised nationally by ESPN.

The 1991 season opener versus Cincinnati and the Clemson game, which was televised nationally by ESPN, were the first true night games ever played at Kenan Stadium. A total of 11 night games have been played since the lights were installed.

made another $1,000,000 gift to complete the new chancellor's box on the North Side. Another lasting memory of William R. Kenan Jr. is the Kenan Athletic Scholarship Endowment valued at over $1,000,000. Each year a student athlete is awarded a full scholarship from this fund.

Besides giving the stadium to the University, Mr. Kenan also sponsored and financed the famous Kenan Professor-

The most points scored by the Tar Heels in Kenan came in the third game played there as Carolina whipped Wake Forest, 65-0, in the 1928 season opener.

The Tar Heels have a 36-7 mark at Kenan Stadium in the last seven seasons.

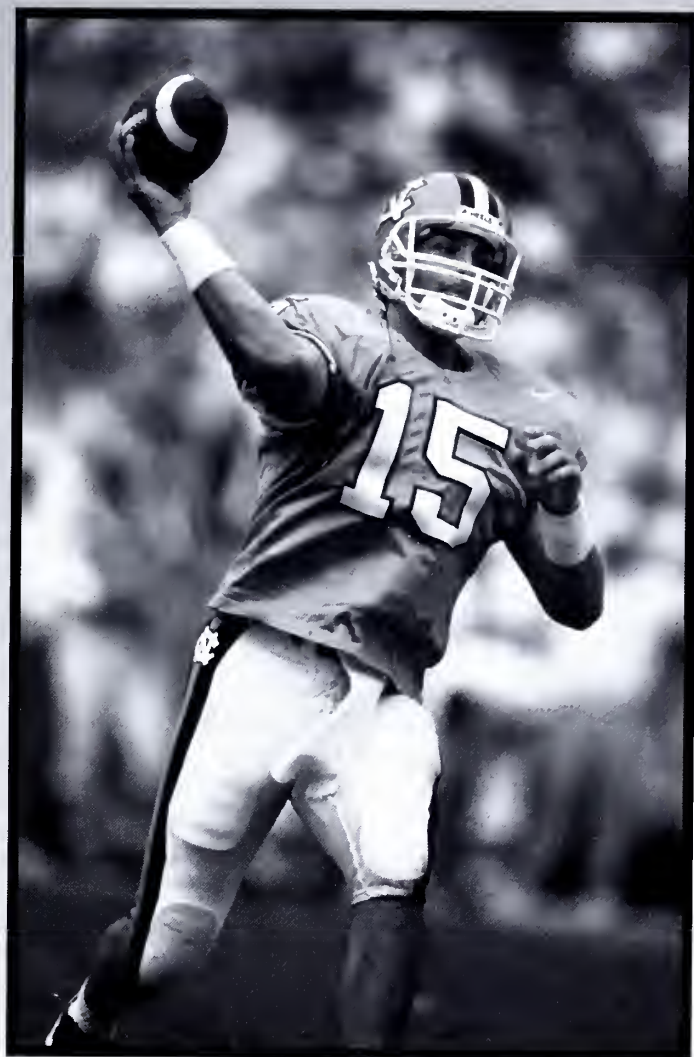

As originally built, the stadium seated 24,000. However, in 1963 the benefactor added portable stands and then an upper deck to the permanent stands, which

1997 Review Notes

CAROLINA WINS GATOR BOWL: Chris Keldorf threw three touchdown passes and the Tar Heel defense allowed just 185 total yards as Carolina defeated Virginia Tech, 42-3 in the Gator Bowl. Carolina won its bowl game for the third consecutive season. LSU and Nebraska are the only other schools that have won three bowl games in the past three years. Carolina set bowl-game records for most points (42) and margin of victory (39). Keldorf threw for 290 yards and earned Gator Bowl MVP honors.

TAR HEELS WIN 11 GAMES:

Carolina capped one of the best seasons in its storied football history with a 42-3 victory over Virginia Tech in the Gator Bowl. The Tar Heels finished the season 11-1 overall and were 7-1 in the Atlantic Coast Conference. UNC finished second in the ACC, one game behind Florida State. It is only the third time in school history that Carolina has won 11 games. The Tar Heels were 11-1 in 1972 and 11-1 in 1980.

SIX STRAIGHT BOWL GAMES:

Carolina appeared in a bowl game for the 22nd time in school history and the sixth consecutive season. That is the longest span of consecutive bowl games in Carolina history. The Tar Heels played in five straight bowl games from 1979-83.

Carolina's six straight bowl appearances is the eighth-longest active bowl attendance streak in the country. Nebraska (29), Michigan (23), Florida State (16), Ohio State (9), Tennessee (9), Penn State (9) and Florida (7) are the only schools with longer active streaks.

THREE FIRST-ROUND NFL DRAFT PICKS: For the first time in school history three Tar Heels were selected in the first round of the 1998 NFL Draft. Defensive end Greg Ellis was selected by the Cowboys with the eighth overall pick. Linebacker Brian Simmons was chosen by Cincinnati with the 17th pick and defensive tackle Vonnie Holliday was taken 19th by the Green Bay Packers. Carolina and Tennessee were the only two schools with three first-round selections.

Overall, seven Tar Heels were drafted including free safety Omar Brown in the fourth round by Atlanta, linebacker Kivuusama Mays in the fourth round by Minnesota, cornerback Robert Williams in the fifth round by Kansas City and running back Jonathan Linton in the fifth round by Buffalo.

CAROLINA NINTH IN WINS LAST SIX YEARS: North Carolina is the nation's ninth-winningest Division I football program over the last six seasons. Carolina has been to bowl games in each of those six seasons. The Tar Heels are 55-18 in the last six years and 68-26-1 in the 1990s.

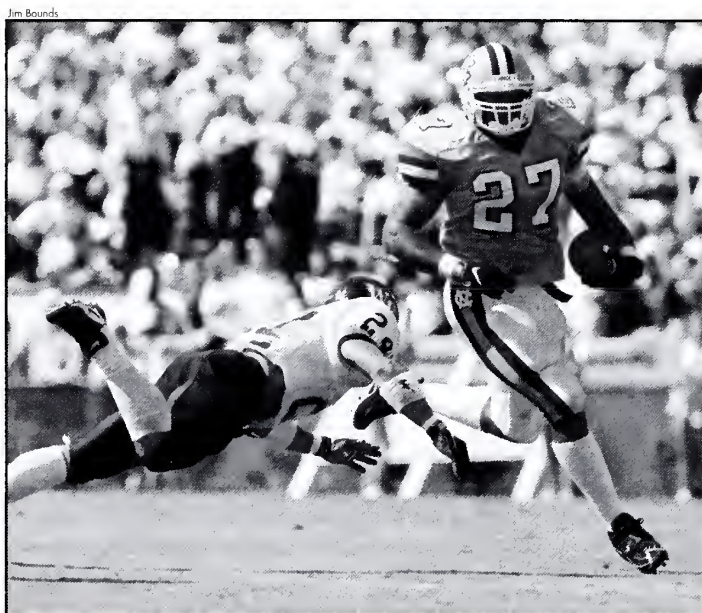

Nebraska (68 wins), Florida State (64), Florida (63), Ohio State (59), Penn State (58), Tennessee (58), Texas A&M (56) and Alabama (56) are the only programs with more wins than Carolina in the last six years. Colorado and Michigan both have 53 wins.

BACK IN THE TOP 10: No. 4/6 Carolina finished in the Top 10 for the second consecutive season. It is the fourth time in school history UNC has posted consecutive Top 10 finishes in the media or coaches polls. The other "repeat Top 10" seasons include: media poll in 1946 and 1947, media poll in 1947 and 1948, and coaches poll in 1981 and 1982.

UNC has finished in the Top 20 of at least one of the two major polls (Associated Press or coaches' poll) 17 times in history. The Tar Heels were ranked No. 4 in the USA Today/ESPN Coaches poll and No. 6 in the Associated Press poll last season.

ELLIS, SIMMONS TO JOIN ELITE GROUP ON STADIUM FACADE:

Three seasons ago the University of North Carolina established criteria for distinguished football players to be honored by placing their name and number on the facade of the upper deck at Kenan Stadium. The award goes to players who have been National Players of the Year, ACC Players of the Year, consensus first-team All-Americans, or had their Jonathan Linton rushed for 1,004 yards on 248 carries in 1997. It was the Tar Heels' 24th 1,000-yard rushing season, an NCAA record.

The "honored jersey" players are also honored in the new Frank H. Kenan Football Center Hall of Honor.

Fourteen players were honored when the award was introduced in 1994. Since its inception, defensive tackle Marcus Jones and cornerback Dre' Bly qualified for the award. Jones went up immediately after his All-America season in 1995, but Bly, who qualified in 1996, asked the University to wait to honor him after his collegiate career was complete. Bly repeated consensus honors in 1997.

The 17th and 18th players to be honored are senior defensive end Greg Ellis and senior outside linebacker Brian Simmons.

CONSENSUS RECIPIENTS AGAIN (AGAIN): When Dre' Bly earned consensus first-team All-America honors in 1996, it marked the first time in Carolina football history that UNC players earned consensus first-team All-America honors in consecutive seasons. Bly's, Greg Ellis' and Brian Simmons' selections in 1997 mark an unprecedented third straight year with a consensus All-America.

UNC had eight consensus first-team All-Americans in the school's first 104 years and five in the last three years.

Carolina's eight other consensus first-team selections are: Andy Bershak in 1937, Charlie Justice in 1948, Don McCauley in 1970, Ron Rusnak in 1972, Ken Huff in 1974, Dee Hardison in 1977, Lawrence Taylor in 1980, William Fuller in 1983 and Marcus Jones in 1995.

MULTIPLE CONSENSUS ALL-AMERICAS: When Dre' Bly, Greg Ellis and Brian Simmons earned consensus first-team All-America honors, it marked the second time in Atlantic Coast Conference history that three players from the same team earned that distinction in the same year. It is the first time ever that an ACC school has had three consensus All-Americans on the same side of the ball. In 1993, Florida State had three consensus first-team All-Americans – Heisman Trophy quarterback Charlie Ward, linebacker Derrick Brooks and cornerback Corey Sawyer.

UNC FIRST TO PUT THREE ON A.P. ALL-AMERICA TEAM: The University of North Carolina is the first school in Atlantic Coast Conference history to place three players on the Associated Press All-America first team. Cornerback Dre' Bly, defensive end Greg Ellis and outside linebacker Brian Simmons made the prestigious Associated Press team. Middle linebacker Kivuusama Mays was a third-team A.P. selection.

Carolina and co-national champion Nebraska were the only teams to have three players on the 1997 Associated Press first team. Carolina made up half of the ACC players who made the team. Florida State defensive end Andre Wadsworth and linebacker Sam Cowart and Clemson linebacker Anthony Simmons also made the A.P. team. All six ACC players were named on defense. Half the A.P. defense was selected from the ACC.

ACC schools placed two players on the Associated Press first team on four previous occasions since the ACC was formed in 1953 and 10 times overall.

BLY IS CONSENSUS ALL-AMERICA AGAIN: Not even the legendary Charlie Justice or the awesome Lawrence Taylor achieved what Dre' Bly achieved with his second straight consensus All-America selection. The Chesapeake, Va., sophomore is the first player in Carolina football history to earn consensus first-team All-America honors in two seasons.

Bly, who tied the UNC career interceptions record with 16 in just 22 regular-season games, earned first-team All-America honors in 1997 from the Associated Press, the Walter Camp Foundation, the Football Writers Association of America and Football News. He is the fifth player in Atlantic Coast Conference history to be named a consensus All-America more than once.

DEFENSE RULES: Carolina allowed 209.3 yards per game last year. That was the lowest yardage total allowed since the 1948 team gave up just 178.0 yards per game in 10 games. It was the third straight year the Tar Heels gave up less than 300 yards per game and the fifth straight year the defense gave up less yards than the previous season. Carolina gave up 326.5 yards per game in 1992, 322.3 in 1993, 319.3 in 1994, 267.3 in 1995, 225.6 in 1996 and 209.3 in 1997.

The 209.3 yards is the lowest per game average in the Atlantic Coast Conference since Clemson allowed 184.7 yards per game in 1963.

FIRST TIME AT DEATH VALLEY SINCE TAYLOR: Carolina's win at Clemson was the Tar Heels' first in Death Valley since Lawrence Taylor was a Tar Heel in 1980.

LINTON'S MEMORABLE MOMENT: With a 7-yard run up the middle with 9:19 to play in the fourth quarter against Duke, senior tailback Jonathan Linton became the 14th Tar Heel to run for 1,000-plus yards in a season. Linton carried 36 times for a career-high 199 yards and two touchdowns against the Blue Devils. A Carolina player has rushed for 1,000 yards 24 times, an NCAA record. Linton finished the season with 1,004 yards on 248 carries (4.0 yards per carry).

50-50 FOR NA BROWN: Reidsville, N.C., native Na Brown caught a UNC record 55 passes. He broke the former record of 54 set by Leon Johnson in 1995. The previous record for a wide receiver was 53 by Octavus Barnes in 1995. Brown had 52 receptions in 1996. He is the only player in Carolina history to have at least 50 catches in more than one season.

CAROLINA TRIFECTA: North Carolina is the only school in the country to have a finalist for the Butkus, Lombardi and Thorpe Awards, which are given to the nation's top linebacker, lineman and defensive back, respectively.

Kivuusama Mays was one of three finalists for the Butkus, Greg Ellis was one of four finalists for the Lombardi and Dre' Bly was a finalist for the second consecutive season for the Thorpe.

FIVE-YEAR PLAN: Carolina has won 46 games over the last five years. That is the best five-year period in UNC football history. The Tar Heels had won 45 games from 1979-83.

The Tar Heels have a 46-15 record in the last five years. Carolina was 45-14 under head coach Dick Crum from 1979-83.

ROAD WARRIORS: Carolina won all five of its road games in 1997, the first time UNC has accomplished a perfect road record since going 5-0 in 1981. Those are the only two times Carolina has won all of its road contests since it joined the ACC in 1953.

Defensive end Greg Ellis set the school record with 32.5 career sacks and was selected in the first round (eighth overall pick) of the 1998 NFL Draft by the Dallas Cowboys.

EIGHT STRAIGHT WINNING SEASONS: Carolina posted a winning season for the eighth consecutive year, the longest streak in modern day Carolina football history. The Tar Heels did have nine straight winning records from 1897 to 1905.

DEFENSE AMONG NATION'S BEST: North Carolina was the only school ranked in the top five in the nation in all four major defensive categories. Carolina was second in the country in total yards allowed per game, third in pass defense, fourth in run defense and fifth in points allowed.

TORBUSH IS THE CHOICE: East Spencer, N.C., native Carl Torbush, who was part of Mack Brown's original staff, was promoted to head coach on December 8. Torbush spent the last 10 years as the Tar Heels' defensive coordinator and linebackers coach. He was the National Defensive Coordinator of the Year by the American Football Coaches Association in 1996 and was a finalist for the Frank Broyles Award as the National Assistant Coach of the Year in 1997.

Torbush is a 1974 graduate of Carson-Newman College in Jefferson City, Tenn., where he played for Coach Ron Case, who is now the secondary coach at Carolina.

Torbush was an assistant coach at Southeastern Louisiana, Louisiana Tech, Ole Miss and Carolina. In 1987, Torbush was head coach at Louisiana Tech and led the Bulldogs to a 3-8 record.

THREE-PEAT FOR ELLIS: Greg Ellis became the third player in Carolina history to be named first-team All-Atlantic Coast Conference three times. He joined defensive lineman William Fuller and offensive lineman Pat Crowley as the only three-time All-ACC selections at UNC. Fuller was first team in 1981-82-83 and Crowley received the awards in 1987-1988-1989.

ALL-AMERICAS: Cornerback Dre' Bly, defensive end Greg Ellis and outside linebacker Brian Simmons each received first-team All-America selections in 1997.

First-team selections by team include:

Associated Press – Bly, Ellis and Simmons

Walter Camp Foundation – Bly, Ellis and Simmons

Football News – Bly, Ellis and Simmons

American Football Coaches Association – Ellis

Sporting News – Ellis (second team)

Sporting News – Bly and Simmons (third team)

Associated Press – Kivuusama Mays (third team)

SIX MAKE FIRST-TEAM ALL-ACC: Carolina placed six players on the All-Atlantic Coast Conference first team and four on the All-ACC second team.

Leading the way was three-time first-team selection Greg Ellis. He is only the third UNC player ever to earn first-team All-ACC three times. Linebacker Kivuusama Mays, center Jeff Saturday and cornerback Dre' Bly received their second first-team All-ACC selection. Mays was a first-team All-ACC pick in 1995 and a second-team choice a year ago.

Defensive tackle Vonnie Holliday and cornerback Robert Williams received first-team All-ACC honors for the first time.

Outside linebacker Brian Simmons, free safety Omar Brown, tight end Alge Crumpler and tailback Jonathan Linton were second-team selections.

RECORD BOOK FALLS IN DUKE WIN: The Blue Devils scored the first 14 points, but a 36-point second half and an accompanying assault on the record books led Carolina to a 50-14 win over Duke. The win was Carolina's eighth consecutive triumph over the Blue Devils, the longest streak by either team since 1929.

Quarterback Chris Keldorf threw for 256 yards and four touchdowns, flanker Na Brown had six receptions and two scores and tailback Jonathan Linton rushed for 199 yards and a pair of touchdowns to lead a 527-yard offensive attack. Cornerback Dre' Bly picked off two passes and linebacker Kivuusama Mays had 10 tackles, two for losses, and had one interception. Carolina held the Blue Devils to 46 rushing yards and only 11 total first downs.

A number of records, single-season and career, and milestones were set in the process. They include:

- Senior tailback Jonathan Linton rushed for a career-high 199 yards and went over 1,000 yards for the season. That is the 24th 1,000-yard season – an NCAA record – by a Tar Heel tailback. It was the 10th time in series history a Tar Heel back rushed for 175 or more yards.

- Senior quarterback Chris Keldorf threw four touchdowns for the third time in his career and became the alltime passing touchdowns leader in Carolina history with 35.

- Senior split end Octavus Barnes caught his 19th career touchdown pass, a school record.

- Junior flanker Na Brown had six receptions to increase his team-leading total to 55 catches, a UNC single-season record.

- Brown became the first Tar Heel in history to have more than one 50-catch season.

- Sophomore cornerback Dre' Bly equaled the UNC career record for interceptions. Bly picked off two passes and broke up two more in the win over Duke. He has 16 regular-season interceptions to tie Lou Angelo's school record. The ACC career record is 17 by five different players.

- Senior defensive end Greg Ellis added a sack to finish his career with 32.5 quarterback sacks, a UNC record.

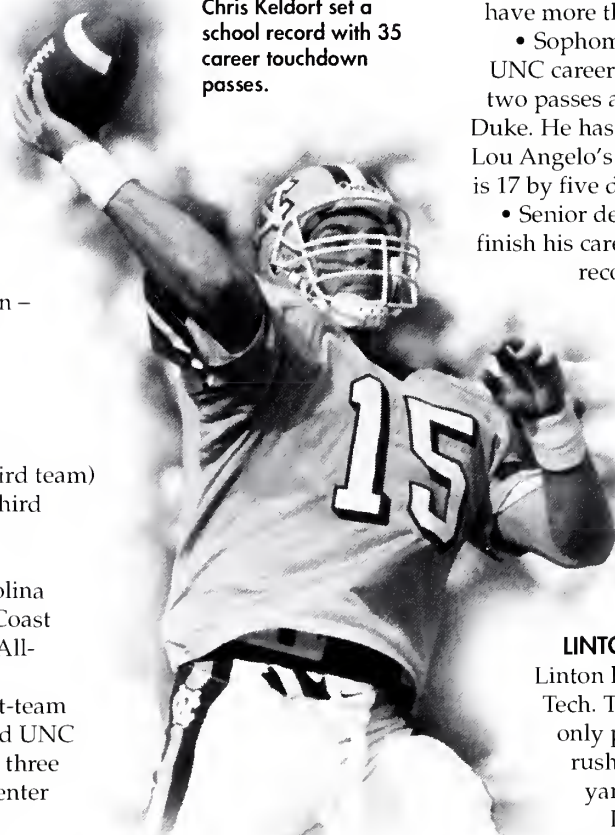

- The 50 points against Duke were the most by Carolina since a 59-34 win in 1970 and the second-most alltime. UNC also scored 50 in a 50-0 win over Duke in 1959.

- The five interceptions by the UNC defense (two by Dre' Bly, one by Robert Williams, Jomo Legins and Kivuusama Mays) were the most by Carolina since it picked off five at Virginia in 1981.

LINTON GAINS 100 AND 100: Jonathan Linton had a truly remarkable effort at Georgia Tech. The Catasauqua, Pa., native became the only player in Carolina football history to rush for 100 yards and have 100 receiving yards in the same game.

Linton ran over the Yellow Jackets en route to 138 yards on the ground and caught six passes for 137 yards. Linton, who had 177 yards rushing vs. N.C. State the previous week, became the first Tar Heel to rush for 100-plus yards in consecutive games since Leon Johnson rushed for 195 against Arkansas in the 1995 Carquest Bowl and 109 yards against Clemson in the 1996 opener.

He is the first UNC running back to get 100 yards receiving since Don McCauley had 122 yards against the Air Force in 1968. The 137 yards are the most ever by a UNC running back.

Linton set up the Tar Heels' last field goal, what proved to be the winning margin, with a reception for 38 yards and a run for 31 yards. The 38-yard catch-and-run came on a short pass from Carolina's own 10-yard line.

SCHOOL-RECORD COMEBACK:

Carolina rallied from a 20-3, second quarter deficit to beat Virginia, 48-20. The comeback from 17 points behind matched the largest in school history. UNC also rallied from 17 points down in 1987 to beat Georgia Tech, 30-23, in Atlanta. The Yellow Jackets led that game, 20-3, at the half.

MOST SINCE CHOO CHOO:

Carolina's 48-point effort against Virginia was the highest scoring output by the Tar Heels against the Cavaliers since 1946, Charlie Justice's freshman year. UNC beat the Wahoos, 49-14, in Charlottesville in 1946. The 48 points by the Tar Heels were the most at Kenan Stadium against Virginia since UNC beat the Cavs, 61-0, in 1935.

DEFENSIVE SHUTDOWN: Carolina's top-ranked defense clamped down on the Cavalier offense in the second half and held Virginia to just 68 yards in the final two quarters. Virginia compiled 130 yards on 27 plays in the opening half en route to a 20-10 lead. In the second half, however, Carolina held the Cavaliers to 2.3 yards per play (68 yards on 30 plays). That included three pass completions in nine attempts for 18 yards and 50 rushing yards on 21 carries.

The Tar Heels recovered three fumbles and picked off a pass in the second half. Two of the turnovers were forced in a span of 34 seconds and led to 14 UNC points.

SEVEN ACC WINS: Carolina was 7-1 in Atlantic Coast Conference play. That was the 24th season in which the Tar Heels have played at least seven games against ACC competition and the first in which UNC has won seven games. UNC won six ACC games in 1963, 1971, 1972, 1980, 1993 and 1996.

The Tar Heels are 33-15 in the ACC in the last six seasons.

MAYS A BUTKUS FINALIST: Senior inside linebacker Kivuusama Mays was one of three finalists for the Butkus Award, which is given to the top linebacker in the nation by the Downtown Athletic Club of Orlando, Fla. The presentation was made by Hall of Fame linebacker Dick Butkus on December 13 at the Orlando Marriott World Center. The other finalists included Sam Cowart of Florida State and award winner Andy Katzenmoyer of Ohio State.

Carolina became the only school in the country to ever have four players on the Butkus List this year. Brian Simmons was a semifinalist for the second straight year. Keith Newman and Brandon Spoon were also on the list.

ELLIS A LOMBARDI FINALIST: Defensive end Greg Ellis, a senior from Wendell, N.C., was a finalist for the Lombardi Award, given to the best down lineman in college football. The award was presented in Houston on December 10th. Ellis is the alltime sack leader in Carolina history with 32.5, including nine this season. Ellis was joined among the finalists by Florida State defensive end Andre Wadsworth, Nebraska end Grant Wistrom and Ohio State linebacker Andy Katzenmoyer. Wistrom won the award.

Ellis made 14 tackles against Clemson, including two sacks for 13 yards. He had a sack and an incredible nine QB pressures against Duke. For the season, Ellis made 87 tackles, including 18 for losses of 79 yards. He made 25 more tackles than he did in 1996. It is the most tackles by a defensive lineman since first-team All-America tackle Marcus Jones had 94 hits in 1995.

IN-STATE ACC WINS: The Tar Heels have won 16 consecutive games against in-state rivals from the Atlantic Coast Conference. Carolina has not lost to Duke, N.C. State or Wake Forest since the Pack toppled UNC, 27-20, on September 26, 1992. Since that defeat, Carolina has beaten N.C. State and Wake Forest five times apiece and Duke six times.

PERMANENT CAPTAINS NAMED: Carolina named five players as permanent team captains for the 1997 season at the annual banquet on November 30. The five captains include senior tailback Jonathan Linton, senior center Jeff Saturday, senior defensive end Greg Ellis, senior outside linebacker Brian Simmons and senior defensive tackle Vonnice Holliday.

Defensive tackle Vonnice Holliday, who was picked in the first round of the 1998 NFL Draft by the Green Bay Packers, was a vital reason the Tar Heels held opponents to just 77.9 yards rushing per game.

At newly expanded Kenan Stadium, a then record-crowd of 57,800 fans saw Carolina overcome a sluggish first half to earn its first victory of the year, 23-6 over Indiana.

With UNC's air attack struggling early, the Tar Heels turned to senior tailback Jonathan Linton. Linton, who earned the starting running back position with an outstanding fall camp, carried 22 times for 121 yards – both career highs at the time.

He was one of the few offensive bright spots in the first half, gaining 62 yards on 13 carries. Meanwhile, All-ACC quarterback Chris Keldorf was admittedly tight, completing just two of his first eight attempts.

While Carolina struggled early, Indiana converted a first-quarter fourth-and-three play on its second possession which led to a 26-yard field goal and a 3-0 lead. The Indiana scoring drive was set up by Kywin Supernaw's interception of a Chris Keldorf pass deep in UNC territory. Supernaw returned the ball 13 yards to the Carolina 18.

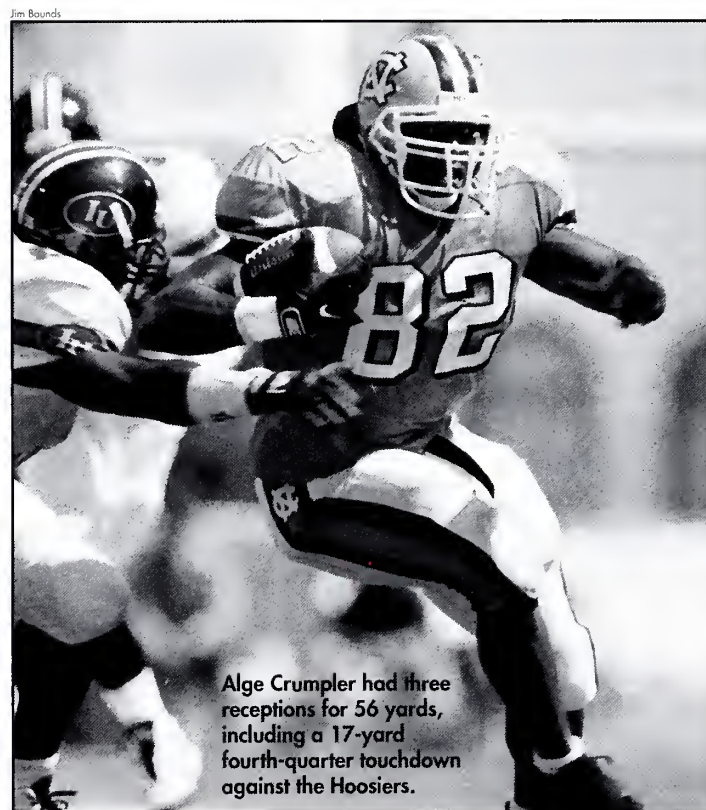

However, Carolina's defense was as stubborn as ever and forced the field goal attempt when defensive end Greg Ellis recorded a seven-yard sack. The sack moved Ellis ahead of former Tar Heel All-America Marcus Jones for the school's alltime sack lead. Ellis finished the game with 10 tackles, including three-and-a-half for loss.

Quarterback Oscar Davenport came off the bench on the Tar Heels' third possession and moved the team quickly down the field. Davenport looked sharp in completing successive up just 172 total yards, 53 of which came on one play in the third quarter. Indiana gambled throughout the game, converting three of five fourth down plays, but ultimately could not move the ball effectively against Carolina. Middle linebacker Kivuusama Mays had a great day with 18 tackles, including 14 solo hits.

IU's biggest gain came on a trick play when tailback Jason Spear galloped 53 yards past a surprised Tar Heel defense. Indiana appeared to be getting 12-yard passes to L.C. Stevens and Octavus Barnes. Linton then carried the ball on six of the next seven plays, scoring UNC's first touchdown of the season on a 1-yard plunge.

On the Hoosiers' first possession of the second half, cornerback Dre' Bly picked off his 12th pass in the last 12 regular-season games. Keldorf, who was more relaxed in the second half, tossed a 26-yard touchdown pass to Octavus Barnes on the next play to take a 17-3 lead.

The Tar Heel defense gave the play call from the sideline when the ball was snapped to Spear. Brandon Spoon chased Spear from behind and prevented a score, but the Hoosiers tacked on a 32-yard field goal to pull within 17-6.

Carolina used its best field possession of the day to quickly score the game's final touchdown. Starting on the Indiana 43-yard line, Keldorf drove Carolina to the 17-yard line before connecting with tight end Alge Crumpler, who ran over an Indiana defender to score the touchdown.

Carolina vs. Stanford

CAROLINA 28, STANFORD 17
SEPTEMBER 13, 1997
AT KENAN STADIUM
CHAPEL HILL

Kevin Miller's attempted punt. Black picked the ball up at the 7-yard line and dashed to the end zone for the touchdown.

Carolina fell behind early when Stanford's Chad Hutchinson tossed an 11-yard touchdown to Jon Ritchie for a 7-0 lead on the Cardinal's first possession. The scoring drive was set up by a 52-yard punt return from Troy Walters who was finally run out of bounds at the UNC 24-yard line. The Cardinal needed just three plays for its first score.

On Carolina's third possession of the game, Oscar Davenport took over the quarterback duties from Chris Keldorf and led the Tar Heels on a 17-play, 99-yard drive that ate up 8:35 on the clock.

Davenport completed all six of his pass attempts during the drive, including a six-yard touchdown pass to tight end Alge Crumpler. Tailback Jonathan Linton was impressive in the drive, carrying six times for 30 yards.

With Keldorf running the offense again, Carolina marched 71 yards to score a go-ahead touchdown just before the first half ended. Keldorf and wide receiver Na Brown hooked up three times for 20 yards and tailback Mike Geter had four carries for 26 yards to move the Tar Heels down the field. Jonathan Linton capped the drive with a one-yard scoring plunge.

In the third quarter, Stanford put together its longest drive of the game, going 60 yards on 10 plays to tie the game at 14. Hutchinson completed two passes on successive third-down plays to keep the drive alive. From the Tar Heel 28, Hutchinson found DeRonnie Pitts for 24 yards, setting up first-and-goal from the UNC 4-yard line. After fumbling and nearly turning the ball over on first down, Hutchinson scrambled for a 5-yard touch-down on the next play.

Carolina fumbled the ensuing kickoff and Stanford recovered at the UNC 15-yard line. However, the Cardinal was unable to make a first down and had to settle for a 27-yard field goal to take a 17-14 lead.

The Tar Heels again fumbled on their next drive when Keldorf, scrambling to make the first down, was stripped of the ball by defensive end Riall Johnson. Once again, Stanford could not move the ball and Kevin Miller's 40-yard field goal was well short.

Davenport came in on the Tar Heels' next possession and marched the team 76-yards for the go-ahead touchdown. On third-and-eight from the UNC 26, Davenport tucked the ball under and galloped 20 yards for the first down. Eight plays later with the ball at the Stanford 15-yard line, Davenport scrambled out of the pocket and looked as though he may run for another first down. But this time, he pulled up short of the line of scrimmage and tossed a 15-yard touchdown strike to Octavus Barnes.

passes in the drive, including back-to-back 18-yard darts to Moises Cruz.

Carolina, trailing for the third straight game, had excellent field position for most of the first half and was finally able to capitalize in the second quarter. A Maryland fumble was recovered by Vonnice Holliday at the Terrapin 26-yard line and five plays later Davenport's 14-yard touchdown pass to Brown tied the score at seven.

Carolina would tack on another touchdown late in the first half when Jonathan Linton bulled his way in to the end zone from one yard out. Davenport converted two successive third down plays on the drive, including a third-and-six from the Maryland 18-yard line.

Carolina opened the third quarter by forcing another Terrapin fumble deep in Maryland territory. Josh McGee booted a 25-yard field goal to give Carolina 17-7 lead.

After a Maryland drive stalled in Carolina territory, the Tar Heels took over at their own six-yard line. It took Carolina just three plays to drive 94 yards and take a commanding 24-7 lead. Davenport completed three consecutive passes, including a 51-yarder to Barnes and back-to-back passes to Peace of 24 and 19 yards. The 19-yard reception was the first career touchdown for Peace, who had his finest day as a Tar Heel receiver with five catches for 105 yards.

Carolina's defense was again superb, limiting Maryland to just 48 yards rushing and 187 yards overall. The Tar Heels were credited with eight sacks, including a fourth quarter safety by Brian Simmons. Simmons, who nearly had a safety in the first half, was credited with 14 tackles, including 10 solo hits.

Chris Keldorf came in at quarterback on Carolina's second drive of the fourth quarter and found Peace with a 42-yard pass to the Terrapin 31. Freshman Domonique Williams, a native of Upper Marlboro, Md., carried three times for 13 yards on the drive. Following Williams' 1-yard carry to the 14-yard line, Keldorf completed a touchdown pass to L.C. Stevens.

Carolina closed out the scoring in the fourth quarter when Ebenezer Ekuban made his third sack of the day forcing another Terrapin fumble. Redshirt freshman Stephon McQueen picked up the fumble and returned it 17 yards for a Carolina touchdown.

Virginia's special teams gave the Cavaliers the first lead when Dwayne Stukes picked up a blocked punt and raced 33 yards for a touchdown.

After both teams traded field goals, Virginia drove 88 yards in 11 plays behind tailback Antwoine Womack. Womack had successive runs of 10, 1, 21 and 21 yards setting up Aaron Brooks' one-yard touchdown run.

Carolina muffed the subsequent kickoff and UVa recovered at the Tar Heel 19-yard line. However, UNC's defense held Virginia on three plays and forced a field goal.

Down by 17 points with just under three and a half minutes to play in the first half, Oscar Davenport led Carolina on a 71-yard scoring drive. Davenport completed six of eight passes and had a 19-yard run for a first down. From the Virginia five-yard line, Davenport zipped a touchdown pass to L.C. Stevens to close the gap to 20-10.

With the score 20-13 early in the third quarter, All-America cornerback Dre' Bly made perhaps the game's biggest play. Bly picked off Brooks' pass, literally stealing the ball away from UVa's receiver, and returned the ball 17 yards for a touchdown. It was the second straight season Bly had returned an interception for a touchdown against Virginia.

UNC linebacker Keith Newman sparked another Carolina score after recovering a fumble at the UVa 26-yard line on Virginia's next possession.

On third down from the 10-yard line, Davenport found tight end Alge Crumpler and tossed a touchdown pass just out of the reach of two Virginia defenders.

Later in the fourth quarter, Newman recovered his second fumble of the game, giving Carolina great field position at the UVa 19-yard line.

Carolina turned to Chris Keldorf at quarterback after Davenport was knocked from the game with a knee injury. Linton moved the ball to the one-yard line before Keldorf pushed through the line for the touchdown.

Carolina stretched the lead to 21 points when Keldorf connected with Octavus Barnes on a 50-yard touchdown pass late in the fourth quarter.

Following another Virginia fumble, the Tar Heels quickly added another score when fullback Deon Dyer bullied his way 31 yards for the touchdown to end the scoring at 48-20.

Josh McGee opened the scoring on a 37-yard field goal with just under three minutes to play in the first quarter. Keldorf then completed three straight passes to set up a two-yard Jonathan Linton touchdown run.

In the second quarter, Carolina added to its 10-0 lead with a six-play, 71-yard touchdown drive. Operating out of the shotgun, Keldorf completed passes to Na Brown for 14 yards, Jason Peace for 17 yards and then hooked up with L.C. Stevens on a 35-yard touchdown pass.

numbers, Carolina could not score again before halftime as McGee missed a 49-yard field goal attempt as time expired.

Both teams appeared to be frustrated by their lack of scoring ability in the third quarter. Texas Christian rarely had the ball for more than three plays and while Carolina moved the ball downfield, the Tar Heels could not convert key third down calls.

The Horned Frogs took advantage of a Tar Heel turnover and booted a 33-yard field goal early the fourth quarter.

Following Carolina's second consecutive turnover, a fumble by Antwon Black on the TCU kickoff, the Frogs bounced back to life with a five-play, 30-yard touchdown drive. On first-and-goal from the nine yard line, TCU's Torrie Simmons grabbed Jeff Dover's scoring dart to pull with seven at 17-10.

Carolina's offense immediately woke up after the TCU touchdown. Tailback Mike Geter burst up the middle for a 21-yard gain and Keldorf completed back-to-back passes of 17 and 11 yards to put Carolina ahead 24-10.

Carolina got the ball back with six minutes remaining and needed just five plays to make the score, 31-10. Keldorf completed a 23-yard pass to Brown to put the ball in TCU territory. Two plays later Keldorf connected with Octavus Barnes on a 39-yard touchdown.

Carolina's defense held TCU to just 207 yards of offense and only allowed 12 completions in 41 pass attempts.

goals. Wake quarterback Brian Kuklick threw for 251 yards and was able to move the ball early against the Tar Heel defense with short over the middle passes.

In Wake's first two scoring drives, Kuklick was 7-12 for 91 yards, including a key 32-yard pass play on the second drive.

Carolina cut the lead to 6-3 on a 28-yard Josh McGee field goal, but Wake recovered a fumbled punt at the Tar Heel 17-yard line and looked to add to its three-point lead. The Demon Deacons moved the ball to the Carolina eight-yard line and decided to go for it on fourth-and-one. As the Deacons lined up for an apparent field goal, wide receiver Desmond Clark rushed up to the line of scrimmage and took the snap. The Tar Heel defense held Clark short of the first down and took over just prior to halftime.

In the second half, Carolina got its offense going, scoring on three of its first four possessions. The Tar Heels took the lead after recovering a Wake fumble inside the Deacons' 20-yard line. On third down Oscar Davenport found Alge Crumpler for a 10-yard pass to the Deacons' 4-yard line. Jonathan Linton scored on the next play.

The Tar Heels added to their lead with the help of their special teams. Jomo Legins beat his man off the snap and blocked Wake's punt attempt. Steve Fisher picked up the errant punt and raced nine yards for the touchdown. It marked the second time this season Carolina had blocked a punt for a touchdown.

Carolina's defense knocked

Kuklick out of the game for a series in the fourth quarter and Wake Forest was unable to move the ball with Ben Sankey as the signal caller. After a three-and-out, Wake was forced to punt.

Looking to put the game out of reach, Davenport supplied the firepower for Carolina's six-play, 69-yard touchdown drive that gave the Tar Heels an 18-point advantage. Davenport found L.C. Stevens deep down the field for a 59-yard reception. After failing to score on its first three tries from inside the Wake Forest 10-yard line, Davenport sneaked up the middle on fourth down for the touchdown.

The Deacons refused to go away quietly, scoring early in the fourth quarter, but failing to convert on the two-point attempt.

Brian Simmons and Greg Ellis sacked Kuklick and forced a fumble which Ellis returned 17 yards setting up the Tar Heels final scoring opportunity. Linton later scored on a two-yard touchdown run.

Carolina vs. N.C. State

CAROLINA 20, N.C. STATE 7
OCTOBER 18, 1997
AT CARTER FINLEY STADIUM
RALEIGH, N.C.

Carolina won its fifth straight game over in-state rival N.C. State, scoring 13 points in the second half for a 20-7 victory. In a drizzling rain, the Tar Heels (7-0) were able to shut out the Wolfpack over the last three quarters.

Tailback Jonathan Linton, completely healthy for the first time in four games, rushed for a career high 177 yards and scored a touchdown in his seventh straight contest. With the weather a factor, Carolina handed the ball to Linton 34 times, while quarterback Oscar Davenport threw for 189 yards.

Carolina outgained the Wolfpack, 429 yards to 190 yards, as the UNC defense held N.C. State's rushing attack to just 47 yards. Carolina sacked State quarterback Jamie Barnette five times and allowed Barnette to complete just eight passes for 143 yards.

Carolina failed to convert a 48-yard field goal on its opening drive. N.C. State then took its first drive 68 yards in seven plays for a 7-0 lead. Tremayne Stephens, who scored the touchdown on a three-yard sweep, had a key 26-yard run in the drive.

After the Tar Heels recovered a fumbled punt on the 22-yard line, Linton gave the ball right back to the Wolfpack, committing the first fumble for a Tar Heel running back all season.

Carolina forced an NCSU

punt and, on the first play of the second quarter, tied the score on Davenport's one-yard touchdown plunge.

In the second half, Linton took the Tar Heels down to the N.C. State 34-yard line before the drive stalled. Brian Schmitz, who had attempted just one college field goal, kicked a 51-yard field goal to give Carolina a 10-7 lead. Schmitz first career field goal was the longest by a Tar Heel since 1987.

Barnette and the Wolfpack offense failed to mount any worthwhile drive in the second half. In fact, 19 of N.C. State's 26 second-half plays resulted in no gains or loss of yardage. Defensive end Greg Ellis added to his school record sack total with two and had 10 tackles overall. Linebackers Kivusama Mays and Brian Simmons had 10 and eight tackles, respectively.

In the fourth quarter, Carolina added 10 points to provide the final scoring margin. On first and 10 from the N.C. State 40-yard line, Carolina worked the flea flicker play for a 54-yard completion from Davenport to Octavus Barnes. On second and goal, Linton busted through the line for the touchdown.

Josh McGee tacked on a 21-yard field goal late in the fourth quarter to seal the victory.

scores. His biggest completion of the night was a 30-yard touchdown pass to L.C. Stevens in the third quarter which gave Carolina a 13-6 lead. Most of the evening, however, the Tar Heels failed to put the ball in the end zone.

Carolina took the opening kickoff to the Georgia Tech 27-yard line where the drive stalled. Brian Schmitz, Carolina's long distance kicker, booted a 44-yard field goal to give the Tar Heels a 3-0 lead. It marked the first time this season Carolina had scored on its opening drive.

On Georgia Tech's first play from scrimmage, Joe Hamilton completed a 44-yard pass to tailback Charles Wiley who was finally dragged down at the Carolina 19-yard line. The UNC defense forced the Yellow Jacket offense back to the 25 before David Frakes tied the score with a 42-yard field goal.

Davenport tossed his first interception in 154 attempts in the second quarter halting a Carolina drive inside the Georgia Tech 25. The Yellow Jackets then drove into Carolina territory before settling for a 45-yard field goal and a 6-3 lead.

Later in the first half, Georgia Tech intercepted Davenport again and started its drive on the Carolina 24-yard line. On 4th-and-one, Georgia Tech elected to go for the first down instead of kicking a field goal. Wiley rushed right looking for the first down marker, but Carolina safety Omar Brown stepped up and made the saving tackle. Tech would not threaten again until the final few minutes of the game.

Carolina, however, tied the game at six in the second quarter and, on its first drive of the third quarter, took the lead on Stevens 30-yard touchdown catch. Davenport completed all six passes in the drive, including a 13-yard pass to Jason Peace on third down and back to back passes to Na Brown which moved the ball into Yellow Jacket territory.

In the second half, Carolina's defense took over, allowing just 77 yards. Late in the third quarter, Georgia Tech took over at the Carolina 47-yard line. By the time the drive was finished, the Yellow Jackets had to punt from their 42.

Georgia Tech was unable to run the ball effectively, gaining just 28 yards on 29 carries. Carolina tallied four sacks and held Hamilton to just 158 passing yards. Greg Williams, Brian Simmons and Kivuusama Mays each had at least 10 tackles.

which both teams were ranked in the top five.

The loss halted Carolina's 10-game unbeaten streak and prevented the Tar Heels from equaling the school's longest home winning streak of 11 games. Carolina also fell to second place in the ACC, one game behind the Seminoles.

In the first quarter Carolina's slow-starting trend seemed as though it might end as Florida State appeared to be rattled on its first possession, losing four yards before booting a mere 23-yard punt. With what turned out to be its best field position of the night, Carolina started its drive on the FSU 34-yard line. However, UNC quarterback Oscar Davenport dropped back to pass on third down and was hit and fumbled the ball as he stepped up into the pocket. FSU recovered and returned the ball close to midfield. For the remainder of the game, Carolina would not start another drive in FSU territory and only once drove inside the Seminoles 30-yard line.

Florida State, however, opened its first scoring drive at its own 45-yard line. Quarterback Thad Busby drove the Seminoles inside the UNC 10-yard line before completing an eight-yard touchdown pass to Melvin Pearsall on third down.

In the second quarter, Carolina's lack of field position again proved costly. Backed inside its own 10-yard line, Carolina ran the option on third-and-13, but Jonathan Linton was stopped for a seven-yard loss.

Punting from deep in his end zone Brian Schmitz booted a 40-yarder, but FSU returned the ball to the Carolina 28. Three plays later, Busby tossed a touchdown pass to E.G. Green, who made a spectacular one-handed grab for a 14-0 lead.

Hoping to prevent another score before the break, Carolina was forced to punt once again late in the half. For the fifth time in the last three games, FSU blocked a Carolina punt and recovered at the 14-yard line. The Tar Heels held Florida State to a field goal, but went to the lockerroom trailing, 17-0.

After another field goal gave FSU a 20-0 lead, the Seminole defense took over. Constantly finding its way into the UNC backfield, Florida State's defense recorded nine sacks. The seventh sack knocked Davenport from the game with a season-ending broken ankle. Chris Keldorf came off the bench but found little success as he was sacked twice and intercepted twice.

Keldorf did, however, lead the Tar Heels on their lone scoring drive. Na Brown caught a 31-yard pass to put the ball in FSU territory at the 45-yard line. Following a 15-yard FSU pass interference call and a two-yard pass to Alge Crumpler, Josh McGee kicked a 46-yard field goal to make the score 20-3.

worked their way in position for a 18-yard field goal attempt that would give UNC a 10-point cushion.

But Clemson blocked Josh McGee's field goal try and took over with just under four minutes to play. However, Carolina's defense, which allowed a season-low 132 yards, forced the Tigers to punt after five plays.

Clemson's defense was equal to the task on Carolina's last possession, forcing a fourth-and-five from the Tar Heel 20-yard line. Clemson's DoMarco Fox zipped passed Carolina's lineman to block the punt and set the stage for a final scoring opportunity.

Streeter missed on his first two tosses and was nearly intercepted by Omar Brown. On third down, Streeter scrambled for three yards and the game came down to one final play. Streeter's final pass was deflected by Brown right into the arms of Bly.

The majority of Carolina's offense came via three passes of at least 40 yards from quarterback Chris Keldorf to L.C. Stevens. Trailing 7-0, Keldorf found Stevens on a 44-yard bomb to the Clemson 1-yard line. An illegal procedure penalty moved Carolina back five yards, but Keldorf connected with Na Brown on third down to tie the score.

On Carolina's final possession of first half, Stevens hauled in a season-best 67-yard reception and dragged Clemson player to the Tigers' 4-yard line. With just nine seconds remaining, McGee booted a 19-yard field goal to put the Tar Heels ahead 10-7.

In the second half, neither team was effective moving the ball. However, Clemson intercepted Keldorf in Tar Heel territory and was able to tie the game at 10 on a 23-yard field goal.

On the third play of the fourth quarter, Keldorf and Stevens once again hooked up on a 58-yard pass to the Clemson 5-yard line. Tailback Jonathan Linton then busted through the Clemson defense for a 17-10 lead.

Carolina allowed just 37 yards of passing offense as Clemson completed only seven of 21 attempts. Defensive end Greg Ellis had 14 tackles and two sacks, while linebackers Brian Simmons had 16 tackles and Kivuusama Mays had 14.

touchdown passes with 35. He tossed four touchdowns against the Blue Devils, including two scoring strikes to wide receiver Na Brown, who set the UNC record for most catches in a single season.

On Keldorf's third touchdown toss, he connected with Octavus Barnes on a 59-yard bomb. It was the 19th touchdown reception of Barnes' career, breaking the former Tar Heel record of 18 set by College Hall of Famer Art Weiner.

Tailback Jonathan Linton, who entered the game needing 195 yards to reach 1,000 yards for the season, busted through the Duke defense for 199 rushing yards and two touchdowns. It is the 24th 1,000-yard season for a Tar Heel tailback, an NCAA record.

After a scoreless first quarter, Duke got on the scoreboard first with an 87-yard drive. As quarterback David Green was being dragged down by Greg Ellis, Green flipped a lob pass that found Corey Thomas in the back of the end zone.

On Carolina's next possession, Duke blocked a punt and Brian Krenzel returned the ball two yards for a touchdown.

Carolina quickly regrouped and using a no huddle, shotgun offense drove down the field for two quick scores tying the game at 14. Keldorf connected with Brown for a 20-yard touchdown pass and on the next drive found Jason Peace on a 19-yarder.

The second touchdown was set up by the first of Dre' Bly's two interceptions. Bly, who tied the Carolina career record for interceptions with 16, picked off a pass in the second half, leading to a Josh McGee field goal.

Kivuusama Mays picked off his first pass of the season in the third quarter. Four plays later the Tar Heels went ahead 28-14.

On Duke's next possession, cornerback Robert Williams returned an interception 29 yards to the Duke 17-yard line. Behind the rushing combination of Linton and Mike Geter, Carolina took a convincing 35-14 lead.

However, the Tar Heels were not finished as safety Jomo Legins picked off a batted pass in the fourth quarter. On second-and-six from the Duke 48-yard line, Linton gained 44 yards up the middle and then carried two more times for the touchdown.

After Linton passed the 1,000-yard mark, Carolina pulled most of its starters. Backup quarterback Kevin Carty completed his only pass to Greg Harris for a 42-yard gain. On the next play freshman Domonique Williams carried around the right side for the final touchdown.

Carolina wrapped up its second back-to-back 10-win season.

head coach. Torbush, UNC's defensive coordinator the past 10 years, was elevated to head coach on December 8th after Mack Brown accepted the same position at the University of Texas.

Keldorf, playing in his first bowl game, was sensational. He completed 17 of 28 passes, including touchdown throws of 62 and 14 yards to wide receiver Octavus Barnes and four yards to fullback Jamie Carrick.

The Tar Heels dominated in all areas from the start of the contest. Carolina amassed 427 total yards and held the Hokies to just 185 yards. There were numerous individual stars for Carolina, including tailback Jonathan Linton (68 yards and one score rushing, six receptions for 81 yards), Barnes (three catches for 89 yards), tight end Alge Crumpler (five receptions for 77 yards), Na Brown (two catches for 39 yards), linebacker Brian Simmons (eight tackles, two for losses with one sack), defensive end Greg Ellis (two sacks, one causing a fumble he recovered for a touchdown) and Vonnice Holliday (eight tackles, three for losses).

Carolina scored on its first possession as Keldorf moved the Tar Heels into range with a 31-yard completion to Crumpler and a 27-yard pass to Linton. (Two days before the game, Linton was listed as questionable because he left practice with a sprained knee, but he finished with 147 all-purpose yards.) Josh McGee opened the scoring with a 29-yard field goal.

On the second play of the Tar Heels' next series, Keldorf hit Barnes with a 62-yard bomb down the left sideline for a 10-0 lead. Later in the first quarter, Carolina forced Virginia Tech to punt deep in Hokie territory. Quinton Savage blocked the punt and Dre' Bly scooped it up at the 6-yard line and scored for a 16-0 UNC advantage.

One minute and 10 seconds after Bly's touchdown, Ellis fell on a loose ball in the Tech end zone for another touchdown. Carolina scored 16 first-quarter points in the entire regular season, but scored 16 in the first quarter of the Gator Bowl and six more just seven seconds into the second quarter.

Linton added a 1-yard touchdown run early in the third quarter for a 28-0 lead. Linton's score was set up by a 28-yard pass by punter Brian Schmitz to Simmons on a fake punt from the Tech 40-yard line. It was Carolina's first faked punt in seven years.

Tech ended the shutout with a 40-yard field goal with 4:37 to play in the third.

The 42 points were the most in UNC postseason history and the three touchdown passes by Keldorf set a UNC bowl game record. Barnes concluded his career with 16 receptions and four touchdowns in four postseason games.

SERIES NOTES

- This is the fifth meeting between the Tar Heels and Panthers.
- Carolina has won the previous two meetings in Chapel Hill and the Panthers have won both games played in Pittsburgh.
- Carolina prevailed 45-29 in 1974 and 17-7 in 1979; Pittsburgh defeated the Tar Heels, 20-16, in 1978 and 7-6 in 1982.
- The 1982 game was played at Three Rivers Stadium in prime time on CBS. It was the network's first regular-season college football game in 19 years. Pittsburgh was preseason No. 1 in the nation and Carolina was No. 5. Dan Marino threw a 4-yard touchdown pass in the third quarter to give the Panthers a 7-3 lead. Marino was 15 of 28 for 125 yards and four interceptions. Kelvin Bryant led the Tar Heels with 58 yards rushing and five receptions for 22 yards.
- UNC's assistant head coach Donnie Thompson coached against the Tar Heels while at Pittsburgh in 1982. Thompson was an assistant at Pittsburgh from 1982-84.
- This is the fourth consecutive year Carolina has faced a Big East opponent. The Tar Heels split a pair of matchups with Syracuse in 1995-96, beat West Virginia in the Gator Bowl in Jan. 1997 and defeated Virginia Tech in the Gator Bowl following last season.
- The teams play in Pittsburgh in 2000.

SERIES NOTES

- Carolina has won eight consecutive games against the Deacons.
- UNC has won 63 games against Wake Forest. That is the Tar Heels' highest win total against another school.
- The Tar Heels have won four straight played in Groves Stadium (1990, 1992, 1994 and 1996).
- Over the last eight years, the Tar Heels are averaging 36.4 points vs. Wake Forest.
- Cornerback Steve Fisher scored his only collegiate touchdown in last year's 30-12 win over Wake Forest when he picked up a punt blocked by Jomo Legins and returned it nine yards for the score.
- Carolina's eight wins in a row are the most consecutive wins by UNC over Wake Forest since a 17-game streak from 1893-1923.

SERIES NOTES

- Florida State has won eight and tied one in the nine-game series.
- Last year's game was played before a Kenan Stadium record crowd of 62,000.
- The last two games and four of the last five have been played on network television or ESPN (ABC in 1996, ESPN in 1993, 1994 and 1997).
- Florida State is the only school Carolina has played nine or more times and not defeated.
- Starting quarterback Oscar Davenport and linebacker Keith Newman are from St. Petersburg and Tampa, respectively. Offensive tackle Bryan Jones is from Valparaiso, punter/holder Derrick DePriest is from Homestead and tight end Joey Walters is from Hollywood. Carolina signed two freshmen from Florida — offensive lineman Isaac Morford from Melrose and wide receiver Bosley Allen from Bradenton.
- Allen attended the same high school — Southeast — as FSU wide receiver Peter Warrick.

SERIES NOTES

- The teams have split the last six meetings.
- Carolina scored 48 points last year, its highest total against the Cavaliers since 1946 when the Charlie Justice-led Tar Heels won 49-14 in Charlottesville.
- Carolina is 22-18 against Virginia in Charlottesville, but has not won at Scott Stadium since a 17-14 triumph in 1981.
- Last year in Kenan Stadium, Carolina trailed Virginia 20-3 late in the first half but rallied to score 45 unanswered points. The comeback from 17 points down matched the largest in UNC football history.
- Cornerback Dre' Bly, a Chesapeake, Va., native, has returned interceptions for touchdowns against Virginia in each of the past two seasons. Bly scored on a 51-yard return in 1996. His 17-yard return last year tied the game at 20-20 early in the third quarter.
- Chesapeake, Va., native Deon Dyer scored his first college touchdown on a 31-yard run against Cavaliers last year.
- UNC-Virginia is the sixth-longest rivalry in college football.

SERIES NOTES

- Carolina has defeated Duke eight straight years and scored 24 or more points against the Blue Devils in each of those seasons.
- Last year, Carolina spotted the Blue Devils two early touchdowns and then scored 50 unanswered points.
- The eight-game win streak by UNC is the longest by either team since Carolina beat the Blue Devils nine times in a row from 1894 to 1929.
- The 50 points last year were the most by Carolina against Duke since the Tar Heels posted a 59-34 win in 1970. UNC also scored 50 in a shutout win in 1959.
- Carolina has won four in a row at Wallace Wade Stadium (1990, 1992, 1994, 1996). Three of the four wins were by three or fewer points. Carolina beat the Devils, 24-22 in 1990, 31-28 in 1992, 41-40 in 1994 and 27-10 in 1996.
- Oscar Davenport relieved an injured Chris Keldorf in the 1996 game and threw an 80-yard touchdown to L.C. Stevens.
- Dre' Bly picked off two passes in last year's win.

SERIES NOTES

- Carolina has won five consecutive games against the Wolfpack. The five-game streak is UNC's longest against the Pack since a seven-game run by the Tar Heels from 1979-85.
- From 1988-91, Carolina scored a total of 25 points against N.C. State. In the last six years, UNC has scored at least 20 points in each game and averaged 31.3 points per contest.
- Gametime is 1 p.m. at Ericsson Stadium in Charlotte, N.C. This is the first of two straight UNC-N.C. State games to be played in Charlotte. The game will be televised by ABC. Next year's game will be a Thursday night ESPN contest.
- Even though last year's game was played in Raleigh, N.C. State is the designated home team in 1998.
- This will be Carolina's first regular-season game played on a neutral site since the 1993 win over Southern California. Prior to the USC game, the last neutral site regular-season contest was Sept. 11, 1976, against Florida in Tampa, Fla.
- Carolina has played 17 football games in Charlotte. The most recent one was Nov. 7, 1942, a 43-14 win over Davidson.
- The Tar Heels have a 13-2-2 record in Charlotte. That includes a 10-1-2 record vs. Davidson, 1-0 vs. VPI, 1-0 vs. VMI, 1-0 vs. Wake Forest and 0-1 vs. Clemson.

Carolina's Football History

The University of North Carolina embarks on its 108th season of football competition in 1998. The Tar Heels do that with a history of gridiron greatness, including some of the top coaches in the game, a lineage of talented running backs and one of the most beautiful and historic stadia in college football.

Surprisingly, football is actually not the oldest varsity sport at UNC. Baseball is accorded that honor, having fielded its first varsity squad back in 1867. But while football started 21 years later in 1888, its history is replete with memories that have thrilled legions of Carolina fans as the decades have elapsed.

The first UNC team played but two games, losing both and being outscored 22-4. That inauspicious beginning belies the success of the program since then, but those football pioneers are nevertheless credited with starting football at Carolina.

In the fall of 1888, the sophomore class at UNC had formed a team and after vanquishing all the other classes at UNC, began to look around for stiffer opposition. The UNC team challenged the Wake Forest squad to a game which was scheduled during the State Fair in Raleigh on October 18, 1888. Wake won the game 6-4 in what came to be acknowledged as the first intercollegiate football game in the history of the state of North Carolina.

Later that same fall, Carolina challenged Trinity (now Duke) to a Thanksgiving Day contest in Raleigh that drew a crowd of 600 for a 16-0 Trinity triumph. One member of that 1888 UNC team was John Motley Morehead, who went on to great fame as the founder of Union Carbide and who endowed the Morehead Scholarship program and several buildings on the Carolina campus.

That first Carolina team's results may not have been what was expected, but the leaders of the '88 team did get the ball rolling. In Carolina's first 107 seasons of football competition, the Tar Heels have compiled a record of 584-407-54, a winning percentage of .585. Carolina has played in 22 bowl games in its history and won five Southern Conference championships and five Atlantic Coast Conference titles.

Twenty-seven Tar Heel players have been honored as first-team All-Americans on 33 occasions.

Carolina had 32 All-Southern Conference selections when it played in that league until 1952 and since joining the ACC in 1953, has had 160 first-team All-

ACC choices.

Just a few months after the loss to Trinity in 1888, UNC acquired the services of Hector Cowan, former great tackle and captain at Princeton, to help teach the UNC players the fundamentals of the game. Cowan arrived in February 1889 and drilled the Tar Heel troops on the existing athletic field, located on the current site of Bynum Hall.

The 1889 team played two games in the spring and two in the fall. On March 1, 1889, Carolina earned its first win in football as it routed Wake Forest 33-0 before a crowd of 500 in Raleigh. UNC went on to post a 2-2 record that year and earn a share of the state championship with Trinity and Wake Forest.

After a Carolina player suffered a broken collarbone that fall, the University faculty voted to discontinue the sport of football in January 1890 and Carolina did not compete at all the following fall. That is one of only three years since the start of football in 1888 in which the Tar Heels have not fielded a team; play was also suspended during World War I in 1917 and 1918.

The following year, students petitioned to have football restored at UNC and the ban was lifted with the help of Professors Horace Williams, F.P. Venable and Eban Alexander. At this time, athletic control passed from the hands of students to the faculty, a situation that still exists today.

Football returned to UNC that fall with W.P. Graves as coach and UNC compiling an 0-2 record.

The following year, 1892, is considered by most to be the first year of real football at UNC with a representative six-game schedule being played. That squad also earned the distinction of being UNC's first good team. Mike Hoke acted as team captain and the entire squad consisted of just 15 players, with UNC using only one substitute the entire season. The team opened the year with a 40-0 rout of Richmond and after a loss to Virginia in the next game, it went on to win its last four. Carolina's 5-1 mark was the best record in the South that year. That season also marked the first year in which University teams were referred to as "Carolina," with the appellations "University" and "Chapel Hill" being dropped from the popular vernacular.

A meeting in February 1893 signaled the start of the formation of what would become the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association in later years. Ten schools, including UNC, were involved in the meeting and Dr. Venable was voted temporary chairman of the group. Later that same year, on May 12, the UNC athletic association approved the awarding of varsity letters for the first time.

Although the 1893 team managed only a 3-4 record, it did have the distinction of being the first Southern team to play in New York City as Carolina lost a 34-0 decision to Lehigh on Johnny Bronch's 96-yard punt return for a touchdown against Moryland in 1930 is the longest in UNC history.

1888

Carolina's sophomore class loses to Wake Forest at the State Fair in Raleigh, 6-4, in the state's first intercollegiate football game.

1892

Carolina plays its first real season with a six-game schedule. The 5-1 record includes a 64-0 win over Auburn on Nov. 23, a 24-0 victory at Vanderbilt the next day and a 26-0 triumph over Virginia back in Atlanta on Nov. 26.

1893

In February the Southern Intercollegiate Athletics Association is formed. Monogram sweaters are made available "for purchase" by UNC team members for the first time. Carolina becomes the first southern school to play in New York, losing to Lehigh, 34-0.

1895

In a 6-0 win over Georgia, Carolina throws the first forward pass in history. It was an illegal play at the time, but not caught by game officials. However, John Heisman, who was watching the game, immediately saw the possibilities the play had and recorded it in his writings.

1916

Emerson Field is ready for use and the Tar Heels finish 5-4.

1917-18

The two seasons are cancelled due to the Great War in Europe.

Carolina plays Virginia in Chapel Hill for the first time and a state record crowd of 9,000 people somehow jam into and around Emerson Field.

Bob (left) and Bill Fetzer come to Chapel Hill and are awarded long-term contracts to serve as co-head coaches. Unofficially, Red Johnston has 353 all-purpose yards in a 20-7 win over VMI.

November 25, 1893. A year later, Carolina brought in Vernon K. Irvine from Princeton as coach and he led Carolina to a 6-3 mark, attesting to the fact that experienced coaching benefited the team's performance. That UNC team finished second in the South and won the state championship. It was also the first to be forced to stage closed practices because of problems with crowd control at open sessions.

In 1895, T.C. "Doggie" Trenchard came from Princeton to coach the Tar Heels and he led UNC to an outstanding 7-1-1 season marred only by a loss to Virginia. A crowd of 12,000 was on hand for the meeting between the Tar Heels and the Cavaliers in Richmond, which UVA won 6-0. Twice during the game spectators ran onto the field to block the path of Tar Heel runners who had broken into the clear on apparent touchdown runs.

Carolina began to gain some consistency in the sport of football with the arrival of Will A. Reynolds of Princeton as head coach in 1897. Reynolds produced four winning Carolina teams in his four-year tenure at Chapel Hill. His first squad finished at 7-3 and was followed in 1898 by what is still the only unbeaten, untied team in school history. That 1898 squad was a perfect 9-0 and outscored its opponents by an amazing 201-8. The team finished the season by beating Virginia for the first time in six years, 6-2, in Richmond.

Reynolds' final two teams also posted respectable records, going 7-3-1 in 1899 and 4-1-3 in 1900.

Reynolds yielded the coaching reins after the 1900 season to Charles Jenkins, who led UNC to seven straight wins prior to a pair of season-ending losses in Carl Snively is hoisted on the shoulders of his players following Carolina's 34-7 win over Texas in the 1948 season opener.

1901. Carolina beat all of its state opponents to win its seventh state championship since 1892. In 1901, letters began to be awarded by an advisory committee of the athletic association. Previously, anyone who played had lettered.

The next 11 seasons saw Carolina with nine different head coaches. The 1905 Carolina squad was coached by William Warner, the brother of the famed "Pop" Warner.

Trenchard returned as Carolina's coach in 1913 for a three-year run. His 1914 squad was outstanding. Sixty men reported for the team and UNC went on to win its first 10 before losing to Virginia 20-3 before a record crowd of 15,000 in Richmond. That UNC team outscored its opponents 359-42 and became the first team in the South to display players' numbers on their jerseys.

Trenchard's 1915 squad did not fare as well, finishing the campaign with a 4-3-1 mark. Seven regulars missed the VMI game and the reserves struggled, fumbling 16 times en route to a 3-3 tie. That same year, Trenchard started the first athletic training table at UNC in his home, feeding the 56 squad members on a daily basis.

The year 1916 found the Tar Heels in a new home as Carolina began to play its games at Emerson Stadium, the site of the current Davis Library. Freshmen were banned from varsity participation for the first time and the team went 5-4 and won its sixth successive state championship.

All of the members of the 1916 squad had entered the military service in World War I by the following fall and varsity football was dropped for the second time in UNC history, this time for a two-year hiatus.

Carolina made its full-fledged return to the gridiron in 1919, going 4-3-1 under Coach Thomas J. Coleman. Carolina twice broke its single game home attendance record that year as it won the state championship. The Tar Heels defeated N.C. State, 13-12, before a crowd of 7,500 and then topped that with 9,000 for a 6-0 win over Virginia. That game marked the first time the Cavaliers had ever played in Chapel Hill.

The 1920 campaign was a dismal one as UNC went 2-6 and scored only 16 points in eight games. But a more positive era in North Carolina football began a year later with the hiring of Bill and Bob Fetzter as co-head coaches. Their hiring also marked a change in athletic policy at UNC as the Fetzters were assured of long-term positions instead of the usual one-year contracts. Carolina went 5-2-2 under the Fetzters in 1921 and 10,000 filled Emerson Field for Carolina's 7-3 win over Virginia.

That year also marked the first for UNC's participation in the Southern Intercollegiate Conference, the official name for what has come to be known today simply as the Southern Conference. At a February 25, 1921 meeting in Atlanta, the SIC was formed with a 16-school membership. The conference agreed to bans on post-season play, freshman eligibility and athletic training tables, required eligibility forms for players and disallowed organized practice before September 10.

Carolina would go on to have great success in the Southern Conference, tying for the league crown in 1922 and winning it outright in 1934, 1937, 1946 and 1949.

The Fetzters' greatest team was probably the 1922 edition which posted an impressive 9-1 mark, won the South Atlantic championship and tied for the Southern Conference crown. That team lost only to Yale, 18-0, and had three touchdowns called back by penalties in the game. The squad was ranked 11th in the nation by I.B. Thomas in the January 1923 issue of Intercollegiate Athletics and played before a record 68,500 fans during the course of the campaign.

The 1923 team was ravaged by injuries but limped to a 5-3-1 record nevertheless and a state

Carolina posts its only undefeated season in history, going 9-0 and outscoring its opponents, 201-8.

1899

The Athletic Association votes to sever all its athletic relations with the University of Virginia because of continued disagreements and problems with the Thanksgiving game in Richmond where crowds often rush the field to impede UNC players.

1901

Tar Heels go 4-3-1 and restore relations with Virginia.

1905

William Warner, brother of Pop Warner, takes the coaching job and leads Carolina to a 4-3-1 record.

1914

Carolina scores a record 359 points in a 10-1 season. The only loss is a 20-3 setback to Virginia in which players wear numbers, the first time this has occurred in the South.

1922

The Southern Intercollegiate Conference is formed with 16 schools as members. Carolina goes 9-1, losing only to Yale, to tie for the first league title.

1924

Rameses (right), an idea of cheerleader Vic Huggins, becomes the Tar Heel mascot. A ram is shipped in from Texas and arrives just prior to the VMI game. Late in a scoreless game Bunn Hackney is called on for a field goal. He pats Rameses on the head for good luck and splits the uprights for a 3-0 upset.

1926

Chuck Collins, one of Notre Dame's "Seven Mules" for the "Four Horsemen," begins an eight-year coaching tenure. Koy Kyser and his famed Cheerios take cheerleading to a new level. Plans also begin for the construction of Kenon Stadium.

championship for a second straight year. A year later, the Tar Heels were only 4-5 but they did play before their largest crowd to that date, 25,000 at New Haven's Yale Bowl in a 27-0 loss to the Bulldogs.

The 1925 season would prove to be the Fetters' last as co-coaches. The Tar Heels responded with an excellent season, going 7-1-1 and winning the state championship. The only loss came at the hands of Wake Forest. A crowd of 16,000 jammed Emerson Field (capacity 2,400) to see the Heels and Virginia play to a 3-3 tie in the season finale.

The following year began a new era in Carolina football as Chuck Collins came on the scene as head coach. He had the longest tenure (eight years) of the early Carolina coaches. Collins, who was one of the seven mules in the offensive line for Notre Dame's famed Four Horsemen, served as Carolina's coach from 1926 through 1933.

The 1926 season also brought onto the scene the infamous Kay Kyser, later to be a renowned Big Band leader and radio and motion pictures personality, as head cheerleader and his Cheerios as the first major organized cheer block at Carolina.

New stadium plans were also in the works in 1926. Carolina alumni in Durham and Chapel Hill met on May 24, 1926 to form the Durham Stadium Committee. On November 13 of that same year, William Rand Kenan, a New York City engineer and 1893 UNC football letterman, gave the University a gift of $275,000 to help build the stadium.

The first game was played in Kenan Stadium on November 12, 1927 with UNC beating Davidson 27-0 before a crowd of 9,000 fans. The following Saturday, UNC beat two-touchdown favorite Duke 18-0 in Durham. The stadium was officially dedicated on Thanksgiving Day 1927 with 28,000 attending as Carolina edged Virginia 14-13. John Sprunt Hill officially made the presentation of the stadium to Governor A.W. McLean who accepted on behalf of the University and state.

Carolina won its first state championship since 1925 during the 1928 season. Its 5-3-2 record that year included a 65-0 win over Wake Forest in the season opener. That still stands as the largest margin of victory in UNC history. President Calvin Coolidge attended the Carolina-Virginia game in Charlottesville that year and saw the Tar Heels pull out a 24-20 win. It was the first time a U.S. President had ever attended a game in the South.

Collins' first great team was the 1929 edition which went 9-1 and outscored its opponents 346-

60. The only loss of the year came to Georgia and only Southern California scored more points during the course of the season. Ray Farris was the captain of that UNC team and was a unanimous All-Southern Conference choice at guard. Carolina was called the "Team of a Million Backs" and drew a record attendance of 139,500.

The 1931 team coached by Collins went 4-3-3 and won the state championship. The Carolina-Duke game went big time for the first time that year as a crowd of 20,000 in Durham watched the two teams play to their second straight scoreless tie. Johnny Branch, a great all-purpose runner, was the star of that squad.

The quiet Dutchman, Carl Snively, came to Chapel Hill in 1934 from Bucknell to take over the coaching reins of the Tar Heels. It would be the first of two tours of duty for Snively as head coach. The 1934 team went 7-1-1 and was led by George Barclay, UNC's first All-America in football, at guard. Carolina lost only to Tennessee and it tied N.C. State that season. The Carolina-Duke game drew state and Kenan record crowds as the Tar Heels eked out a 7-0 victory.

The 1935 team also proved to be a great one as Snively led his squad to an 8-1 record. Carolina won its first seven of the season and there was talk that the Tar Heels were headed to the Rose Bowl. But arch-rival Duke made sure that didn't happen on Saturday, November 16 in Durham as the Blue Devils played an errorless game, winning 25-0. That game drew a new Southern attendance record of 47,000 and in total 149,500 saw UNC play during the course of the year, another record. After losing to Duke, UNC came back to pummel Virginia 61-0 and ended up eighth in the final Associated Press rankings. Ace passer Don Jackson was named a second-team All-America.

Ray Wolf came to Carolina in 1936 to coach after Snively had gone on to Cornell. Wolf had six successful seasons at UNC, producing winning teams the first five. The 1936 team went 8-2 and lost only to Tulane and Duke. That squad was led by end Andy Bershak, who was a second-team All-America in 1936 and a first teamer a year later. Wolf's teams continued their success, going 7-1-1, 6-2-1, 8-1-1 and 6-4 in subsequent years. Some of Wolf's outstanding players were Jim Lalanne, Paul Severin and George Stirnweiss.

The World War II years were an unsettled time in Carolina athletic history. From 1942 through 1944, UNC had three different head coaches who put makeshift teams through the paces against adjusted schedules which included some military teams. Jim Tatum, an outstanding player at Carolina in the 1930s, coached the 1942 unit. He would return for another coaching tenure later.

Carl Snively's first team is 7-1-1 and the Tar Heels have their first first-team All-America in guard/linebacker George Barclay. A state-record crowd of 30,000 sees a 7-0 win over Duke. Don Jackson throws to Dick Buck for the game's only score.

Snively returned to Chapel Hill in 1945 and during the next five years produced some of the best teams in Carolina football history. His 1948 team finished third in the AP poll, the highest final ranking ever for the Tar Heels.

An Omaha, Neb. native, Snively was a 1915 alumnus of Lebanon Valley College. He had coached Carolina teams in 1934 and 1935 to a 15-2-1 record and returned in 1945 after nine years at Cornell. In fact, at Cornell in 1940, Snively was involved in an infamous contest which would be recounted repeatedly some 50 years after the fact. Snively was the coach who, upon learning it had taken a fifth down for his Big Red to defeat Dartmouth, wired the opposing coach Red Blaik and relinquished the victory.

His 1945 team did well, finishing 5-5 after winning only one game the previous season. Then the incomparable Charlie Justice arrived a year later, and with his compatriots, UNC went to three major bowl games and won two Southern Conference titles in the period from 1946-49.

Snively's 1946 team was 8-2-1, won the Southern Conference championship and lost to Georgia, 20-10, in the Sugar Bowl. The 1947 team was probably the best of the four. It finished 8-2, winning its last seven, but went uninvited in the post-season. The 1948 unit had only a regular-season tie with William & Mary to mar its record. It went on to lose to Oklahoma in the Sugar Bowl. Finally, the 1949 team was unbeaten in the conference and finished 7-4 overall, losing to Rice in the Cotton Bowl.

Justice was not the only star of those Snively teams. Art Weiner and Ken Powell were tremendous ends on those teams and Hosea Rodgers was a great rugged fullback of the era.

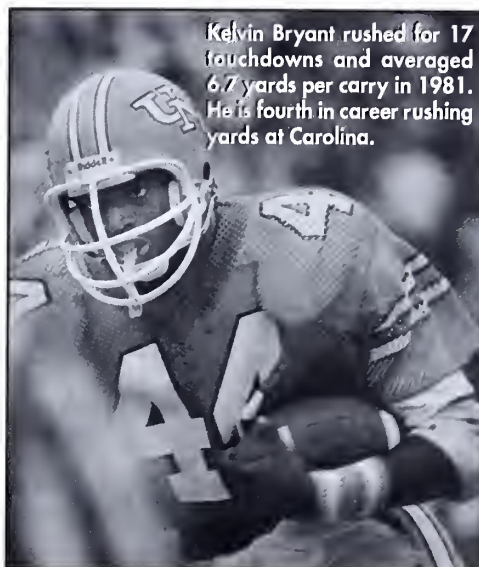

But Justice was the main attraction unquestionably. He ran and passed for over 4,000 yards in his four-year career and he averaged over 42 yards a punt. He had only two punts blocked in his career and both of those were in the first game of his freshman year. When he was done after the 1949 season, Justice had established NCAA records in total offense and punting and was considered the greatest punter of all time.

As a triple-threat All-America halfback, Justice captured the imagination and fancy of the football fan as no one else ever had. He was idolized and the attention he received from the fans and the media was almost unheard of in that time.

A native of Asheville, he had served in the Navy in World War II and was already 26 years old by the time of his senior year in 1949. He capped his amazing career by being named the Most Valuable Player in the 1950 College All-Star Game in Chicago.

The departure of Justice from campus coincided with a 20-year drought in UNC's football fortunes. Snively, despite all his earlier successes, could not produce a winning team after the Justice era. George Barclay, Carolina's first All-America player back in 1934, was brought in as head coach, but he encountered little success in his three years of running the program. That's when Carolina successfully lured Jim Tatum back to the fold. Tatum was a great UNC player in the 1930s and had coached the Tar Heels during World War II in 1942. He had since been at Maryland where he led the Terrapins to the national championship in 1953.

Kelvin Bryant rushed for 17 touchdowns and averaged 6.7 yards per carry in 1981. He is fourth in career rushing yards at Carolina.

Tatum's first season back in Chapel Hill, in 1956, was rather undistinguished. The Tar Heels went 2-7-1 with victories over Virginia and Maryland. In 1957, in Tatum's first return trip to College Park where he had enjoyed so much success, the Carolina-Maryland game was marked by the appearance of Queen Elizabeth II. The queen and her entourage watched the Terrapins beat the Tar Heels 21-7. But that 1957 team finished 6-4 as did the 1958 team under Tatum's steady leadership.

It appeared Carolina had the corner turned when Tatum died suddenly in the summer of 1959 from Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever. He was replaced by assistant Jim Hickey whose teams did not meet with a great deal of success in his eight seasons as head coach. Hickey produced only one winning record, that in 1963 when the Tar Heels finished 9-2 and shared their first Atlantic Coast Conference title. That team went on to post the school's first win in a bowl game, a 35-0 decision over Air Force in the Gator Bowl. That 1963 squad was led by the running of Ken Willard, the passing of Junior Edge and Gary Black and the pass receiving of Bob Lacey. Linebacker Chris Hanburger was a stalwart on defense for the Tar Heels.

After Hickey resigned after a 2-8 season in 1966, UNC looked to Bill Dooley to revitalize its football fortunes. The choice proved to be a wise one. Dooley's teams won 69, lost 53 and tied two in his 11-year tenure. ACC championships were won under Dooley in 1971, 1972 and 1977. Bowl trips became a regular feature — six in all during the Dooley years.

After three rebuilding seasons, Dooley's first good team was in 1970. It finished 8-4 and went on to play Arizona State in the Peach Bowl. Tailback Don McCauley, who had gained 1,092 yards rushing in 1969, returned for a 1,720-yard season in 1970. He was the first of UNC's 23 1,000-yard rushers. The Garden City, N.Y. native's 1,720 yards in 1970 broke what was then O.J. Simpson's single-season NCAA rushing standard.

Dooley's teams won back-to-back ACC titles in 1971 and 1972. The '71 team lost to Georgia 7-3 in the Gator Bowl in a matchup of coaching brothers, Vince Dooley being the head mentor of Jim Tatum dies prior to the season after contracting Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever. Jim Hickey, an assistant, is elevated to the head job. A 5-5 season is capped by a 50-0 rout of Duke, the biggest margin of victory in the long rivalry.

Sparked by the running of Ken Willard, the all-around play of quarterback Junior Edge (right) and the receiving of All-America end Bob Lacey, Carolina ties for the ACC title and earns a berth in the Gator Bowl. Willard has a big day there as the Tar Heels flatten the Air Force, 35-0, for a 9-2 record.

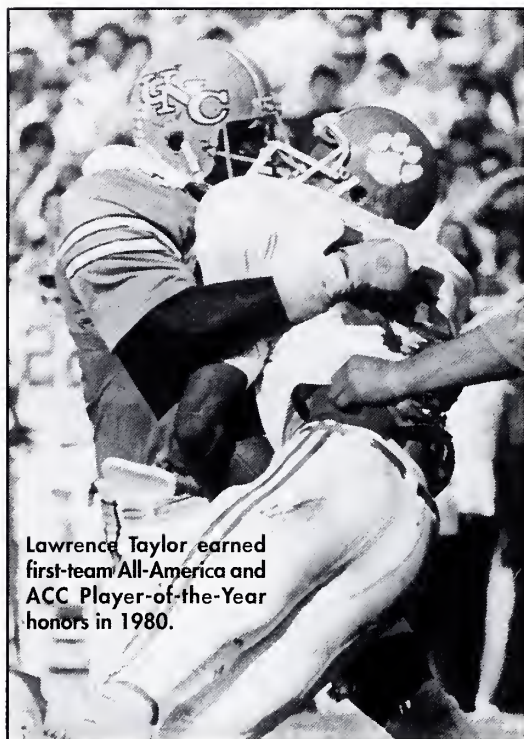

the Bulldogs. The 1972 team had an 11-1 record marred only by a loss at Ohio State. It won a thrilling 32-28 decision from Texas Tech in the Sun Bowl.

The mid-1970s brought more success as UNC made bowl appearances in 1974 (Sun), 1976 (Peach) and 1977 (Liberty). Sammy Johnson was a 1,000-yard rusher for Carolina in 1973, as was James Betterson in 1974. But the outstanding offensive player of this era was Mike Voight who gained over 1,000 yards in 1974, 1975 and 1976, including 1,407 yards in '76. Voight was named the ACC Player of the Year in both 1975 and '76 for his efforts.

The 1977 team would prove to be Dooley's last at UNC. It won the ACC title and earned a berth opposite Nebraska in the Liberty Bowl. A rugged defense led by All-America tackle Dee Hardison helped Carolina lead the nation in scoring defense that season. UNC allowed only 81 points in 11 regular-season games. The new offensive star was a freshman tailback named Amos Lawrence, who rushed for 1,211 yards and was named ACC Rookie of the Year.

Dooley resigned in January 1978 to accept the dual role of head football coach and athletic director at Virginia Tech. At that time, Carolina turned to the "Cradle of Coaches" at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, to find its new head coach, Dick Crum.

Crum had just completed an outstanding four-year run at Miami. His 10 years as head coach at UNC were equally brilliant. The winningest coach in Tar Heel history, he compiled a 72-41-3 ledger at the UNC helm. He took six of his 10 UNC teams to bowl games, winning on four occasions, and the 1980 squad won the ACC championship.

After a 5-6 record in 1978, Crum's teams from 1979 through 1983 went to five successive bowls and won 45 games. UNC posted four consecutive bowl wins over national football powers, beating Michigan in the 1979 Gator Bowl, Texas in the 1980 Bluebonnet Bowl, Arkansas in the 1981 Gator Bowl and Texas again in the 1982 Sun Bowl.

In 1980 and 1981, UNC became the first team in league history to finish in the Top 10 of both wire service polls in successive years. The 1980 team was 11-1 and ranked ninth by United Press International and 10th by Associated Press. The 1981 unit was 10-2 and rated eighth by UPI and ninth by AP. Two more Carolina teams coached by Crum would later go to Bowl games, the 1983 team to the Peach Bowl to face Florida State and the 1986 corps to the Aloha Bowl for a meeting with Arizona.

There was a plethora of outstanding players at Carolina during the Crum era and the Tar Heel football record book was being constantly updated. In 1980, linebacker Lawrence Taylor was named the ACC Player of the Year and he went on to All-Pro status with the New York Giants. That season, Taylor led what was one of the greatest defenses in ACC history. Other great defensive players at UNC included linebacker Buddy Curry, defensive tackle Donnell Thompson, linebacker Darrell Nicholson, defensive back Steve Streater, defensive tackle William Fuller and outside linebacker Mike Wilcher. All of those players were All-ACC selections and several went on to have distinguished pro careers. Fuller made four first-team All-America squads in 1983.

Although Crum's teams were known for their rugged defense, Carolina also excelled offensively, leading the ACC in total offense four times in the 1980s and ranking sixth nationally in 1986.

There were several reasons behind the offensive fireworks. First, there was a succession of outstanding running backs. Five different players gained 1,000 or more yards rushing in a season a total of 10 times under Crum's tutelage. After his brilliant freshman year, Lawrence went on to gain 1,000 yards three more times. He and Pittsburgh's Tony Dorsett are the only two runners in college football history to gain 1,000 yards rushing in each of their four seasons. Kelvin Bryant overcame an injury-marred career to gain 1,000 yards on three occasions. Ethan Horton turned the trick twice in his career and both Tyrone Anthony and Derrick Fenner had one 1,000-yard rushing season each.

A second reason behind UNC's offensive success was the presence of some outstanding offensive linemen in the '80s, four of whom gained first-team All-America status - guard Ron Wooten in 1980, guard David Drechsler in 1981 and '82, tackle Brian Blados in 1983 and tackle Harris Barton in 1986.

Carolina's offense also became more diversified in the Crum era and the passing section of the Carolina record book was basically rewritten at that time by a string of accomplished starters at quarterback - Matt Kupec, Rod Elkins, Scott Stankavage, Kevin Anthony and Mark Maye.

At the conclusion of the 1987 season, Crum resigned to return home to his native Ohio and was replaced by Tulane head coach Mack Brown, whose first two teams struggled to 1-10 records. Center Jeff Garnica was a third-team All-America and the Jacobs Blocking Trophy recipient in 1988 as the best offensive lineman in the ACC. Offensive guard Pat Crowley became only the second offensive lineman in ACC history to be named All-ACC in three successive years when he accomplished that feat in 1989.

Danny Talbott is named ACC Player of the Year as he leads the league in total offense and scoring. He has 318 total yards, at the time a school record, in a 47-35 loss to Georgia.

1967

The Bill Dooley (left) coaching era starts at Carolina. He installs a ground-oriented attack and puts his best athlete, defensive back Gayle Bamar, at quarterback. The team struggles to a 2-8 record.

1968

Gayle Bomar sets the ACC record for total offense in a game with 416 yards, but Wake Forest quarterback Freddie Summers has 342 in a wild 48-31 Deacon victory at Winston-Salem.

1969

Dan McCauley (left) becomes the first of Carolina's record 24 1,000-yard rushers with 1,092 yards. McCauley sets a school record with 188 yards against Wake Forest and then goes over 1,000 in the season finale with 138 at Duke.

1978

Bill Dooley takes the head coaching job at VPI and is replaced by Dick Crum. Carolina struggles early and finishes 5-6. The highlight of the year is an amazing two touchdown rally in the final four minutes for a 16-15 win over Duke.

1979

Carolina caps an 8-3-1 season with a 17-15 win over Michigan in the Gator Bowl. Amas Lawrence (left) runs for 118 yards and Matt Kupec throws for 161 to be the game's co-MVPs.

1980

Amas Lawrence joins Tony Dorsett as the only major college player with four 1,000-yard rushing seasons as he gains 1,015 yards. Kelvin Bryant gives Carolina a second 1,000-yard back and Lawrence Taylor (right) leads a dominating defense as UNC finishes 11-1.

The blocking of those two players was instrumental in tailback Kennard Martin leading the ACC in rushing in 1988 with 1,146 yards.

The Tar Heels turned things around in 1990, however, and put together a solid 6-4-1 record and even returned to the Top 25 at one point in the season. Inside linebacker Dwight Hollier led the ACC in tackles for the second consecutive season and rookie tailback Natrone Means capped a stellar second half of the season with a 256-yard, three-touchdown effort vs. Duke. Along the way, Carolina tied Georgia Tech 13-13; the stalemate proved to be the only blemish on the Yellow Jackets' otherwise-perfect national championship ledger.

In 1991, Means became the 11th Tar Heel to rush for more than 1,000 yards for an NCAA-record 20th time. Means ran for 1,030 yards and topped the 1,000-yard plateau on an electrifying, 68-yard scamper in the Tar Heels' 47-14 rout over Duke. Means, inside linebacker Tommy Thigpen and offensive guard Brian Bollinger each were first-team All-ACC selections.

1992 was another filled with great players, spectacular plays and electrifying memories. The Tar Heels won nine games, including a 21-17 win over Mississippi State in the Peach Bowl, and finished the season ranked in the Top 20 in both major polls.

Means rushed for 1,195 yards, the 21st 1,000-yard rushing season in Carolina history. He had a 249-yard day at Maryland and once again dramatically crashed the 1,000-yard club with a 76-yard touchdown scamper against the Terrapins.

The Tar Heels defeated Top 20 opposition on consecutive weekends in mid-season, the first time in the program's history the team accomplished that feat.

Carolina accepted a bid to play in the Peach Bowl and provided one of the year's most entertaining bowl games. Trailing by two touchdowns in the third quarter, UNC rallied for a 21-17 win. Means, a repeat first-team All-ACC selection, gained 128 yards and was named the game's Offensive MVP. Strong safety Bracey Walker tied the game when he blocked a punt, his second of the game, and returned it 41 yards for a score.

Jason Stanicek won a record-tying 24 games as a starting quarterback. He is the Tar Heels' all-time total offense and passing leader.

Walker, the game's Defensive MVP, set up the game-winning touchdown when he forced an interception with a jarring fourth-quarter hit. Cornerback Cliff Baskerville picked the loose ball out of the air and raced 44 yards for the winning touchdown.

The 1993 Tar Heels provided one of the most entertaining seasons in Carolina history. UNC won 10 games for the first time in a dozen years, finished second in the ACC, 19th in the Associated Press poll and played in a bowl game for a second consecutive season.

UNC set nearly 40 team and individual records, including most points, points per game and total offense. Walker was named first-team All-America by several organizations and was a first-team All-ACC selection along with tailback Curtis Johnson and offensive tackle Ethan Albright.

Johnson and red-shirt freshman tailback Leon Johnson each rushed for 1,000-plus yards. Curtis rushed for 1,034 yards and set a school record with a 90-yard score vs. Maryland; Leon was named the ACC Rookie of the Year as he rushed for 1,012 yards and led the conference with 16 touchdowns and 100 points.

Quarterback Jason Stanicek set UNC records for one season in total offense (2,284 yards), total yards per game (190.3), completion percentage (64.1) and pass efficiency rating (145.79).

Corey Holliday concluded his brilliant career as Carolina's all-time leading pass receiver. Twice selected a captain by his teammates, Holliday finished his four years with 155 receptions for 2,447 yards and caught a pass in an ACC-record 45 consecutive games. He had nine receptions, a UNC postseason record, versus Alabama in Carolina's 24-10 loss in the Outback Steakhouse Gator Bowl.

In 1994 Carolina went 8-4, losing to Texas, 35-31, in the Sun Bowl in an exhilarating contest. Stanicek concluded his career as the school's all-time total offense leader. Stanicek passed "Choo Choo" Justice's mark, which had stood since 1949, in the fifth game of the season and finished his standout career with 5,497 yards. Stanicek also set UNC career records for most pass completions (372), attempts (622), yards (4,683) and completion percentage (.598). He tied Matt Kupec's school mark for most wins by a starting quarterback with 24.

Marcus Wall set a Tar Heel record for most touchdown catches in a season with nine. He added a touchdown catch in the Sun Bowl, returned a kickoff for a score against Duke, returned a punt for a touchdown against Texas and had a rushing touchdown against N.C. State.

Carolina beat Duke 41-40 in one of the most exciting games in the storied history of that rivalry. The Blue Devils scored a pair of quick touchdowns in the fourth quarter to go ahead, 38-34, with less than 3:00 to play. Mike Thomas quickly connected with freshman Octavus Barnes on a short crossing route and Barnes raced past the entire secondary for a 71-yard game-winning score.

Barnes established an ACC record for receiving yards in a season by a freshman with 609. He had 165 yards on receptions, the third-highest single-game figure in Carolina history, in the regular-season finale at Duke and again in the Sun Bowl against Texas.

The 1995 Tar Heels rebounded from an 0-2 start to post a winning season for the sixth consecutive year and received an invitation to the Carquest Bowl in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Defensive tackle Marcus Jones was the ACC Defensive Player of the Year and became the first UNC player in nine years to be named consensus first-team All-America. Jones topped Lawrence Taylor's career UNC sack record as he concluded his four years with 24, three more than Taylor.

Don McCauley breaks O.J. Simpson's NCAA single-season rushing record with 1,720 yards. He leads the nation in all-purpose running and sets an ACC record with 21 touchdowns. Carolina loses to Arizona State in the Peach Bowl.

1974

For the first time in collegiate history, two players sharing the same position—tailbacks James Betterson (left) and Mike Voight—each rush for 1,000 yards in the same season.

1976

Mike Voight is the ACC's top player for the second straight year, leading the league in rushing (1,407 yards) and scoring (110 points). Voight has 261 yards and four TDs in a 39-38 victory over Duke.

1977

1981

Kelvin Bryant sets an NCAA record by scoring 15 touchdowns in his first three games. But a knee injury at Georgia Tech in the fourth game sidelines him until late in the year. He still gains 1,015 yards rushing as he finishes with 247 at Duke. The first-ever meeting of two ACC teams ranked in the Top 10 ends with Clemson beating UNC, 10-8, at Kenan Stadium.

1986

Offensive tackle Harris Barton grabs All-America honors. The Tar Heels win twice in the final minute, topping Georgia Tech, 21-20, on an 11-yard pass from Jonathan Hall to Eric Lewis and an extra point by Lee Gliarmis and then beating Maryland, 32-30, when Gliarmis boots a 32-yard field goal on the game's final play.

A 93-yard pass play from Mark Maye (right) to Randy Marriot, longest in school history, helps Carolina rally from a 17-point deficit to beat Georgia Tech, 30-23.

Mike Thomas set numerous single-season total offense and passing records, including most yards of total offense (2,489), most yards passing (2,436), most pass attempts (332) and most completions (185). He threw for more than 200 yards in each of the first six games and concluded his career with a school-record nine 200-yard outings.

Tailback Leon Johnson and split end Octavus Barnes each surpassed the previous school record for pass receptions in a season. Johnson led the team in rushing with 963 yards and added 54 receptions. Barnes had 53 catches for 970 yards.

Johnson rushed for 195 yards and a touchdown in the 20-10 win over Arkansas in the Carquest Bowl. That is the highest rushing total in Carolina postseason history. Barnes established a UNC record with four 100-yard receiving games. He caught three touchdown passes and totaled 211 yards receiving, the second-highest figure in school history, in a 62-0 rout of Ohio.

Marcus Jones was named first-team All-America by the Associated Press, the American Football Coaches Association, the Walter Camp Foundation and United Press International.

1996 was one of the finest in Carolina history. The Tar Heels went 10-2, won the Gator Bowl and finished 10th in both national polls. Brown was named the ACC Coach of the Year as he directed a new-look offense to record-setting heights.

Seven Tar Heels earned first-team All-ACC honors led by quarterback Chris Keldorf, a junior college transfer, who set UNC single-season passing records for completions (201), yards (2,347) and touchdowns (23). A record four UNC receivers had 30 or more catches, including Na Brown (52) and L.C. Stevens (44).

Leon Johnson set alltime UNC records for scoring (306) and touchdowns (50) and established the alltime ACC mark with 5,828 all-purpose yards. He earned All-ACC honors as a kick returner.

The Tar Heel defense, led by National Defensive Coordinator of the Year Carl Torbush, led the country in scoring and was second with 225.6 total yards per game. Red-shirt freshman cornerback Dre' Bly led the country in interceptions with an ACC-record 11 and was a consensus first-team All-America. Bly was just the fifth freshman in history and the first freshman defensive player to be named an AP All-America.

Defensive end Greg Ellis and outside linebacker Brian Simmons earned second-team All-America honors, as well. Cornerback Robert Williams, a second-team All-ACC pick, set a school record with 23 pass breakups.

The year began with a 45-0 win over Clemson and included a 52-20 rout over N.C. State, both the largest margins of victory for the Tar Heels in series history. Carolina went to Syracuse in the second week and beat the No. 9-ranked Orangemen, the first UNC win on the road over a Top 10 team since 1966.

The Tar Heels tied for second in the ACC and played West Virginia in the Gator Bowl without Keldorf, who suffered a fracture dislocation of his left ankle in the last regular-season game. Sophomore Oscar Davenport came off the bench to win MVP honors as he completed 14 of 26 passes for 175 yards and he passed and ran for scores.

The 1997 season may go down as the most memorable in Carolina football history. The Tar Heels went 11-1, won the Gator Bowl for the second year in a row and finished fourth in the final coaches' poll and sixth in the final Associated Press poll. UNC lived up to lofty preseason predictions and spent the entire year in the Top 10. It marked the second time in school history Carolina had won 10 or more games in consecutive seasons.

The Tar Heels were once again led by a stifling defense. UNC allowed just 209.3 yards per game, the second-lowest figure in the NCAA and the lowest total by an ACC team since 1963. It was the fewest yards allowed by Carolina since 1948. The defense featured three first-round draft picks (defensive end Greg Ellis, defensive tackle Vonnie Holliday and linebacker Brian Simmons), a Butkus Award finalist (linebacker Kivuusama Mays) and three first-team All-Americans (Ellis, Simmons and Bly).

Bly became the first UNC football player in history to earn consensus first-team All-America honors in more than one season. He had five interceptions to lead a secondary that was third in the country in passing yards allowed.

Carolina was the only defense in the country to have finalists for the Lombardi (Ellis), Butkus (Mays) and Thorpe (Bly) Awards and was the only team to be ranked in the top five in the country in total, pass, run and scoring defense.

Offensively, the Tar Heels were led by quarterbacks Oscar Davenport and Keldorf, 1,000-yard tailback Jonathan Linton and an outstanding group of wide receivers. Davenport earned Team MVP honors by completing 62.8 percent of his passes and leading the Tar Heels to come-from-behind wins over Stanford, Virginia and Georgia Tech. Unfortunately, his season ended in the ninth week when he suffered a broken ankle in the loss to Florida State. That game featured the second-ranked Seminoles and fifth-ranked Tar Heels and was played in front of 62,000 fans, the largest crowd ever at Kenan Stadium. It was arguably the biggest ACC football game ever played.

Keldorf returned as the reigning All-ACC quarterback, then lost his starting job, and ultimately replaced an injured Davenport late in the season. He set a single-game UNC record at Texas Christian by throwing for 415 yards, set the school record for career passing touchdowns with 35 and finished his career with sensational performances in wins over Clemson, Duke and Virginia Tech. Keldorf engineered the Tar Heels' 17-10 win at Clemson, Carolina's first triumph in Death Valley since 1980. Keldorf wrapped his remarkable two-year career with an MVP performance in win over the Hokies in the Gator Bowl as threw for 290 yards and three touchdowns.

The 1997 season was the last for Mack Brown as head coach. He resigned on December 5th to become the head coach at Texas. Brown finished his 10-year career at Carolina with a 69-46-1 record. The 69 wins equal the second-most in UNC history.

Athletic director Dick Baddour promoted 10-year defensive coordinator Carl Torbush to head coach on December 8, 1997. Torbush directed the Tar Heels to a 42-3 win over Virginia Tech in the Gator Bowl.

Mack Brown replaces Dick Crum as head coach. His first two teams would suffer 1-10 seasons.

1991

Natrone Means (right) joins Carolina's record group of 1,000-yard backs when he gets 181 against Duke in the last game to finish with 1,030. The Tar Heels improve to 7-4.

21-17, in the Georgia Dome when Bracey Walker blocks two MSU punts in the second half.

Carolina rallies in the final minutes to beat Duke, 31-28, on a 20-yard pass from Mike Thomas to Bucky Brooks, earning a Peach Bowl berth opposite Mississippi State. The Tar Heels beat the Bulldogs, 21-17, in the Georgia Dome when Bracey Walker blocks two MSU punts in the second half.

1993

A 10-3 season is highlighted by tailbacks Curtis Johnson and Leon Johnson each gaining over 1,000 yards, Corey Holliday setting a school career record for pass receptions and defensive back Bracey Walker blocking four punts and winning All-America honors.

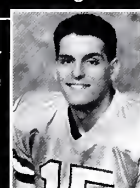

1994

Jason Stanicek (right) breaks Charlie Justice's career record for total offense at Carolina. An 8-4 season includes an offensive free-for-all at Duke with Carolina winning, 41-40, on a late 71-yard pass play from Mike Thomas to Octavus Barnes.

1996

Leon Johnson sets the ACC record for career all-purpose running with 5,828 yards and the school career scoring record with 306 points. The Tar Heels go 10-2 as Chris Keldorf (right) sets numerous school passing records.

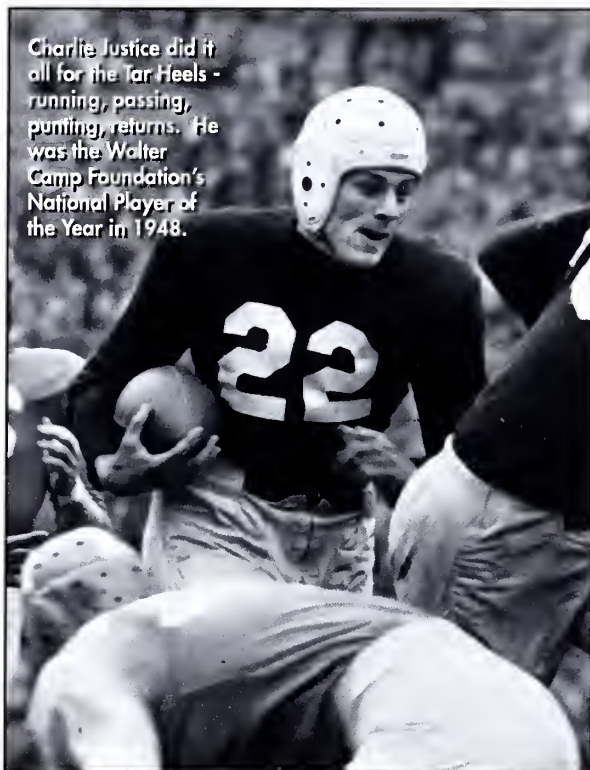

1997

A sensational defense, led by a trio of consensus All-Americans—cornerback Dre' Bly, linebacker Brian Simmons and end Greg Ellis—spark an 11-1 season. Na Brown sets a UNC record with 55 receptions.

Charlie Justice Profile

Charlie Justice did it all for the Tar Heels - running, passing, punting, returns. He was the Walter Camp Foundation's National Player of the Year in 1948.

Charlie Justice was more than just a great football player. He was a bonafide superstar...a hero...a legend in his own time. He had an impact on his home state as no other athlete had ever had before or few have had since.

During his four years in Chapel Hill, from 1946 to 1949, Justice helped guide the Tar Heels to three major bowls. For one week during the 1948 season Carolina was ranked as the nation's number one college football team. The Tar Heels ended that year rated third, the best finish in school history.

It is no wonder then he was held in great esteem by everyone in the state. Certainly, the time was right for a hero like Charlie Justice. The war had just ended and people wanted to turn their attention to more pleasant things. They wanted someone to help them forget the trauma they had just suffered. So they looked for heroes and they found Charlie Justice.

In his book, They Made the Bell Tower Chime, the late Bob Quincy summed up Charlie Justice's college career quite succinctly. An excerpt is repeated here:

The Justice era of 1946-49 was the most exciting in Carolina's football history. Charlie was the ringleader of a circus of thrills. He set the pace, but his backing was superb. Carl Snavely had so many football players he couldn't have named them all had he taken a memory course.

The Tar Heels operated from the single wing with the kind of variations that at times resembled the Harlem Globetrotters' pre-game ball-handling act. The four seasons netted 32 victories, seven losses and two deadlocks. Plus three major bowl appearances.

The 170-pound Justice was one of the nation's most sought-after players when he enrolled at Carolina. Some called him the hottest property in the history of football at that time. He had been a standout at Asheville's Lee Edwards High, leading the Maroons to two unbeaten seasons. He was All-Southern two years at Asheville, and as a member of the Shrine Bowl football team in 1942 he scored three touchdowns against South Carolina, a record that still stands.

The Navy became home for Charlie during the war years, and he became a phantom on a pro-studded Bainbridge Navy Squad. After two years of romping for Bainbridge against opponents across the country, he was a target for pro offers from the Philadelphia Eagles and Washington.

Charlie wanted an education, and scouts stayed in pursuit. He chose Chapel Hill after seriously considering South Carolina and Duke. An off-hand remark by Snavely—"I hope he comes out for football"—became a classic understatement.

In the Virginia game his freshman year he gained 170 yards in 17 carries with runs of 18, 40, and 56 yards. He had seen little practice because of a leg injury, but the Cavaliers were certain he carried a spare appendage.

Choo Choo (he acquired the name at Bainbridge when a gob remarked, "He runs along just like a choo choo train,") was excitement. He was all eagerness on the sidelines and all business when he moved into the tailback slot. He thrived on duty, and he was a master of the quick kick, a devastating rusher, a good passer, and a fake artist who could charm a cobra.

Jack Fitch, a thick-legged back who occasionally shared duty with Justice when not playing on the wing, sized up Charlie's style by noting, "Justice has the ability to be running at full speed, stop suddenly, and then be back at full speed almost instantly. He was never regarded as fast in terms of a track man. He had a change of pace that couldn't be matched, and he knew how to follow blockers as well as any back I've ever watched."

The Snavely system called for a spinning fullback, fakes and counter fakes, fullback pass plays and reverses. It was a dashing brand of football made more exciting by players' ability and maturity to accept Snavely's often complicated maneuvers.

A book, "Choo Choo", documents the career of Charlie Justice. He was a folk hero and deserved the special treatment. The great Benny Goodman and the late Johnny Long recorded the Campbell-Beebe song, "All The Way Choo Choo." It sold by the thousands.

Typical of Justice was the Georgia game of 1948. He scored three times against the Bulldogs in a 21-14 triumph, the climax being an 84-yard punt return. At mid-way point that season, the Tar Heels were ranked No. 1 in the nation.

Justice erased more records than a company of auditors during his four years at UNC. He scored 234 points and passed or ran for 64 touchdowns. As a ball carrier he accumulated 2,634 yards.

His total offense record of 4,883 yards lasted for 45 years until quarterback Jason Stanicek broke the mark in 1994. Justice, graciously, was on hand to congratulate Stanicek.

Justice seemed to peak when the traditional games were being played. He led the Tar Heels to four straight wins over Duke. He was an All-America mention as a freshman and made many of the major teams as a junior and as a senior. He was runnerup for the Heisman Trophy to Doak Walker of SMU in 1949.

Charlie's finest moment came in the College All-Star Game of 1950 at Chicago's Soldier Field. He was voted the MVP of the game for good reason. The All-Stars walloped the Philadelphia Eagles, led by Steve Van Buren, 17-7. Justice gained 133 yards individually, or 48 more than the Eagles posted as a team. He set up a touchdown on a 60-yard pass from Eddie LeBaron.

Bly is the only two-time consensus first-team All-America in Carolina history.

All selections are first-team choices, unless otherwise indicated.

First-Team All-Americans

GEORGE BARCLAY

□ Guard, 1934

Barclay was Carolina's first football All-America. The 5-11, 185-pound guard and linebacker was a three-year standout for Chuck Collins and Carl Snively. A fine blocker and an extraordinary tackler, Barclay lined up in the offensive interior next to tackle Jim Tatum. He was captain of the 1934 team which went 7-1-1. Barclay later served as head coach at Carolina for three seasons, from 1953 to 1955.

ANDY BERSHAK

A 185-pound end, Bershak was a two-way performer for the Tar Heels. He was a fine receiver, but was even better on defense. He played two years for Carl Snively and one for Ray Wolf. Bershak, an honor student, was also a basketball starter. He was selected to the Order of the Golden Fleece and served as president of the Carolina Athletic Association.

STEVE MARONIC

□ Tackle, 1938

Maronic was a two-way tackle for the Tar Heels and team co-captain in 1938. He was an "iron man" playing almost 60 minutes in every game that season. He turned in two of his best performances in front of the New York media against NYU at Yankee Stadium and Fordham at the Polo Grounds. Those games solidified his All-America chances. Maronic also was a place-kicker and hit 13 straight PATs in his final season.

PAUL SEVERIN

□ End, 1939-40

Severin was a two-time All-America selection by the Associated Press (1939 and 1940) and made most of the all-star teams in his senior season. His career was filled with big plays—a touchdown catch to tie Tulane in 1939, two scoring catches against Penn that same season and a touchdown-saving tackle from behind of Duke's great Steve Lach in a 6-3 win over the Blue Devils in 1940.

CHARLIE JUSTICE

Twice a runnerup for the Heisman Trophy, Charlie Justice is rated by many as the best all-around player in the history of Southern football. He was a true triple-threat performer, leading Carolina in rushing, passing and punting from 1946 to 1949. He sparked Tar Heel teams which appeared in the Sugar Bowl twice and the Cotton Bowl once. He was the school's alltime total offense leader with 4,883 yards for more than 40 years and also ranks as the Tar Heels' third-leading career scorer, eighth-leading rusher and 16th-leading passer. He had a career punting average of 42.6 and averaged 14.2 yards on punt returns and 26.6 yards on kickoff returns.

Justice is a member of the College Football Hall of Fame. In 1948 he received the national player of the year award from the Washington Touchdown Club and was recipient of the Walter Camp Memorial Trophy.

ART WEINER

A great all-around end, Weiner led the nation in receiving in 1949 with 52 catches. He had been seventh nationally in receiving the previous year with 31 catches. His 106 career catches are the sixth-most in school history and until 1997 he held the UNC career record with 18 touchdown receptions. However, many remember him best for a game-saving defensive play on the last snap of the 1949 Duke game. After his senior season Weiner was named the most outstanding lineman in the Senior Bowl. Weiner was inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame in 1992.

IRV HOLDASH

□ Center, 1950

While Carolina's football fortunes slipped in the years immediately following the Charlie Justice Era, Holdash still received national attention for his outstanding play. A center on offense and linebacker on defense, Holdash was a three-year regular who never missed a game during his varsity career. He probably made All-America in 1950 with a sensational performance in a 14-7 loss at Notre Dame. Irish quarterback Bobby Williams called him "the best I've played against."

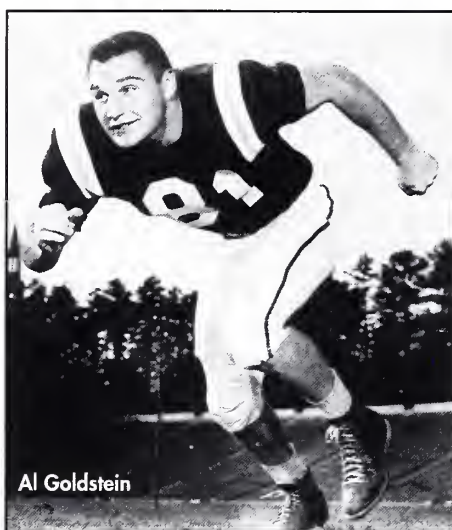

First-Team All-Americans

□ End, 1958

Goldstein was another outstanding two-way end at Carolina. He earned All-America honors in 1958 by making 24 catches for 490 yards, averaging an amazing 20.4 yards per reception. Adept at making the seemingly impossible catch, he had a 68-yard TD reception at Virginia. He also starred defensively and had a 46-yard interception return for a touchdown against Maryland.

BOB LACEY

□ End, 1963

Lacey led the Atlantic Coast Conference in receiving in 1963 with 48 catches for 533 yards. His pass-catching was a key factor as Carolina rolled to a 9-2 record, defeating the Air Force, 35-0, in the Gator Bowl. Lacey was also the team's top receiver in 1962 with 44 catches. He was the first Tar Heel player to have at least 40 catches in two seasons. His career total of 102 receptions is the seventh-best in school history.

DON MCCAULEY

Don McCauley shattered the Carolina and the Atlantic Coast Conference record books with a dazzling senior season in 1970. He rushed for 1,720 yards and scored 21 touchdowns, setting marks which still stand. His 1,720 yards was an alltime collegiate high at the time, breaking O.J. Simpson's NCAA record. McCauley led the nation in all-purpose running that season. He was twice the ACC Player of the Year and still ranks fifth in career rushing at Carolina. He had a lengthy professional career with the Baltimore Colts.

RON RUSNAK

□ Offensive Guard, 1972

Rusnak was a unanimous All-America selection in 1972 as Carolina posted an 11-1 record. At 6-2 and 220 pounds, he did not have the size to play professional football, but Rusnak was a great college player. He was a two-time All-Atlantic Coast Conference choice, starting on teams which combined for a 20-4 record. In 1972 he won the Jacobs Blocking Trophy as the best blocker in the ACC.

KEN HUFF

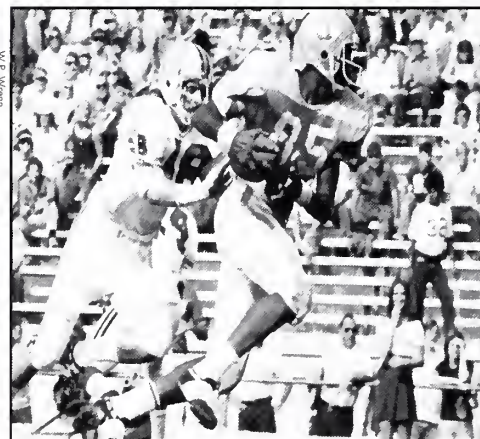

□ Offensive Guard, 1974

Huff was a key man on one of the most explosive units in Carolina history. He was the leader of an offensive line which helped the Tar Heels accumulate 4,691 yards in 1974, at the time a school record. The 6-4, 255-pound Huff won the Jacobs Blocking Trophy as the best blocker in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Sparked in great part by his play up front, the Tar Heels had two backs rush for over 1,000 yards in the same season. Huff was the third player selected in the NFL draft by the Baltimore Colts.

CHARLES WADDELL

Waddell rates as one of the best all-around athletes in Carolina history. He won three football letters, two in basketball and one in track. Not only was he a fine receiver at tight end, but he was also a dynamic blocker. He set a school single-game record in 1974 with three touchdown catches against Clemson. He had 41 career catches for 518 yards and seven TDs. His professional career was cut short by a knee injury.

DEE HARDISON

□ Defensive Tackle, 1977

A two-time All-Atlantic Coast Conference selection, Hardison played on one of the top defensive teams in Carolina history. UNC led the nation in scoring defense in 1977, giving up just 7.4 points a game. The Tar Heels led the ACC in total, rushing, passing and scoring defense. A big reason was the play of Hardison, a 6-3, 252-pound tackle who dominated the line of scrimmage all season. After leaving Carolina he began a lengthy NFL career with the Buffalo Bills.

RICKY BARDEN

□ Defensive Back, 1979

One of the top defensive backs in Carolina history, Barden was a repeat All-Atlantic Coast Conference selection in 1978 and 1979. Barden made nine career interceptions. He started at cornerback for two years and then was shifted to strong safety for his final year where he broke up nine passes and was the third-leading tackler on the team. His 156 yards on interception returns are the third-most in school history.

LAWRENCE TAYLOR

□ Outside Linebacker, 1980

From midway in his junior season until the end of his senior year in 1980, Taylor dominated the football field as few defensive players ever had. Now regarded as the finest outside linebacker in the history of the game, Taylor had a remarkable senior season which featured 16 quarterback sacks and six other tackles for losses. In Carolina's only close games in an 11-1 season, Taylor made the game-saving defensive plays against Texas Tech and Clemson. He was a runaway selection as Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year.

RON WOOTEN

Wooten won the Jacobs Blocking Trophy in 1980 as the best blocker in the Atlantic Coast Conference. He was the leading vote-getter in the offensive line on the All-ACC team. He was one of the leaders of an offensive line which helped the Tar Heels lead the ACC in total offense and which also helped produce two 1,000-yard backs. He went on to become a starting guard with New England in the NFL.

DAVID DRECHSLER

Drechsler became Carolina's first two-time All-America since Charlie Justice and Art Weiner when he earned first-team honors in 1981 and 1982. He played every position in the offensive interior during his Carolina career, but settled in at guard. The 6-4, 253-pound Drechsler played on Tar Heel teams which were 37-10-1 and were unbeaten in four bowl games. He also was the winner of a post-graduate scholarship from the NCAA. Drechsler went on to become a starter with the Green Bay Packers until a back injury forced him to give up the game.

WILLIAM FULLER

Fuller is one of just five Carolina players to win first-team All-America honors twice. Although powerfully built at 6-3 and 250 pounds, Fuller's greatest asset was his quickness. He used that quickness to make 13 tackles for losses and six sacks in 1982 and 17 tackles for losses with five sacks the following year. He was the only unanimous choice on the 1983 All-ACC team and is one of just three defensive linemen ever to make All-ACC for three straight years.

BRIAN BLADOS

□ Offensive Tackle, 1983

When two Carolina tailbacks ran for over 1,000 yards in 1983, much of that yardage came behind Blados. The 6-6, 305-pound left tackle dominated the line of scrimmage as Carolina set a school total offense record and finished seventh nationally in yardage. Blados was named on 90 of 100 ballots in voting for the All-Atlantic Coast Conference team. He was a first round choice by the Cincinnati Bengals in the NFL draft.

First-Team All-Americans

Offensive Tackle, 1986

Barton was a four-year starter for the Tar Heels, first at center and then at tackle. With so many teams playing even-man front defenses, Barton was moved to tackle in 1984 to take better advantage of his skills. He excelled at left tackle, the key blocking spot in the Carolina passing game. As a senior, he led an offensive line which helped the Tar Heels rank first in the Atlantic Coast Conference and sixth nationally in total offense. An excellent student, he was chosen for a post-graduate scholarship by the National Football Foundation and was a first-round selection in the NFL draft.

Pat Crowley

PAT CROWLEY

Offensive Guard, 1989

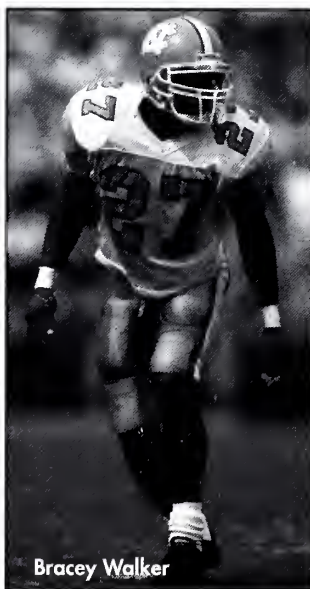

Crowley was a standout offensive guard and a leader of the first of Mack Brown's teams. He won first-team All-Atlantic Coast Conference honors in 1987, 1988 and 1989 and became only the second offensive lineman in conference history to win three all-league honors (Virginia's Jim Dombrowski was the other). He started every game in his college career and helped open the way for a pair of 1,000-yard backs (Derrick Fenner in 1986 and Kennard Martin in 1988). He is one of three Tar Heels to be named first-team All-ACC in three seasons.

BRACEY WALKER

Free Safety, 1993

The first Carolina defensive back to ever receive first-team All-America honors by a major organization, Walker burst onto the scene in 1992 when he was one of the stars of the Peach Bowl win over Mississippi State. Walker blocked two punts in that game, returned one of them for a tying touchdown and set up the game-winning interception with a jarring collision. He was the Defensive MVP of the Peach Bowl.

In 1993 he led the Tar Heels with 100 tackles and was the co-leading vote-getter on the All-ACC first team defense. He also blocked four more punts, two of which were recovered in the end zone by Carolina, and was named the National Special Teams Player of the Year by Sports Illustrated.

MARCUS JONES

Defensive Tackle, 1995

Jones became the first Tar Heel to earn consensus first-team All-America honors since Harris Barton in 1986 and the first defensive lineman since William Fuller in 1982-83. Jones had 25 career sacks and finished with 222 tackles. That included 46 behind the line of scrimmage. He broke Lawrence Taylor's school record for sacks and held that mark until Greg Ellis broke the record in 1997.

He was named the Atlantic Coast Conference Defensive Player of the Year in 1995 and earned first-team All-ACC honors for the second straight season. He became the first Tar Heel defender to repeat all-conference selections since Tim Goad in 1986-87.

As a senior he had a career-high 94 tackles, despite facing constant double- and triple-team efforts. He registered an ACC-leading 19 tackles for losses for 74 yards, seven of which were quarterback sacks. He was hampered in the first half of the season by a knee sprain. Over the last five weeks of the regular season, however, he averaged 10.8 tackles per game and had 16 tackles for losses for 65 yards, including six sacks for 41 yards, and pressured the quarterback 13 times.

Quite fittingly, Jones capped his career by sacking Arkansas quarterback Barry Lunney on the Razorbacks' final offensive play in Carolina's 20-10 win in the 1995 Carquest Bowl.

DRE' BLY

□ Cornerback, 1996-97

The first freshman to earn consensus first-team All-America honors in ACC history, Bly became just the fifth freshman in NCAA history to be named to the Associated Press All-America first team. He was also a first-team All-America selection by the Walter Camp Football Foundation, the Football Writers Association of America, The Sporting News and Athlon Sports and a finalist for the Jim Thorpe Award as the National Defensive Back of the Year. He earned Atlantic Coast Conference first-team honors and was the league's Rookie of the Year. He is the only Carolina freshman in history to earn first-team All-America honors.

He made two second-half interceptions, broke up two passes and had seven tackles against West Virginia in the Gator Bowl.

Bly led the nation in interceptions and interceptions per game. Just the fifth UNC player to ever lead the NCAA in a statistical category. He set an ACC single-season interceptions record with 11, one more than Bob Sullivan of Maryland had in 10 games in 1965. The Chesapeake, Va. native had three multi-interception games, including three against Georgia Tech, two at Florida State and two at Virginia. Bly had 141 yards in returns, including a 44-yard return against the Yellow Jackets to set up a touchdown and a 51-yard return for a touchdown at Virginia.

In 1997, Bly became the first player in UNC history to repeat consensus first-team All-America honors. He had five interceptions, including one he returned for a touchdown in a comeback win over Virginia.

GREG ELLIS

□ Defensive End, 1997

A defensive end from 1994-97, Ellis is the Tar Heels' career leader in quarterback sacks. The Wendell, N.C., native had 32.5 sacks for 253 yards in his career. He anchored a defense that was second in the country in total yards allowed in each of his final two seasons. Carolina posted a 21-3 record in that span and had consecutive Top 10 finishes in the polls. Ellis is one of only three players in Carolina football history to be named first-team All-ACC three times. He was voted by his teammates as a team captain and the best overall senior. He was the eighth selection in the first round of the 1998 NFL Draft by the Dallas Cowboys.

BRIAN SIMMONS

□ Outside Linebacker, 1997

An outside linebacker from 1994-97, Simmons was a major contributor in Carolina's rise to the Top 10 in his final two seasons. A first-round draft selection of the Cincinnati Bengals, Simmons had 317 tackles over his last three seasons. He was named first-team All-America as a senior by the Associated Press, Walter Camp Foundation and Football News and was a first-team All-ACC selection and second-team A.P. All-America as a junior. The New Bern, N.C., native finished his career with 36 tackles for losses and 11 sacks.

UNC's 1,000-Yard Tradition

It was a simple 7-yard run up the middle, but that fourth quarter dash against Duke last fall by tailback Jonathan Linton pushed him beyond 1,000 yards for the season and put him in an elite group of college football history makers.

Linton rushed for 199 yards in Carolina's 50-14 win over the Blue Devils and finished the 1997 regular season with 1,004 yards. He is the 14th Tar Heel running back to rush for 1,000 yards in a season. UNC players have accomplished the feat 24 times, an NCAA record. The University of Southern California is second with 20.

Those 24 1,000-yard seasons have been achieved in the last 29 years, beginning with Don McCauley, who had back-to-back 1,000-yard campaigns in 1969 and 1970. Linton was the fourth different Tar Heel back to gain 1,000 yards in the 1990s. Natrone Means had 1,030 yards as a sophomore in 1991 and 1,195 yards in leading UNC to nine wins in 1992. In '91, Means topped 1,000 yards on his final carry of the season, a 68-yard touchdown run versus Duke. He vaulted past 1,000 in similar fashion a year later as he reached the magical figure on a wild, 76-yard scoring scamper at Maryland.

Means entered the NFL Draft after his junior year, but Curtis Johnson and Leon Johnson responded with tandem 1,000-yard seasons in 1993. That was the fourth time in UNC history that not one, but two, players topped the 1,000-yard mark.

Carolina's 24 1,000-yard seasons are more than the next two ACC schools have combined. Virginia and N.C. State are tied for second in number of 1,000-yard seasons with nine apiece. Clemson is next with eight, Florida State has seven, Wake Forest has six, Georgia Tech has five and Maryland and Duke each have four.

in that era, the Tar Heels had two tailbacks get 1,000 yards in the same season. It has been rare in college football for a school to produce two 1,000-yard backs in one year. When it has happened it has generally been with option attacks—the veer or the wishbone. But, on all four occasions when Carolina has had a pair of 1,000-yard rushers, the players actually shared the same position—tailback in an I-formation.

Carolina and USC have each had two players rush for 1,000 yards three times—Mike Voight and Kelvin Bryant of the Tar Heels and the Trojans' Charles White and Anthony Davis.

In addition, Carolina's Amos Lawrence had an amazing four 1,000-yard seasons. He and Pittsburgh's Tony Dorsett are the only major college players ever to hit the 1,000-yard mark four times. Lawrence rushed for a career-high 1,211 yards in 1977 as he earned ACC Rookie-of-the-Year honors. Lawrence didn't even play in the first game that year and still managed to run for over 1,200 yards in just 10 games. He was eighth in the nation in rushing and became the first freshman to ever lead the ACC in a major offensive category.

Lawrence, from Norfolk, Va., added 1,043 yards in 1978, 1,019 yards in 1979 and 1,118 yards and a career-high 11 touchdowns in 1980.

McCauley rushed for 1,720

yards in 1970.

At that time it broke O.J. Simpson's alltime NCAA single-season yardage record. His 1970 season is one of the finest in ACC history. His 1,720 yards, 19 rushing touchdowns, 10 100-yard rushing games, 2,021 all-purpose yards and 126 points are still single-season ACC records. The first back to earn consensus All-America honors since Charlie Justice, McCauley capped his brilliant career with a memorable game against Duke as he rushed 47 times for 279 yards and five touchdowns in a 59-36 win over the Blue Devils. One local sportswriter wrote of McCauley's final Kenan Stadium effort, "McCauley's performance against Duke was the greatest one-man show since King Kong climbed the Empire State Building."

McCauley is one of only two Tar Heel 1,000-yard backs from outside the ACC's geographic area. He is a native of Garden City, N.Y. Linton, from Catasauqua, Pa., added to that short list in 1997.

Bryant, Tyrone Anthony, James Betterton, Ethan Horton, Sammy Johnson, Kennard Martin, Means, Curtis Johnson and Leon Johnson are all North Carolinians. Lawrence and Voight grew up in Virginia, and Derrick Fenner is from Maryland.

Many of Carolina's 1,000-yard rushers went on to successful careers in the professional ranks. McCauley played with the Baltimore Colts for 11 seasons and broke many of the club's rushing and scoring records set by Alan Ameche and Lenny Moore. Bryant was the USFL's Player of the Year in that league's first season. He joined the Washington Redskins in 1986.

Means led the Chargers to the Super Bowl in 1994 and was named to the Pro Bowl. He set the single-season rushing record for the Chargers in just his second season when he compiled 1,350 yards in 1994. Means was second in the AFC and fourth in the NFL in rushing yards and he set a Charger record with five consecutive 100-yard games. Means was the offensive spark which led Jacksonville to the AFC Championship Game in 1996 in the franchise's second year of existence.

Horton, Sammy Johnson and Leon Johnson were recruited as quarterbacks. All of the others were high school running backs, although McCauley was more highly regarded as a defensive back.

Fenner set the ACC rushing record in 1986 by gaining 328 yards against Virginia, although that mark was surpassed by Wake Forest's John Leach in 1993 against Maryland. Martin had 291 in 1988 against Duke. Lawrence had 286 against Virginia in 1977 and McCauley gained 279 against Duke in 1970. Then comes Voight's 261 against the Blue Devils in 1976. In 1990, Means rushed for 256 yards in the season finale vs. Duke.

The top two single-season efforts ever in the ACC are McCauley's 1,720 yards in 1970 and Voight's 1,407 in 1976. McCauley and Voight are the only Carolina players to be named ACC Player of the Year in two seasons. McCauley was the top ACC player in 1969 and 1970 and Voight earned that award in 1975 and 1976.

Ethan Horton is the only other UNC player to be named ACC Player of the Year in the same season he rushed for 1,000 yards.

Leon Johnson is the only player in Atlantic Coast Conference history to be in the top five in career all-purpose yards, top five in career touchdowns, top five in career scoring, top 10 in career rushing yards and top 10 in career receptions.

He is first in all-purpose yards in league history, second in touchdowns, fourth in scoring, eighth in rushing and tied for 10th in receptions. He scored 50 touchdowns in his career, just one shy of the alltime ACC record held by Ted Brown of N.C. State. He scored 306 points, one of just four players in league history to top the 300-point mark. He and Brown are the only two non-kickers to accomplish that feat.

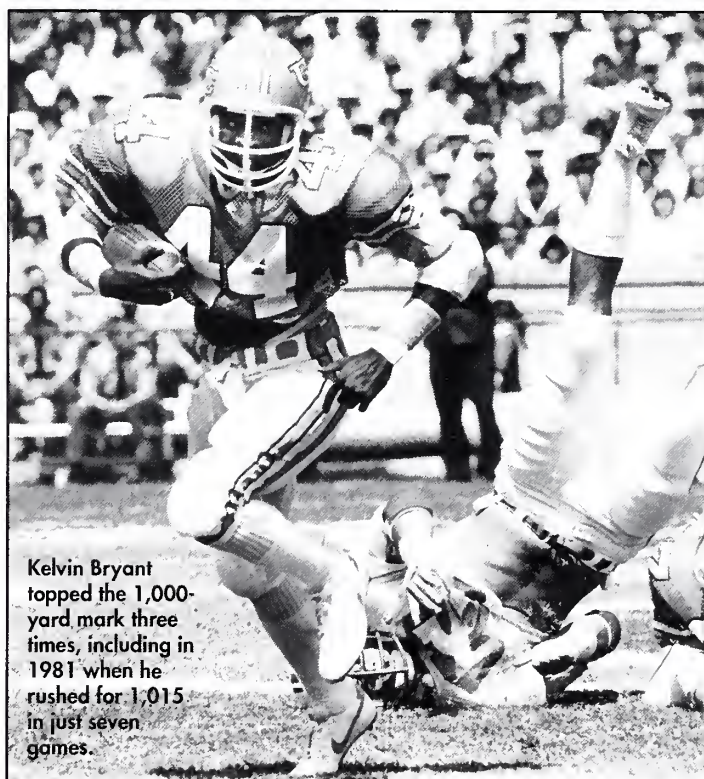

Linton alternated for much of his career between tailback and fullback. He was a reserve behind Leon Johnson for several years, but then became a standout as a senior. Linton became the first player in Carolina history to rush for 100 yards and catch passes for 100 yards in the same game. He rushed for 138 yards and added 137 receiving yards in Carolina's 16-13 win at Georgia Tech. Despite suffering a knee injury just two days before the 1998 Gator Bowl, Linton finished his career in fine fashion as he rushed for 68 yards and caught six passes for 81 yards in UNC's 42-3 win over Virginia Tech.

Carolina's Bowl History

The University of North Carolina has played in 22 postseason bowl games, including six consecutive heading into the 1998 season. The Tar Heels are 10-12 alltime in bowl games and 4-2 in the 1990s. Carolina has the eighth-longest active bowl streak in the nation behind only Nebraska, Michigan, Florida State, Ohio State, Tennessee, Penn State and Florida.

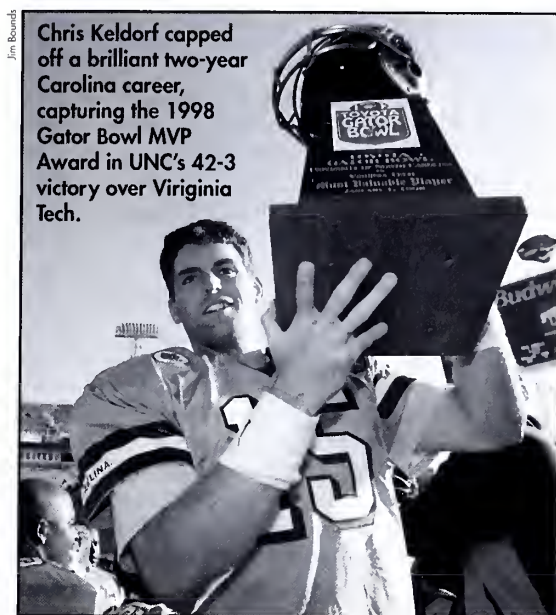

UNC and Clemson are tied for the lead in bowl appearances among schools that were charter members of the Atlantic Coast Conference and the Tar Heels have the most appearances of any charter school since the league was formed in 1953.

Carolina's bowl history started with three New Year's Day appearances during the late Forties when Charlie Justice was the big star of some of the school's greatest teams. Perhaps the most famous of those games was the 1947 Sugar Bowl which matched UNC against Georgia. This game produced one of the most controversial plays in bowl history.

Carolina was leading 7-0 in the third period when Bulldog defensive end Joe Tereshinski intercepted a Tar Heel pass. He then flipped a lateral to Dick McPhee who raced to the UNC 14. Carolina argued the lateral was a forward one and the play should have been called back. However, the officials ruled differently. Georgia went on to score and a 20-10 victory.

Justice was sensational running and punting when the Tar Heels returned to the Sugar Bowl two years later, but Oklahoma won the game, 14-6. Justice also played well in the 1950 Cotton Bowl, but Carolina lost to Rice, 27-13.

The Tar Heels' next bowl appearance did not come until 1963, but Ken Willard made the wait worthwhile in sparking a Chris Keldorf capped off a brilliant two-year Carolina career, capturing the 1998 Gator Bowl MVP Award in UNC's 42-3 victory over Virginia Tech.

35-0 win over the Air Force in the Gator Bowl. He ran for 94 yards and scored the opening touchdown to key the runaway victory.

Beginning in 1970 Carolina made 12 bowl trips in 17 years. After dropping a 26-14 decision to Arizona State in the 1970 Peach Bowl, the Tar Heels and Georgia made bowl history in the 1971 Gator Bowl. This is the only time in history brothers have opposed each other as head coaches in a bowl game with Bill Dooley's Tar Heels taking on his brother Vince's Bulldogs. The game was a great defensive struggle with Georgia coming from behind to win, 7-3.

Carolina capped an 11-1 season in 1972 with a dramatic 32-28 win over Texas Tech in the Sun Bowl. Quarterback Nick Vidnovic was the big star, completing 14 of 26 passes for 215 yards. It was his 62-yard touchdown pass to Ted Leverenz which gave the Tar Heels a 24-21 halftime lead.

Tech came back to go ahead, 28-24, but Vidnovic hit Leverenz with a 13-yard TD strike with just a minute to play to bring Carolina back. The Tar Heels then sealed the win when tackle Ronnie Robinson dropped Red Raider quarterback Joe Barnes for a safety.

Mike Voight and James Betterson each had big days rushing in the 1974 Sun Bowl, but Carolina couldn't stop the veer attack of Mississippi State. The two teams combined for 901 yards of offense, but the Bulldogs won, 26-24, when the Tar Heels were stopped on a fourth-and-one at their own 43 during a last-minute drive.

Kentucky blanked Carolina, 21-0, in the 1976 Peach Bowl and the following season the Tar Heels dropped a heartbreaking 21-17 decision to Nebraska in the Liberty Bowl. Sparked by quarterback Matt Kupec, Carolina had a 17-7 lead in the fourth quarter. But, the Cornhuskers rallied behind the play of reserve quarterback Randy Garcia.

Kupec and Amos Lawrence were the biggest stars in Carolina's 17-15 win over Michigan in the 1979 Gator Bowl. Lawrence rushed for 118 yards and Kupec hit on 18 of 28 passes.

Lawrence again was the big star in a 16-7 win over Texas in the 1980 Bluebonnet Bowl. He rushed for 104 yards and had a 59-yard touchdown run. Carolina's other scoring came on a two-yard plunge by Kelvin Bryant and a field goal by Jeff Hayes.

But, the key to this game was a Tar Heel defense which limited the Longhorns to just two first downs and only 36 total yards in the second half. Lawrence Taylor was all over the field making sensational plays, although safety Steve Streater was chosen the game's defensive MVP with an interception, fumble recovery and a 63-yard punt.

In an eerie setting the following year, Carolina defeated Arkansas, 31-27, in the Gator Bowl. The field was shrouded in fog much of the night, making it almost impossible to see the action from the press box. Bryant ran for 148 yards and his backup, Ethan Horton, added 144.

Horton again was the big star in the 1982 Sun Bowl as Carolina came from behind to defeat seventh-ranked Texas, 26-10. Coming off the bench for an injured Bryant, Horton rushed for 119 yards and one touchdown.

The Tar Heel defense was brilliant, making two great goal line stands and shutting down the Texas attack in the second half. Rob Rogers and Brooks Barwick added a pair of field goals despite weather conditions which featured a wind chill factor of 12 degrees and snow throughout the game.

That Sun Bowl game made Carolina the first Atlantic Coast Conference school ever to win four straight bowl games. But, that streak came to an end with a 28-3 loss to Florida State in the 1983 Peach Bowl.

The Tar Heels spotted Arizona a 30-0 lead in the 1986 Aloha Bowl, before putting on a big second-half rally. Torin Dorn finally got Carolina going against a rugged Wildcat defense with an Aloha-record 58-yard touchdown run.

Norris Davis made two big defensive plays, intercepting a pass and blocking a punt. Mark Maye threw to Randy Marriott for a score, but Arizona held on, 30-21.

Following the 1992 season the Tar Heels rallied from a 14-0 halftime deficit behind MVPs Natrone Means (128 yards rushing, one TD) and Bracey Walker (two blocked punts, one forced interception) to beat Mississippi State, 21-17, in the Peach Bowl.

Walker picked up his second blocked punt and returned it 41 yards for a touchdown to tie the game at 14. Moments later, early in the fourth quarter, Walker broke up a Bulldog pass and Cliff Baskerville intercepted the ball and ran it back 44 yards for the winning score.

The 1993 Tar Heels battled defending national champion Alabama to a 10-10 tie for the first half, but the Tide scored on a pair of 12-play drives of 65 and 66 yards in the second half to record a 24-10 win over Carolina in the Outback Steakhouse Gator Bowl.

UNC quarterback Jason Stanicek set school bowl game records for pass completions (19) and yardage (235) and Corey Holliday established a Tar Heel postseason record for receptions (nine) and receiving yardage (125). Fullback William Henderson scored for UNC on a one-yard run.

Carolina lost a heartbreaking, 35-31 decision to Texas in the 1994 Sun Bowl despite record-setting performances from several players. The Tar Heels led the Longhorns, 31-21, early in the final quarter but Texas tailback Priest Holmes scored his third and fourth rushing touchdowns of the game in the final six minutes.

UNC quarterback Mike Thomas completed 23 of 39 passes for 298 yards and two scores, freshman wide receiver Octavus Barnes made nine receptions for 165 yards and wide receiver Marcus Wall added seven catches and returned a fourth quarter punt 82 yards for a touchdown.

Wall's punt return, the first time he ever returned a punt in his collegiate career, gave Carolina a 24-21 lead. On the Tar Heels' next possession, Thomas completed a 50-yard scoring pass to Barnes.

Thomas established UNC bowl game records for most pass completions and yards and tied bowl game marks for pass attempts and touchdown throws. Barnes set Sun Bowl and Tar Heel records for catches and yards receiving.

Wall set an ACC bowl game record with 227 all-purpose yards. The 82-yard punt return was the third-longest ever in a bowl game.

Leon Johnson established a Tar Heel bowl game record as he rushed for 195 yards in Carolina's 20-10 win over Arkansas in the 1995 Carquest Bowl. The Razorbacks had won the SEC Western Division title. Johnson rushed for 172 yards in the second half, including a 28-yard touchdown run which gave the Tar Heels the lead for good in the third quarter.

Mike Thomas, starting his third career bowl game, iced the win with an 87-yard scoring pass to freshman L.C. Stevens. The reception was the longest in UNC bowl history and the second-longest in Carolina history. It also tied the mark for the fifth-longest passing play in college football bowl history.

Carolina secured a Top 10 national finish following the 1997 season with a 20-13 win over 25th-ranked West Virginia in the Toyota Gator Bowl. Sophomore quarterback Oscar Davenport made his first collegiate start a memorable one as he earned MVP honors by passing for 175 yards and rushing for a touchdown. Davenport was in the lineup because All-ACC quarterback Chris Keldorf had been injured in the regular-season finale.

Carolina compiled 289 yards of total offense against the Mountaineers, who had led the nation in fewest yards allowed per game. Leon Johnson rushed for 79 yards and caught three passes for 33 yards. Davenport threw an 18-yard touchdown pass to Octavus Barnes in the first quarter and capped a five-play scoring drive late in the second quarter with a 5-yard scoring run.

Freshman cornerback Dre' Bly, the nation's interception leader, picked off a pair of passes in the second half and safety Greg Williams recovered a fumble to thwart another

West Virginia drive, as UNC held on for the victory.

Last year, the Tar Heels returned to the Toyota Gator Bowl and thrashed Virginia Tech, 42-3. Keldorf earned Most Valuable Player honors as he threw for 290 yards and three touchdowns. Barnes caught a pair of touchdown passes (62 and 14 yards), Jonathan Linton rushed for 68 yards and a score and caught six passes for 81 yards despite a knee injury he suffered two days before the game and Dre' Bly recovered a blocked punt for a touchdown.

The Tar Heels scored 19 points in a 7:14 span midway through the opening half and were never seriously challenged. Carolina's No. 2 nationally-ranked defense held the Hokies to 185 total yards.

The win secured an 11-win season and placed the Tar Heels No. 4 in the final coaches poll and No. 6 in the final Associated Press poll. Defensive coordinator Carl Torbush was in his first game as Carolina's head coach. The longtime assistant coach had taken over as head coach on December 8 after Mack Brown had resigned.

Carolina	0	7	3	0 — 10

New Orleans, La. — The 1947 Sugar Bowl, which matched Carolina against Georgia, is one of the most famous Tar Heel games of the Charlie "Choo Choo" Justice years and produced one of the most controversial plays in bowl history.

Carolina was leading 7-0 in the third period when Bulldog defensive right end Joe Terreshinski intercepted a Tar Heel pass at the Georgia 24-yard line. He then flipped a lateral to Dick McPhee who raced 52 yards to the Carolina 14.

The Tar Heels argued the lateral was a forward one and the play should have been called back. However, the officials ruled differently. Georgia went on to score the tying touchdown on a quarterback sneak by Johnny Rauch.

Carolina's lone touchdown came on a Walt Pupa two-yard run following an interception by Tar Heel guard Bob Mitten.

The Tar Heels' last lead at 10-7 came on a Bob Cox field goal.

The Georgia game-winner came on a 67-yard touchdown pass from Trippi to Dan Edwards less than three minutes after the UNC field goal.

1949 SUGAR BOWL - VS. OKLAHOMA

New Orleans, La.

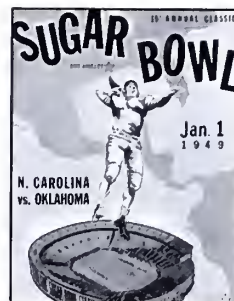

Attendance: 85,000

Oklahoma	7	0	7	0 — 14
Carolina	6	0	0	0 — 6

New Orleans, La. — The Tar Heels returned to the Sugar Bowl in 1949 and were defeated 14-6 by the University of Oklahoma, representing the Big Seven Conference. A record crowd of 85,000 turned out to see the Charlie Justice-led Tar Heels battle Bud Wilkinson's Sooners.

Carolina threatened early, advancing via a Justice to Art Weiner 23-yard pass play to the OU 15. Justice's next pass, however, was intercepted by linebacker Myrle Greathouse who rumbled 59 yards to the Carolina 13. Sooners' quarterback Jack Mitchell scored the first points of the day on a two-yard run.

The Heels capitalized on an OU fumble later in the first quarter and Justice marched the team down to the two, from where Hosea Rodgers scored. The conversion was wide right.

Carolina advanced to the OU eight late in the first half, but could not score.

The Sooners regained the lead for good in the third quarter. Quarterback Darrell Royal connected for 37 yards with Frankie Anderson and two plays later, Lindell Pearson ran it in from eight yards out.

Justice was brilliant, rushing for 84 yards and passing for another 57.

Rice	0	14	7	6	— 27
Carolina	0	0	0	13	— 13

Dallas, Texas — Charlie Justice had another great day in the 1950 Cotton Bowl, but it just wasn't enough as the Tar Heels fell to fifth-ranked Rice, 27-13. The Owls had a 9-1-0 record, while Carolina came in at 7-3 and was ranked 16th.

Rice and Carolina played to a scoreless draw in the opening quarter, but Rice opened the scoring in the second quarter when quarterback Tobin Rote hooked up with Billy Burkhalter for a 44-yard touchdown. Bobby Lantrip's three-yard run built a 14-0 halftime lead, and the Owls kept right on rolling in the third quarter.

On its second possession of the second half, Rice traveled 77 yards in six plays, capped by Rote's 17-yard scoring pass to "Froggie" Williams. Burkhalter made it 27-0 with a 12-yard fourth quarter score.

The Tar Heels got two touchdowns in the final eight minutes. Justice hit Paul Rizzo for a two-yard touchdown pass and then Rizzo ran it in from two yards.

Justice managed 59 yards rushing and another 63 in the air, while Art Weiner led the Tar Heels with five receptions for 41 yards. Billy Hayes topped the UNC rushing attack with 107 yards on 19 carries.

The 1950 Cotton Bowl marked the end of the "Choo-Choo" Justice era that began in 1946. The Tar Heels went 32-9-2 in that time and played in three major bowl games.

Jacksonville, Fla. — It had been 13 years since Charlie Justice had led Carolina to the 1950 Cotton Bowl, so when the Tar Heels got a chance to play in the 1963 Gator Bowl, they made the most of it. The Tar Heels walloped the Air Force, 35-0.

Ken Willard was the hero of the day. He ran for 94 yards on 18 carries and scored the first touchdown which keyed the runaway victory. When Willard wasn't running in this rout, he did his share of the offensive blocking.

Joe Robinson scored on a five-yard pass and also caught a two-yard conversion to give the Tar Heels a 20-0 lead at intermission.

Coach Jim Hickey's Tar Heels had 23 first downs to the Academy's 14, and piled up 370 yards in total offense compared to 260 for the Falcons.

Gary Black completed all six of his passes for 71 yards and one touchdown and he rushed for another score. Junior Edge was good on five of his nine throws for 42 yards.

Carolina finished the season 9-2, its best record in Hickey's eight years at the helm.

Atlanta, Ga. — The Tar Heels exploded for 26 second quarter points but couldn't hold off Arizona State in the final two quarters as the Sun Devils rallied for an exciting 48-26 victory before 52,126 fans at Grant Field.

Carolina spotted unbeaten ASU 14 points on a pair of touchdowns runs, from eight and 33 yards, by Bob Thomas.

Don McCauley got the Tar Heels on the scoreboard with a one-yard plunge set up by a long pass from Paul Miller to Ricky Lanier. ASU scored on its next series, though, on a 67-yard TD catch by J.D. Hill.

Carolina then scored the final three touchdowns of the first half to go into the intermission with a 26-21 lead. First, Miller passed 37 yards for a score to Tony Blanchard. Then McCauley rushed in from 17 yards out. And finally, the All-

America McCauley scored again from four yards.

Arizona State dominated a second half which was played in a heavy Atlanta snowstorm and without Miller, who left with an injury.

Monroe Ely scored twice and Thomas reached the end zone for the third time in the Sun Devils' 27-point second half.

In his final game as a Tar Heel, McCauley gained 143 yards on 36 carries.

Jacksonville, Fla.

Attendance: 71,208

Carolina	0	0	3	0	—	3
Georgia	0	0	7	0	—	7

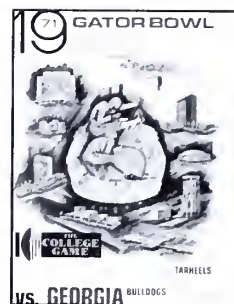

Jacksonville, Fla. — For the first time since 1950, the Tar Heels were playing in a bowl game for the second consecutive season. This time, the Tar Heels would fall, 7-3, to the Georgia Bulldogs.

The game produced a bowl first — brothers coaching against each other. Bill Dooley led the Tar Heels and older brother Vince coached the Dawgs.

The game was a defensive struggle with all the points coming in the third quarter.

In the opening half, Carolina had the best chance as line-backer Jimmy Webster, voted the Tar Heels' MVP this day, blocked a punt out of bounds at the Georgia 24. A fumble, though, denied Carolina any points.

A pair of long runs by Lewis

Jolley brought the Tar Heels down to the Georgia 16 on UNC's first possession of the second half. But a procedure penalty forced the Heels to settle for a 35-yard field goal by Ken Craven.

A 31-yard pass play from Andy Johnson to Roy Hunnicutt set up the Georgia touchdown. Jimmy Poulos, on the very next play following Hunnicutt's catch, took it in for a score from 25 yards. Poulos rushed for 161 yards on the afternoon and was named the Georgia MVP.

Attendance: 31,312

Carolina	3	6	7	16	— 32
Texas Tech	0	7	14	7	— 28

El Paso, Texas — Carolina capped an 11-1 season in the 1972 Sun Bowl by defeating Texas Tech, 32-28. Quarterback Nick Vidnovic brought the Tar Heels from behind with a late scoring drive which he capped by tossing a 13-yard touchdown pass to wingback Ted Leverenz.

That play, with a minute to go in the game, gave UNC a 30-28 lead. Carolina added two points moments later as Ronnie Robinson sacked quarterback Joe Barnes in the end zone.

The Tar Heels led 9-0 in the second quarter on a field goal by Ellis Alexander and touchdown run by Dick Oliver. The Red Raiders rallied, however, for the next 21 points and a 21-9 lead. Vidnovic hit Leverenz for a 62-yard touchdown and Billy Hite carried it in from three yards to reestablish a 24-21 Carolina lead. Tech gained the advantage, 28-24, with 7:41 to play in the game.

Vidnovic completed 14 of 26 passes for 215 yards and two touchdowns. Ike Oglesby rushed for 71 yards and Sammy Johnson added 52.

The Red Raiders had a touchdown called back in the second quarter. All-America guard Donald Rives ran a blocked punt back for an apparent score, but Tech was flagged for unsportsmanlike conduct and the points were nullified.

El Paso, Texas — Despite mounting 402 yards in total offense, the Tar Heels dropped a 26-24 decision to Mississippi State in a record-setting Sun Bowl.

Terry Vitrano's two-yard touchdown with 3:41 remaining was the game-winner. That capped a 16-play, 80-yard drive which lasted nearly seven minutes.

Carolina had taken a 24-20 lead with 10:26 to play on an Ellis Alexander field goal.

The Bulldogs totaled a Sun Bowl record 499 yards in total offense — 455 of those yards came on the ground via the veer offense. Walter Packer rushed for 189 yards, Vitrano added 164 and quarterback Rockey Felker gained another 69.

The Tar Heels also got big ground gains from Mike Voight and James Betterson. Voight picked up 90 yards on 19 carries and Betterson chipped in with 84 on 17 rushes. But Voight was stopped a yard shy of a first down on Carolina's last offensive play of the game. Chris Kupec, who led the nation in pass completion percentage, connected with Jimmy Jerome for 29 yards and a touchdown.

Atlanta, Ga. — Playing without an injured Mike Voight, the Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year, the Tar Heels managed just five first downs and 108 yards total offense in a 21-0 loss to Kentucky.

Voight, who had rushed for 1,407 yards, injured his ankle in practice two days before the game when he stepped in a hole going out on a pass play. Ironically, Voight had caught just four passes the entire season.

The teams battled to a tie at the half, but Carolina thought it had put up points in the first quarter. On the Tar Heels' opening drive, Matt Kupec hit split end Walker Lee with a 50-yard touchdown pass, but officials ruled the Tar Heels offside and the play came back.

Early in the third quarter, Kentucky defensive end Bud Diehl knocked the ball from Kupec's grasp and the 'Cats recovered at the UNC 21. That set up the first of three rushing touchdowns by fullback Rod Stewart.

Stewart, who finished with 104 yards and the game's MVP trophy, added fourth quarter scores from 13 and three yards.

Subbing for Voight, freshman Doug Paschal led the Tar Heels with 41 yards rushing.

Memphis, Tenn. — Thirteenth-ranked Nebraska scored two fourth quarter touchdowns and rallied for a 21-17 victory over 13th-rated North Carolina.

Reserve quarterback Randy Garcia came off the Cornhuskers' bench in the final period to toss a pair of touchdown passes, including a 33-yard game-winner to Tim Smith with 3:16 left in the game. That came six plays after Nebraska recovered a fumble at the UNC 43.

Tar Heel quarterback Matt Kupec, voted the game's Most Valuable Player despite the loss, had led the Tar Heels to a 17-7 lead in the third quarter. Kupec, who connected on seven of his 11 passes, threw touchdown passes to Brooks

Williams and Bob Loomis. Tom Biddle added Carolina's final points with 4:17 left in the third on a Liberty Bowl record 47-yard field goal.

Carolina led the nation in scoring defense in 1977, allowing just 7.4 points per game through the regular season. Nebraska was the only team to score more than 14 points against UNC all season.

Bill Dooley resigned in January 1978 to accept the dual position of head football coach and athletic director at Virginia Tech.

Jacksonville, Fla. — Matt Kupec completed 18 of 28 passes for 161 yards and one touchdown and Amos Lawrence rushed for 118 yards to lead North Carolina to a 17-15 win over Michigan.

Trailing 9-0, the Tar Heels rallied for the next 17 points and then held off a Michigan threat late in the game to post the first of Dick Crum's four consecutive bowl wins.

Carolina had two chances early on to score first, but high winds knocked down a pair of Jeff Hayes field goal attempts. Michigan did score first following a turnover and added a 53-yard touchdown reception by Anthony Carter to move ahead 9-0.

Doug Paschal put the Heels on the board with a two-yard touchdown. Early in the third, Kupec engineered a 16-play, 97-yard touchdown drive which culminated in a 12-yard pass to Phil Farris. Hayes added a 32-yard field goal in the fourth for a 17-9 UNC lead.

Michigan, thwarted once already in the fourth when Lawrence Taylor scooped up a loose ball, did manage another Carter touchdown with 1:28 left, but the two-point conversion pass to Carter fell short.

Kupec and Lawrence were named co-Most Valuable Players.

Houston, Texas — Amos Lawrence rushed for 104 yards and one touchdown and the Tar Heel defense allowed just two first downs and 36 total yards in the second half as Carolina played error-free football to defeat Texas, 16-7, in the Bluebonnet Bowl.

Lawrence, the game's Most Valuable Offensive Player, scampered 59 yards for a touchdown on the Tar Heels' fourth play from scrimmage for a 7-0 lead. Following a Texas touchdown in the second quarter by Mike Luck, Carolina regained the advantage for good on a one-yard run by Kelvin Bryant.

Jeff Hayes converted a fumbled punt snap by the Longhorns into a 31-yard field goal with 2:03 to play in the third quarter.

The defense, which allowed 224 yards and 11 Texas first downs in the opening half, dominated the second 30 minutes. UNC safety Steve Streater was named the defensive MVP as he had an interception, recovered a fumble and also boomed a 63-yard punt, longest in Bluebonnet Bowl history.

Carolina's 11-1 record matched the best season in UNC history. The Tar Heels finished ranked eighth by the Associated Press and ninth by UPI.

1981 GATOR BOWL - VS. ARKANSAS

Attendance: 71,009

Carolina	3	7	14	7	— 31
Arkansas	7	3	0	17	— 27

Kelvin Bryant rushed for 148 yards and Ethan Horton added 144 to lead the Tar Heels to a 31-27 victory over Arkansas in the Gator Bowl.

Bryant and Horton shared Most Valuable Player honors, but it was a key defensive stop by seldom-used freshman Ronnie Snipes which saved the night for Carolina.

After building a 31-10 lead midway through the fourth quarter, Carolina watched as Arkansas rallied for two touchdowns and had the ball again inside Tar Heel territory with less than a minute to play. But on third down, Snipes, who had played just two previous downs in the contest, sacked quarterback Brad Taylor for a 17-yard loss.

The game was deadlocked at 10-10 at the half, but Carolina came right out to open the third quarter and put together a 13-play, 85-yard drive which was capped by Horton's one-yard scoring run.

UNC quarterback Rod Elkins scored on a one-yard sneak on the Tar Heels' next drive. He was set up by a 21-yard run by Horton and a 13-yard scamper by Bryant.

Horton then churned out 42 yards on six plays and went in from four yards out to give the Heels a 31-10 lead with 7:29 to play in the game.

The Razorbacks scored with 5:05 to play, recovered an onside kick and scored again with 2:44 left. UNC punter Jeff Hayes took an intentional safety with 1:44 to play. That gave the ball back to Arkansas and set up Snipes' defensive gem.

Carolina closed the season with a 10-2 record and became the first team in Atlantic Coast Conference history to finish in the Top 10 of both wire services in successive years. UNC finished the year rated eighth by United Press International and ninth by Associated Press.

1982 SUN BOWL - VS. TEXAS

□ December 25, 1982

El Paso, Texas

Attendance: 31,359

Carolina	0	3	0	23	— 26
Texas	7	3	0	0	— 10

North Carolina scored the final 23 points of the game in the final quarter and held seventh-ranked Texas to 48 total yards in the second half as the Tar Heels became the first ACC team to win four consecutive bowl games.

Ethan Horton was the offensive star of the game, rushing for 119 yards in the second half as Carolina won 26-10. He replaced injured starter Kelvin Bryant, who totaled 45 yards before leaving the game with an injured ankle.

Trailing 10-3 after three quarters, the Tar Heels vaulted into the lead via three consecutive field goals. Sophomore walk-on Rob Rogers, who had connected from 53 yards in the second quarter, hit a 47-yard field goal with 14:51 to play to narrow the Texas lead to 10-6. Brooks Barwick was then successful from 24 and 42 yards, the latter putting the Heels into the lead at 12-10 with 4:56 left.

Horton tacked on a three-yard touchdown with 2:17 remaining and Mike Wilcher fell on a loose ball in the end zone for another touchdown with 1:35 to play.

The defensive series of the game came five minutes into the third quarter with Texas leading 10-3 and with the ball, third-and-goal at the Carolina one. Two times, Texas fullback Ervin Davis tried to find the end zone, but twice he was hurled back. First, it was Wilcher who made the hit and then on 4th-and-goal, Greg Poole made the stop which changed the game.

The Christmas Day affair was played with intermittent snow flurries and a wind-chill reading that hovered around 12 degrees.

Florida State scored the first two times it had the ball and penalties and turnovers cost the Tar Heels dearly, as the Seminoles whipped Carolina 28-3 in a miserably cold and half-empty Peach Bowl.

Played before only 25,648 fans in low-20 degree temperatures, the Peach Bowl loss snapped the Tar Heels' consecutive bowl-game winning streak at four.

The Seminoles held the Tar Heels' running game to just 32 yards and three first downs. One thousand-yard rushers Ethan Horton and Tyrone Anthony were held to 30 and 27 yards, respectively.

Florida State quarterback Eric Thomas, making his first start, connected with Weegie Thompson on touchdown passes on the 'Noles first two series.

Midway through the second quarter, the Tar Heels fumbled away a punt at their own 16 and FSU converted via a 1-yard touchdown run.

Early in the fourth quarter, UNC quarterback Scott Stankavage hit tight end Arnold Franklin with a fourth down, 10-yard TD pass, but the play was called back due to a holding penalty. Carolina elected to kick for three and put up its only points of the day on Brooks Barwick's 36-yard field goal.

The loss was the fourth in the final five games of the season and ended a season in which Carolina had been ranked third in the nation.

Arizona converted four North Carolina fumbles into 20 points and then held off a furious Tar Heel rally in the fourth quarter to win the 1986 Aloha Bowl, 30-21.

Carolina dug itself a 30-0 hole and did not put points on the board until freshman tailback Torin Dorn broke a 58-yard touchdown run with 2:19 left in the third quarter.

The Tar Heels fumbled five times in the first three periods and the Wildcats turned them into two touchdowns and two field goals.

Following Dorn's electrifying run, the Tar Heels quickly moved back within striking distance with two more touchdowns in the next seven minutes.

Mark Maye hit Randy Marriott with a six-yard touchdown pass after a Norris Davis interception and then followed a Davis punt block with a two-yard scoring run of his own to narrow the margin to 30-21 with 9:10 to play.

That, however, was as close as Carolina could challenge. A couple of dropped passes thwarted two more Carolina drives.

Dorn was the game's leading ground-gainer, rushing for 101 yards on only seven carries. Maye completed 17 of 34 passes for 171 yards; he hooked up with Eric Starr a game-high seven times for 53 yards.

Defensive MVP Bracey Walker blocked consecutive third-quarter punts, returning one of them for the tying touchdown, and forced a fourth quarter interception which Cliff Baskerville returned 44 yards for a touchdown to lead Carolina to a 21-17 Peach Bowl win over Mississippi State.

Walker's heroics capped a fierce second-half comeback in which the Tar Heels came from 14 points behind to score three times, although just once on an offensive possession.

MSU took a two-touchdown lead in the first quarter and had two more scores in the second quarter called back due to holding penalties.

Carolina regrouped at halftime, however, and cut the lead to 14-7 just six plays into the third quarter. Mike Thomas connected with Bucky Brooks for a 53-yard completion on the fourth play of the half and Natrone Means scored from a yard out two snaps later.

Means led the Tar Heel offense with 128 yards rushing and was named the game's Offensive MVP:

Later in the third quarter, Walker blocked a punt but Carolina's field goal try was unsuccessful. On the next series UNC again forced the Bulldogs to punt and this time Walker blocked the kick, picked up the loose ball and raced 24 yards untouched for the tying score.

Early in the final quarter Walker forced a midair loose ball with a jarring hit and Baskerville plucked the ball out of the air and sprinted 44 yards down the left sideline for what proved to be the winning score.

Carolina held off two late MSU rallies to hang on to the lead. Linebacker Kerry Mock's interception stopped one threat at the UNC 17 with 2:32 to play and a fourth-down incomplection with just six seconds left halted the Bulldogs at the Carolina 21-yard line.

Quarterback Brian Burgdorf threw for two touchdowns and ran for another to lead 18th-ranked and defending national champion Alabama to a 24-10 victory over 11th-ranked Carolina in Outback Steakhouse Gator Bowl.

Corey Holliday caught nine passes for 125 yards and was UNC's MVP.

After a scoreless first period, Alabama took the lead on a 22-yard field goal by Michael Proctor. Carolina quarterback Jason Stanicek then led a seven-play, 80-yard touchdown drive in just 1:36 to take the lead, 7-3, on the ensuing possession. Stanicek hit Holliday with completions of 29 and 22 yards and executed one of his trademark option pitches to freshman tailback Leon Johnson for an 18-yard gain. William Henderson plunged in from a yard out for the lead.

The Crimson Tide went up 10-7 Burgdorf scored from 33 yards out on a quarterback draw.

With 1:44 left before intermission, Stanicek led what would be the final Tar Heel scoring drive. He hit Holliday with passes of 12 and nine yards and Curtis Johnson ran twice for 20 yards before the drive stalled and Tripp Pignetti hit a 23-yard field goal to tie the game at 10.

The Alabama defense was the key to the game, holding UNC to a season-low 42 net yards rushing on 25 carries. Carolina could only muster 40 total yards and four first downs in the second half.

Priest Holmes rushed for 161 yards and four touchdowns, including the game-winner with 1:17 to play, to lead Texas to a 35-31 win over the Tar Heels before a Sun Bowl record crowd of 50,612.

Holmes' four-touchdown performance wrestled away MVP honors from UNC quarterback Mike Thomas, who had the finest passing day of his career. Thomas completed 23 of 39 passes for 298 yards and two touchdowns. He set UNC bowl game records for completions and yards and tied the mark with two scoring tosses. He was 15 for 19 in the first half and completed 20 of 29 before a final desperation drive.

Wide receivers Marcus Wall and Octavus Barnes were two more standouts for the Tar Heels. Wall was selected the game's Most Valuable Special Teams Player. He gave the Tar Heels a 24-21 lead in the fourth quarter when he returned a punt 82 yards for a touchdown.

Barnes set UNC bowl game records for most catches and yards with nine receptions for 165 yards and one score. The 165 yards were also the most in Sun Bowl history.

With Carolina up, 31-21, Texas quickly went on a 68-yard touchdown drive in only 2:38. On the next series, Texas took over at its own 32 and drove 68 yards in 10 plays for the winning score. Holmes carried the last three plays on the drive for nine, two and finally the five yard touchdown run.

1995 CARQUEST BOWL - VS. ARKANSAS

Miami, Fla.

Attendance: 34,428

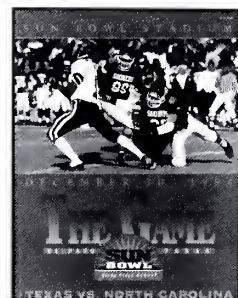

Arkansas	7	0	3	0	— 10
Carolina	7	0	13	0	— 20

Leon Johnson rushed for a Carolina bowl record 195 yards and Mike Thomas threw for two scores as the Tar Heels knocked off Arkansas, 20-10, in the Carquest Bowl.

Johnson's 195-yard effort topped the previous high of 148 yards by Kelvin Bryant, also against Arkansas, in the 1981 Gator Bowl. Johnson had just 23 yards on eight carries in the first half, but exploded for 172 yards in the second half.

All-America tackle Marcus Jones capped his career with four tackles for losses, including a quarterback sack on Arkansas' last play from scrimmage - his final collegiate play.

Trailing by a touchdown the Tar Heels quickly moved into position to tie the game. On third-and-long quarterback

The Razorbacks managed to take a 10-7 lead in the third quarter on a 26-yard field goal by Latourette. Two series later Carolina went into the lead for good. On third-and-eight from the 28, Thomas ran the option around the right corner, turned upfield and then pitched the ball to Johnson, who was trailing the play perfectly. Johnson ran untouched for a 28-yard, go-ahead score.

Bowl History - Recaps

1997 GATOR BOWL - VS. WEST VIRGINIA

□ January 1, 1997
Jacksonville, Fla.
Attendance: 52,103

W. Virginia 0 3 7 3 — 10

Oscar Davenport, starting in place of injured first-team all-conference quarterback Chris Keldorf, completed 14 of 26 passes for 175 yards and one touchdown as Carolina defeated West Virginia 20-13 in the 52nd annual Toyota Gator Bowl. Davenport, who also rushed for one touchdown, was named the game's MVP.

The win was Carolina's ninth bowl victory overall and the third under head coach Mack Brown. Brown also led the Tar Heels to victories in the 1993 Peach Bowl and the 1995 Carquest Bowl.

In a game that featured the nation's top two defenses, neither team was able to score in the first quarter. Carolina broke the scoring drought early in the second quarter when Davenport found Barnes in the back corner of the end zone on an 18-yard pass. The Tar Heel drive, which began at their own 10-yard line following a missed West Virginia field goal, was led by Davenport who was 5 of 6 passing, including a 30-yard, third-down completion to Na Brown.

Carolina led the nation in turnover margin in 1996 and was quickly able to capitalize on West Virginia's first miscue of the afternoon when cornerback Robert Williams picked off Chad Johnston's errant pass. That led to a 22-yard Josh McGee field goal.

West Virginia finally broke through the Carolina defense with a 12-play, 43-yard drive that resulted in a Jay Taylor field goal. The Mountaineers had the ball at Carolina's 5-yard line, but Johnston was sacked by defensive end Greg Ellis and his next three passes were either hurried or broken up.

As time was running down in the first half, Davenport and Leon Johnson led the Tar Heels on a five-play touchdown drive. Johnson caught a pass for 13 yards and rushed twice for 19 yards in the drive. Davenport scored on a 5-yard option keeper for a 17-3 lead. His first-half numbers were outstanding as the St. Petersburg, Fla., native was 11 of 14 for 136 yards and one touchdown.

West Virginia opened the second-half scoring with a 34-yard touchdown pass to close within seven points. A fumble recovery by Greg Williams ended one WVU threat, but West Virginia had one last chance to tie the game late in the fourth quarter. As it had done all season, Carolina's defense rose to the challenge, stopping the Mountaineers on 4th-and-6 at the UNC 24 with just under two minutes remaining. A tackle for a loss by Mike Pringley and a pressure by Brian Simmons were the key defensive plays.

Dre' Bly, Carolina's consensus first-team All-America, picked off two second-half passes. Carolina's defense forced four West Virginia turnovers; the Mountaineers had 10 in 11 regular-season games.

BOWL CHAMPIONSHIP SERIES

The ranking system will consist of four major components: subjective polls of the media and coaches, computer rankings, schedule strength and team record. The two teams that have the lowest point total in the four categories will play in the national championship game.

POLLS: The poll component will be calculated based on the average ranking of each team in the Associated Press media poll and the USA Today/ESPN coaches poll. The rankings of each team will be added and divided by two. For example, a team ranked No. 1 in one poll and No. 2 two in the other poll would receive 1.5 points. $(1+2 = 3 / 2 = 1.5)$

COMPUTER RANKINGS: This consists of three computer rankings that are published in major media outlets. They include Jeff Sagarin's in USA Today, the Seattle Times and the New York Times. An average of these three rankings will be used to calculate points. In order to prevent unusual differences that might occur as the result of individual computer formulas, a maximum adjusted deviation of no greater than 50% of the average of the two lowest computer rankings will be used. For example, if a team is ranked No. 3 and No. 5 in two computer systems and No. 12 in a third, the high ranking of 12 would be adjusted to 6 before calculating the average points for this component. $(3+5 = 8 / 2 = 4 \times .50 = 2 + 4 = 6)$

STRENGTH OF SCHEDULE: This component is calculated by determining the cumulative won/loss records of the team's opponents and the cumulative won/loss records of the team's opponents' opponents. The formula will be weighted two-thirds (66.67%) for the opponents' records and one-third (33.33%) for the opponents' opponents record. The team's schedule strength shall be calculated to determine in which quartile it will rank: 1-25, 26-50, 51-75, 76-100 and shall be further quantified by its ranking within each quartile (divided by 25). For example, if a team's schedule strength rating is 28th in the nation that team would receive 1.12 points $(28 / 25 = 1.12)$

TEAM RECORD: Each loss during the season will represent one point.

All four components will added together for a total rating. The team with the lowest point total will be ranked first. The BCS standings will not be published until the second week of November. The system will be used only to select the teams that will participate in the championship game of the BCS and to determine any independent team or team from a conference without an automatic selection that will qualify for a guaranteed selection in one of the games of the BCS as the result of being ranked in the top six of the BCS standings.

Honored Jerseys

Fifteen former University of North Carolina football players have been honored in special fashion as their names and jersey numbers have been placed on the facade of Kenan Stadium's upper deck. Two more will be honored this fall and a third has qualified to be honored in future years.

Former Athletic Director John Swofford announced in August 1994 that the University's Athletic Council had approved a request to pay tribute to some of the school's greatest players.

The men being honored are the five who have already had their jersey numbers retired, Carolina's consensus first-team All-Americans and any athlete who was named Atlantic Coast Conference Football Player of the Year. Consensus All-Americans are those players who made the majority of the first-team selections in any given year.

"We have been looking for a way to pay special tribute to those players who have been so instrumental in our football success over the years," said Swofford. "We felt this was a way to make people more aware of the great football tradition that we have here.

"Of course, it would be impossible to honor all of our outstanding players. So we had to have some sort of criteria to go by in coming up with a list of names. The retired jerseys gave us a start. After much discussion with a lot of people, we decided the highest honors any of our players have had were being named consensus All-Americans and chosen the best player in our league."

The players whose names and numbers are honored in the stadium are:

GEORGE BARCLAY #99

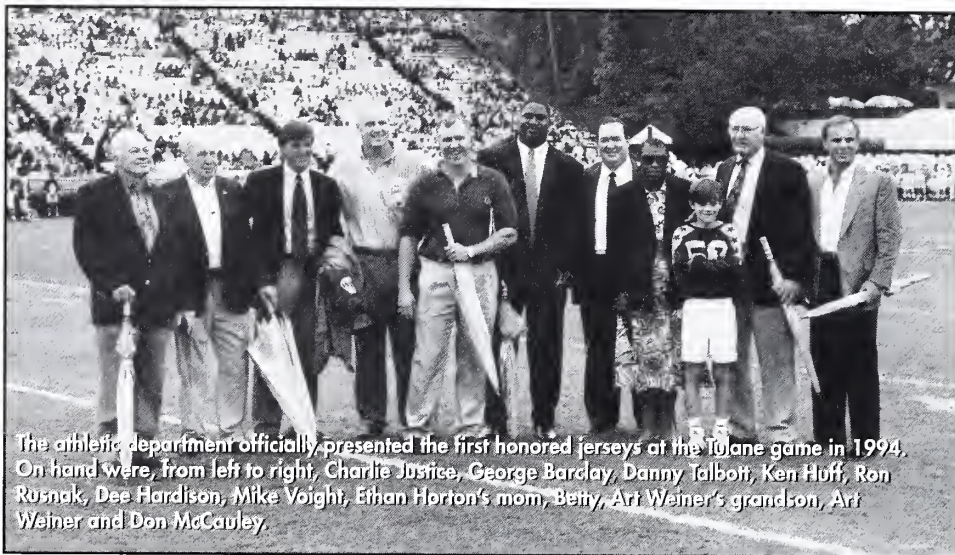

A guard and linebacker from 1932 to 1934, whose number has been retired. He was the school's first football All-America and is a member of the state of North Carolina's Sports Hall of Fame. A guard and linebacker at 5-11, 185 pounds, Barclay was a standout for three seasons under coaches Chuck Collins and Carl Snively. A tremendous blocker and ferocious tackler, he was captain of the 1934 team that went 7-1-1. Barclay later served as UNC's head coach from 1953 until 1955.

ANDY BERSHAK #59

A great two-way end from 1935 to 1937, who was a consensus All-America in 1937. His number has also been retired. Bershak was a brilliant defender and his team's top receiver. He also was a starter on the basketball team and an honor student. Bershak was selected to the Order of the Golden Fleece and served as president of the Carolina Athletic Association.

BILL SUTHERLAND #46

A blocking back on the 1946 Sugar Bowl team, whose number has been retired. He died in an auto accident after his freshman year, stunning his teammates and Coach Carl Snively. Sutherland was named one of the Tar Heels' three captains for what would have been his sophomore season and Snively worked to ensure that his number would be retired.

Arguably the most famous and popular athlete in the history of the state. Justice was a consensus All-America and twice runnerup for the Heisman Trophy. During his four seasons, 1946-49, Carolina went to the Sugar Bowl twice and the Cotton Bowl once. A single-wing tailback, he still holds many of the school's total offense records. In addition, he was a sensational punter and kick returner. He was the 1948 National Player of the Year.

ART WEINER #50

An outstanding two-way end from 1946 to 1949, whose number has been retired. Weiner won All-America honors in 1948 and 1949 and was the nation's leading receiver as a senior. He teamed with the legendary Charlie Justice to form perhaps the most potent offensive duo in school history. Voted the top lineman in the Senior Bowl, Weiner is a member of the National Football Hall of Fame. He is still fifth in UNC receptions with 106.

DANNY TALBOTT #10

A star quarterback from 1964 to 1966 and the 1965 ACC Player of the Year under Head Coach Jim Hickey.

Talbott led the league in total offense and scoring that season. He had 318 yards of total offense in one game against Georgia, at the time a school record.

DON MCCAULEY #23

The ACC Player of the Year as a junior and senior and a consensus All-America in 1970, his final season. McCauley was the first of Carolina's NCAA-record 23 backs to rush for 1,000 yards. He twice led the ACC in rushing with 1,092 yards in 1969 and 1,720 in 1970. That latter total at the time broke O.J. Simpson's single-season NCAA record. He also led the nation in all-purpose running as a senior and his 126 points that year still is the league record.

RON RUSNAK #62

An offensive guard on three bowl teams from 1970 to 1972, who won unanimous All-America honors in his senior season. At 6-2, 220 pounds, Rusnak wasn't as big as some linemen, but had great technique. He was the cornerstone of the offensive front on the 1972 team which went 11-1. Rusnak was a two-time All-Atlantic Coast Conference choice on teams which combined for a 20-4 record. He won the Jacobs Blocking Trophy in 1972 as the best blocker in the ACC.

KEN HUFF #68

A three-year starter at offensive guard from 1972 to 1974 and a consensus All-America as a senior. Huff was a dynamic blocker at 6-4 and 250 pounds. He was the key figure on the 1974 line which helped Carolina boast a pair of 1,000-yard backs and lead the ACC in total offense, rushing and scoring. Led by Huff, UNC accumulated 4,691 yards, at the time a school record. The Tar Heels were fifth nationally in total offense and ninth in scoring that season. Huff won the Jacobs Blocking Trophy as the best blocker in the Atlantic Coast Conference and was the third player selected overall in the 1974 NFL draft by the Baltimore Colts.

MIKE VOIGHT #44

A hard-running tailback from 1973 to 1976, who was the ACC Player of the Year as both a junior and senior. Voight is second in Carolina history in scoring and rushing with 254 points and 3,971 yards, respectively. He had three 1,000-yard seasons and twice was the top ground-gainer in the ACC. In 1976 he scored 110 points and ran for 1,407 yards, including 261 in his final game—a dramatic 39-38 shootout with Duke.

DEE HARDISON #71

A defensive tackle from 1974 to 1977 and a consensus All-America as a senior. Hardison was the star of one of Carolina's greatest defenses in his final year. He dominated the line of scrimmage all season long as the Tar Heels led the nation in scoring defense in 1977, giving up just 7.4 points a game. Carolina also topped the ACC in total, rushing and pass defense that year. No team would lead the league in all four again until Florida State in its 1993 national championship season.

LAWRENCE TAYLOR #98

Lawrence Taylor (98), an outside linebacker from 1977 to 1980, who is regarded as the greatest player of all time at that position. Taylor was a consensus All-America and the ACC Player of the Year in 1980. He had a Carolina-record 16 quarterback sacks that season for losses totaling 127 yards. Sparked by his play, the Tar Heels went 11-1 in 1980 and won the ACC championship.

WILLIAM FULLER #95

A defensive lineman from 1980 to 1983, who was a consensus All-America as a senior. Also honored as a first-team All-America as a junior, he is one of only five Tar Heel players to be named first-team All-America twice. Fuller, who utilized his tremendous quickness to slice through offensive lines, had 22 tackles for losses in both 1981 and 1983. He is one of only three defensive linemen ever to make the All-ACC team three times.

ETHAN HORTON #12

The Associated Press ACC Player of the Year as a senior, Horton rushed for 1,247 yards in 1984 after a 1,107-yard performance in 1983. He was named the game's co-MVP in UNC's 1981 Gator Bowl win over Arkansas and was the MVP of the 1982 Sun Bowl.

MARCUS JONES #71

A defensive end/tackle from 1992-95, who was a consensus All-America and the ACC Defensive Player of the Year as a senior. Jones had 24 career quarterback sacks to break Lawrence Taylor's school record. A two-time first-team All-ACC selection, Jones led a Tar Heel defense which had the ACC's number-one rated total defense in 1995. He finished his career with 222 tackles, including 46 for losses. Jones helped Carolina to four straight bowl invitations and wins in the 1993 Peach and 1995 Carquest Bowls.

DRE' BLY #31

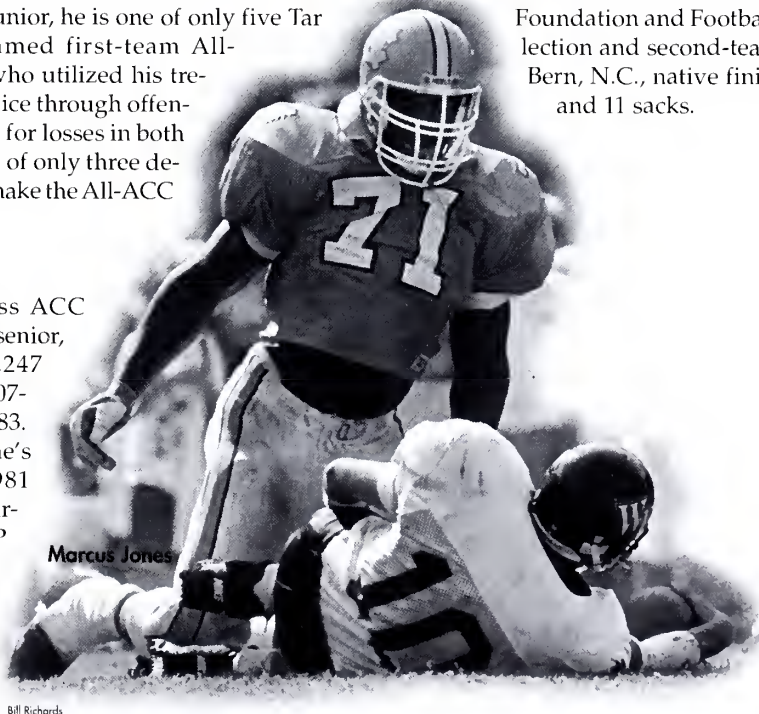

A junior cornerback on the 1998 UNC football team, Bly earned consensus first-team All-America honors in 1996 and then became the first two-time consensus All-America in UNC football history when he repeated the honor in 1997. His name and number will be added to the stadium facade after his college career. Bly led the nation as a freshman with 11 interceptions in the regular season and added two more pass thefts in the Gator Bowl win over West Virginia. Bly was named first-team All-America by the Associated Press, The Sporting News, the Football Writers and the Walter Camp Foundation. Last year, Bly added five more interceptions and was named All-America by the Associated Press, the Walter Camp Foundation, the Football Writers and Football News.

GREG ELLIS #87

A defensive end from 1994-97, Ellis is the alltime leader in quarterback sacks. The Wendell, N.C., native had 32.5 sacks for 253 yards in his career. He anchored a defense that was second in the country in total yards in each of his final two seasons. Carolina posted a 21-3 record in that span and had consecutive Top 10 finishes in the polls. Ellis is one of only three players in Carolina football history to be named first-team All-ACC three times. He was voted by his teammates as a team captain and the best overall senior. He was the eighth selection in the first round of the 1998 NFL Draft by the Dallas Cowboys.

BRIAN SIMMONS #41

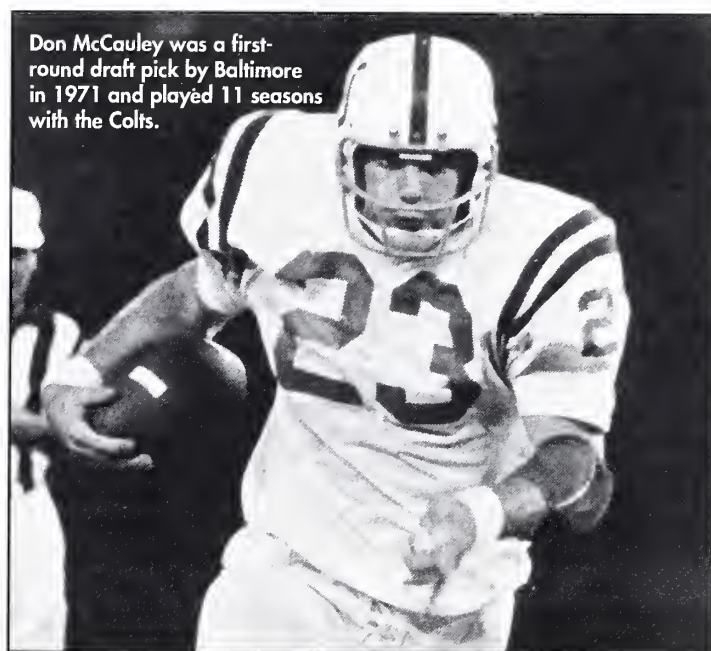

An outside linebacker from 1994-97, Simmons was a major contributor in Carolina's rise to the Top 10 in his final two seasons. A first-round draft selection of the Cincinnati Bengals, Simmons had 317 tackles over his last three seasons. He was named first-team All-America as a senior by the Associated Press, Walter Camp Foundation and Football News and was a first-team All-ACC selection and second-team A.P. All-America as a junior. The New Bern, N.C., native finished his career with 36 tackles for losses and 11 sacks.

Tar Heel Sports Network

This season, Tar Heel Sports Marketing, a division of VilCom, will begin a new five-year agreement to bring the action to Tar Heel fans across the state. A great Carolina tradition continues.

Even when Carolina fans can see the Tar Heels play with their own eyes, they insist on looking with their ears at the action by tuning in Woody Durham and Mick Mixon on the Tar Heel Sports Network.

One of the most respected and acclaimed radio networks of its kind in the country, the Tar Heel Sports Network will again bring the excitement of Carolina football to life on an outstanding list of stations.

The radio network is just part of Tar Heel Sports Marketing's job. A division of the VilCom, the new name for The Village Companies of Chapel Hill, Tar Heel Sports Marketing is a full-service marketing agency overseeing the production and sales of all University of North Carolina football and basketball media entities, including television, internet, and print and retail products.

If you are tuned into a Carolina game on the radio, listening to the head coaches on their radio call in shows on Thursday nights or watching game highlights on "Inside Carolina Football" on Sunday, reading the official game program, or clicking onto Goheels.com on the Internet, reading Carolina Court magazine, listening to ACC Hotline on Tuesday nights, you are in touch with Tar Heel Sports Marketing.

Vilcom, producers of the Tar Heel Sports Network since 1975, began producing Carolina game program seven years ago and is beginning the sixth year as multi-media rights holder.

Woody Durham is beginning his 28th year as the "Voice of the Tar Heels." A native of Mebane, N.C., Durham grew up in Albemarle, N.C., and began his broadcasting career with WZKY Radio at age 16. He graduated from UNC in 1963 with a degree in Radio, Television and Motion Pictures.

Durham and Head Coach Carl Torbush give fans an opportunity to phone in and talk with the Coach every Thursday evening during the football season on the "Carl Torbush Live" call in show.

Durham also will visit with Coach Torbush on "Inside Carolina Football," a daily five-minute program featuring conversations with the Tar Heels' Head Coach. Both of these shows are heard on stations throughout North Carolina and beyond.

"Inside Carolina Football with Carl Torbush", hosted by Durham, is a half-hour television program seen each week on a network of stations in North Carolina and on cable networks throughout much of the United States. The show features highlights of the previous game, interviews with current and former Tar Heel players and a preview of upcoming action.

In 1981, Durham was named vice president and executive sports director at Tar Heel Sports Marketing. Since taking over play-by-play duties in September, 1971, he has become a permanent fixture behind the microphone during Tar Heel football and basketball games. Durham has been named North Carolina Sportscaster of the Year 10 times.

Woody and his wife of 35 years, Jean, are parents to two sons, Wes and Taylor. Wes, 32, is in his fourth year of play-by-play duties for Georgia Tech. Taylor, 25, is an account executive with WSTP Radio in Salisbury, NC. Both are graduates of Elon College.

Mixon is in his tenth year as color analyst and production manager and his fourth as a local producer of the Carl Torbush TV Show. A Chapel Hill native, Mixon graduated from UNC in 1980 with a degree in broadcast journalism. He was named vice president in 1996.

Mixon came to the Tar Heel Sports Network in 1989 from Columbia, S.C., where he was sports director at WIS Radio. He also has served as play-by-play voice of the Maine Guides of the Class AAA International League and as sports director of WCGC Radio in Belmont, N.C.
